-Among the many expedients adopted by sutlers to sell contraband liquor to oldiers, one is exceedingly novel. They drop a couple of peaches into a bottle of whisky, and sell the compound for "pickled peaches." A more irreverent expedlent is to have a tin can made and painted like a hymn book, and labeled, "The Bosom Companion."

An expedition, consisting of two gun boats, was prepared on Friday, in Beant. junction of the James and Warwick Rivers, about five and onchalf miles above Newport News. The Cambridge led the way and steamed without interruption untill reaching the point designated, where the white tents of the enemy could be plainly discerned on a low wooded triangular piece of land. This was near midnight.

Almost before the Rebel pickets could give the alarm, the gun boats were in position, and had opened fire upon the camps, the guns following each other in vapid succession

No effectual resistance was made by the enemy, and the discharges were continued for more than an hour, at which the camps appeared nearly deserted.-The darkness of the night and the want of sufficient men prevented a landing being effected.
