Cause of Fertility—Amount of Cropsi Produced—Practical Evidence.

it is certainly one of the most extensive fertile tracts, in an almost level position, and suitable condition for pleasant farming that we knew of the ideas farme apparently just as producibly productive as when first cleared of forcet fifty or a bundred years ago.

The geologist would soon discover the cause of this continued fertility. The whole country is a marine deposit, and all through the soil we found evidences of calcateous mari, showing manydiathet forms of ancient-shells, of the teritary formation: and this marly substance is acattered all through the soil, in a very comminated by my in plants as the farmer desires to cultivate.

Mari, in all its forms has been used to fertilize crops in England, from the time it was occupied by the Romans; and in France and Germany a maribed is counted on as a valuable bed of manure, has can be dug and carted and spread over the field. How much more valuable then it must be when found already mixed through the soil, where new particles will be turned up and exposed, and transformed to the owner's use every time he stire the sarth.

idered in good arable condition.—Ep.1

In other cases the corn crop of last year was followed with oats this season, not yet threshed, but will average, probably forty to fifty bushels. Sweet potatoes, beans, mellons, and in fact, all vegetables, as well as young peach and other fruit trees planted this year, show very plainly that this long neglected tract of land should remain so no longer, and there is now a strong probability that it will not; for under the anapices of Mr. Landis, it will be divided into small lots, with roads located to accommodate all—the surveyor is now busy at this work—and all purchaeers will be required to build neak comfortable houses, and either fence their lots in uniformity, or agree to live without fence, which would be preferable, by which means a good population will be secured who will establish churches, schools, stores, milks, machine shops and homes—homes of American farmers, auctionated by gardens, orchards, fields and comforts of civilized life.

If any one, from any derangement of business, is desirous of changing his pursuits for life, or who is from any cause desirous to find a new location and cheap home in the country, and who may read and believe what we have truly stated, he will do well to go and see for himself what may be seen within a two hours ride of Philadelphia.

VINELAND. TO ALL WANTING FARMS.

New Settlement of Vineland. A REMEDY FOR HARD ITMES. Bare Opportunity in the Best Market, and Dalightful and Healthful Climate in the ion. Only thirty miles south of Phile delphia on a railroad; being a rith heavy soil, and highly productive wheat land; Amo the best in the Garden State of New Jersey. T CONSISTS of $9,000 acres of GOOD land, divided to farms of different sizes to suit the parchaser—fro acres and upward—and is soid at the rate of from Men to twenty dollars per acre for the farm land, pays e one-fourth cash, and the balance by quarter-yearly easilments, with legal interest, within the run of lose are.

THE SOIL Is, in great part, a rich clay loam, suitable for WA and Polatoes—also a dark and rich sandy loam for corn, sweet-potates, tobacco, all kinds at wand root crops, and the great variety of fruit. ries, melons and other fruits, best adapted to the Phila-delphia and New York markets. In respect to the soft and crops there can be no mistake, as visitors can exam-ing both, and none are expected to buy before so doing, and fluding these statements correct—under these cir-cumstances, unless these statements were correct, there would be nouse in their being made. It is considered The Best Fruit Soil in the Union. [Secreport of Solon Robinson, Esq., of the New York Tribune, and the well known agriculturist, William Par-ty, of Cinnaminson, New Jersey, which will be furnished inquirers.]

THE MARKET. By looking over a map the reader will perceive that it enjoys the bast market in the Union, and has direct communication with New York and Philadelphia factor aday, being only thirty-two miles from the latter. Produce in this market brings double the price that it does in locations distant from the cities. In this location it can be put into the market the same morning it is gathered, and for what the farmer sells he gots the highest price; whilst groceries and other articles he purchases he gets at the lowest price. In the West, what he sells brings him a pittance, but for what he buys he paye two prices. In locating here the settler has many other advantages. He is within a few hours, by railroad, of all the great cities of New England and the Middle States. He is near his old friends and associations. He has school for his children, divine service, and all the advantages of civilination, and he is near a large city.
