"What do you think of it?" every man asks of his neighbor, and then both break out into a laugh. At first it was regarded by many as one of the President's jokes. We were asked by scores of people last evening if what we had printed as Mr. Lincon's Message was all really genuine—whether we had not, "just for fun," interpolated some of those Buhsbyisms and ridiculous sentences in it. "Can it be possible," our interrogators would ask, "that a President of the United States is capable of putting forth such stuff in a grave State paper?"

"Yes," we replied, "it is quite possible, "our paper?"

"Yes," we replied, "it is quite possible, which beautiful possible, "it is quite possible, which is man chosen by a party which beautiful possible of the straight Republican titles would not commence, or cause any latter time, against the officers of any loyal State or the unit of the officers of any loyal State or the United States, for causing his arrest or the officers of any loyal State or the United States, for causing his arrest or imprisonment."

—A provincial New Hampshire Republican to such a state in the army—which is now becoming so popular, is as its name to such a stuff in a grave State putting forth such stuff in a grave State paper?"

And, determined to satisfy us that we had misprinted the document, our anxious. inquirers referred us to the closing sentences of the message. These, they were certain, we had added for the purpose of throwing ridicule upon that extremely 'honest" individual whose name is appended to the document under consideration. "We say we are for the Unionthe world will not forget that we say this. We know how to save the Union. forever bless Abraham Lincoln!" Serious as the situation of affairs is, and serious as we ought to be and feel, in refdocument with seriousness. Its ridiculabove. lous, farcical character forbids. It is beneath dignified criticism, and like the broad farce that usually succeeds the saddest tragedy, it excites a laugh in spite of any tears of the previous moment. The antics of an ape on the roof of a burning house, fired by his own mischief, could not be more ludicgous than Mr. Lincoln's efforts to escape the damning consequences of his own destructive policy; and while we deplore the threatened destruction of the noble fabric, we cannot but smile at the comic distress of the unfortunately elevated animal, though it does so strongly resemble a man!-Leader.

Some years ago, Dave Wilmot, referring to the approaching contest for President in 1856, and seeming to fear the Republican candidate (Fremont) would be defeated, expressed his intentions as , follows: "I'll be d _____d if I don't join the par-tv that I think will send the country to HELL THE QUICKEST." Fremont was heaten, Wilmot joined the abolition party which promises to do the job for Wilmor within four years. But the white folks in Daye's district voted at let him go to the hot hole if he wanted to, but were bound to save the country, if repudiating him at this late day would do any good. Alas! poor Dave,—you can't be reflected Senator.

By looking over a map the reader will perceive that it enjoys the best market in the 1 mon, and has direct communications with New York and Philadelphia twice a day, being only thirty-two miles from the latter. Produce in the market brings double the price that it does in locations disjant from the cities. In this location it can be put into the market the size morning it is gathered, and for what the larner sells he gets the highest price; whilst groceries and other articles he purchases he gets at the lowest price. In the West, what he sells brings him a pittance, but for what he buys he pays two prices. In locating here the settler has many other advantages. He is within a few hours, by railroad, of all the great cities of New England and the Middle States. He is near his old friends and associations. He has school for his children, divine service, and all the advantages of civilization, and he as near a large city. THE MARKET.

Why the Property has not Been Settled Be-This question the reader naturally asks. It is because it has been heid in large tracts by ismilles not disposed to sell, and being without railroad facilities they had few inducements. The railroad has just been opened they the property this season, for the first time.

Visitors are shown over the land in a carriage, free of expense, and afforded time and opportunity for thorough investigation. Those who come with a view to settle, should bring money to secure their purchases, as locations are not held upon refusal.

Ac.—By ROBT. J. CULVERWELL, M. D. author of the Green Book. Ac.

The world-renowned author, in this admirable lecture clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of self-abase may be effectually removed without medicine, and without dangerous aurical operations, bongies, instruments, rings, or certifalls pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, can cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically. This lecture will prove a bonn to thousands and thousands.

Sent underseal, in a plain envelope, to any address, on the receipt of six cents, or two postage stamps, by addressing.
