THE FARMER'S SONG.

Weenry not the princely man, In city or in town, Who wonders whether the Pumpkin vines. Run up the hill or down: We care not for his marble balls.

We would not own his sordid heart For all his wealth twice told. We are the favored ones of earth, We breathe pure air each morn, We sow-we reap the golden grain-We gather in the corn;

Nor yet his heaps of gold:

We toil-we live on what we earn; And more than this we do. We hear of starving millions round. And gladly feed them, too. The lawyer lives on princely fees.

Yet drags a weary life; He never knows a peaceful hour-His atmosphere is strife. The merchant thumbs his yardstick o'er, Grows haggard at his toil-He's not the man God meant him for-Why don't he till the soil?

The doctor plods through storm and cold, Plods at his patient's will': When dead and gone, he plods again To get his lengthy bill. The printer (bloss his noble soul!) He grasps the mighty earth, And stamps it on our welcome sheet,

We sing the honor of the plough, The honor of the press-Two noble instruments of toil. With each a dower to bless: The bone and nerve of this fast age, True wealth to human kind-One tills the over generous carth, The other tills the mind.

To cheer the farmer's hearth.

The individual who penned the following must have had some conception of the evil of Slander, or he could not have depicted it so horribly:

"Twas night, and such a night as earth | will be sold at prices that will ne'er saw before! Murky clouds veiled the fair face of the heavens, and gave to pitchy darkness a still deeper dve! The moon had fled; the stars had closed their Don't Forget The Place. eyes, for deeds were doing which they dare not look upon. For a time the pure streams became stagnant and ceased to flow! The mountains trembled; the fortheir fragrance and withered; all nature became desolated; in glee serpents hissed, harpies soreamed, and satyrs revelled beneath Upas; domestic bessts crept near to the abodes of man; the lion relinquished his half eaten prey; the tiger ran howling to his lair, and even the hyena quitted his repast over dead men's bones. Man alone of all earth's creatures slept, but sleep, as if in the bodings of some halfknown calamity, sat brooding over his mind. Aspiring youth would mutter of blasted hopes long cherished; young, fair and gifted maidens would start, and trembling, weep their injured innocence. Mothers too, would lie half awake and press the trembling nurslings to their preasts, and breathe to heaven another prayer for their protection. On such a night, hell yawned and gave to earth a SLANDERER!"

HOW THE ELECTIONS ARE REGARDED BY rne Union Men of the South-That old staunch Union organ of Kentucky Louisville Journal, thus comments on the election in New Hampshire:

The result of the New Hampshire election is another cheering evidence of the overwhelming change in the public sentiment, and a satisfactory assurance that the the pockets of the people with irredeema- conservative feelings in the Eastern States. will soon crush out the radicalism which HATS and CAPS, BOOTS and SHO has brought this country to the verge of ruin. If the news of this important victory could be scattered through the armies of the rebels, and they would calmly reflect upon its significance, it would do more to prompt then to return to law and order and the sway of a government which so peacefully and effectually corrects the violence of party or the ultraisms of faction, by the operation of its elective system than any words of kindly exhortation or any constrained appliances of government power. In contemplating this splendid triumph, which shows the real majority over seven thousand, which but for the unfortunate lamination of the constituent party elements in the Granite State, would | S. S. HARTWELL, B.A. Principal, have elected a conservative Governor, the true friends of the Union have abundant reasons for congratulation.

Democratic victories are what the Union men of the South desire. This show the necessity of a thorough organization of the Constitutional Union party everywhere, to co-operate with our friends in the Border States in behalf of the restoration of the old order of things.

Poor DAN .- At a meeting of the Radical League on Saturday last the speakers were domiciled in the Everett House, and as their names were called they came forward, a badge of gaudy ribbons was pinned on their breasts, and they were marched, with an escort of officers of the society, to the stands designated for them. REPORT OF SOLON ROBINSON OF THE NEW-YORK TRIBUNE, VINELAND SETTLEMENT.

The following is an extract from the report of olon Robinson, published in the New York Tribune, in eference to Vineland. All persons can read this report Advantages of Farming near Home-Vineland-Remarks upon Marl-Soil, its great Fertility-The Cause of Fertility-Amount of Crops Produced-

Practical Evidence.

It is certainly one of the most extensive fortile tracts in an almost level position, and suitable condition for pleasant farming that we know of this side of the western prafries. We found some of the oldest farms apparently just as profitably productive as who first cleared of forest fifty or a hundred years ago.

The geologist would soon discover the cause of this continued fertility. The whole country is a marine deposit, and all through the soil we find evidences of calcareous substances, generally in the form of indulated calcareous mark, showing many distinct forms of ancient shells, of the tertiary formation; and this mariy substance is scattered all through the soil, in a very comminated form, and in the exact condition most easily assimilated by such plants as the farmer desires to cultivate.

Mari, in all its forms has been used to fertilize crops in England, form the rimett was occupied by the Romans; and in France and Germany a marl bed is counted on as a valuable bed of manure, that can be dug and carted and spread over the field. How much more valuable then it must be when found already mixed through the soil, where new particles will be turned up and exposed, and transformed to the owner's nee every time he stirs the earth.

Maying then satisfied our minds with the cause, they it must be when found already mixed through the soil, where new particles will be turned up and exposed, and transformed to the owner's nee every time he stirs the earth.

Having then satisfied our minds with the cause, they will not be excited with wonder at seeing indubitable evidence of fertility of a soil, which in our situations, having the same general characteristics, or at least, appearances, is entirely unremunerative except as its productiveness is promoted by its artificial fertilization.

A few words about the quality and value of this land for cultivation, of which we have some strong proof.

Our first visit was to William D. Wilson, in Frauklin township, Gloucester county, who parchased some eight miles north of Milville, about three years ago, for the purpose of establishing a steam mill, to work ap the timber into lumber, to send off by the new railroad, as well as the frewood and coal, for which he built a track one mile and a half long. He also furnished sixteon miles of the road with ites, and had no doubt made the mill profitable, though dits main object was to open a farm, having become convinced that the soil was very valuable for estivation. In this he has not been disappointed as some of his crops prove. For instance, the second time of cropping, 306 bushels of potatoes on one acre, worth 66 cents a burkel in the field. This year, seven acres, without manure, produced 355 bushels of oats. It one field, the first crop was potatoes, platted among the roots, and yielded 75 bushels. The potatoes were ding, and wheat sown; and yielded 16 bushels; and the subble turned under and sown to buckwheat which yielded 337; bushels, and then the ground was sown to clover and timothy, which gave as a first crop 2% tons per acre.

The fertilizers applied to these crops were first, ashes from clearings; second, 225 pounds of superphosphate of lime; third, 200 nounds Peruving mano; and then 50 bushels of slaked line has been spread upon the clover since it was moved, and travend in for wheat.

At Mary Barr

season, and last spring plowed once, with one "poor old mag," and planted with course, who was the magnetic planted with course, who was the magnetic planted with course of the magnetic planted with planted with the soft was not unfertile, even unadded by clover, which had feel the corn, because the truck patch of Limbers, grown for marketing. So we were satisfied that the soft was not unfertile, even unadded by clover, which had feel the corn, because the "truck patch" had not been been the land in a carrieg. They of the direct that the soft was not unfertile, even unadded by clover, which had feel the corn, because the truck patch of Limbers of the corn, because the street of the plots of the magnetic planted with the soft was not unfertile, even unadded by clover, which had feel the corn, because the street of the plots of the miles north of Millville, from half to a mile coat, of the critical of signs of the forest.

Our next visit was the large farm of Andrew Sharp, from the soft was north of Millville, from half to a mile coat, of the critical of t ises more, of a very plumpgrain, and the straw is very heavy.

We went over the stubble and found the clover and timothy, from seed sowed last spring, on the wheat without harrowing, looking as well as we ever saw it upon any old cultivated farm, and with a little work done in the winter to clear off some roots and rotten stumps, and setting stakes to mark permanent ones, we will be able to cut the crop next year with a mowing machine and we will guarantee two tons pur acre, if he will give the overplus if it overruns the estimate.

Part of the land was planted with potatoes for a first crop, which yielded 120 busilels per acre. It was then limed with fifty bushels per acre, and seeded with wheat and clover, yielding an "average of over 15 bushels per acre, and the clover now looks beautiful.

Other portions have been planted with corn as a first crop, which yielded 30 bushels of yellow flint torn, and a second crop 40 bushels, and a third trop, treated to 150 pounds of guano, we are sure no one would estimateless than 40 bushels per acre.

The reader will recollect the writer is now speaking of lands perfectly new, and which can exarcely be considered in good arable condition.]

In other cases the corn crop of hist year was followed with oats this season, not yet threshed, but will average probably 40 or 50 bushels. Sweet potatoes, beaus, melons, and in fact, all vegetables, as well as young peach and other fruit-trees planted this year, show very plainly that this long neglected tract of land should remain so no longer, and there is now a strong probability that will not; for under the auspices of Mr. Landis, it will be entinto small lots, with road slocated to accommodate all-the surveyor is now busy at this work—and all purchasers will be required to build neat, comfortable houses, and homes—homes of American farmers, surrounded by garden's orchards, fields and conforts of civilized life.

If any one, from a derangement of bushees, desires to change his pursuits for life, or who is from any cause desirous t

THE MARKET. By looking over a map the reader will perceive that it enjoys the best market is the Union, and has direct communication with New York and Philadelphia twice a day, being only thirty-two miles from the latter. Produce in this market brings double the price that it does in locations distinct from the cities. In this location it can be put into the market the same morning it is gathered, and for what the farmer sells height set price; whilst proceries and other articles he purchases he gets at the lowest price. In the west, what he aells brings him a pittance, but for what he buys he may stwo prices. In locating here the settler has many other advantages. He is within a few hours, by railrond of all the great cities of New Empland and the middle states. He is near his old friends and associations. He has school for his children, divine service, and all the advantages of eivilization, and he is near a large city.

THE CLIMATE is delightful; the) winters being salubrious and open, whilst the summers are no warmer than in the North. This location is upon the line of latitude with northern visibility.

The location is upon the line of fatitude with normern Virginia.

Persons wanting a change of climate for health, would be much benefitted in Vineland. The mildness of the climate and its bracing influence, makes it excellent for all pulmonary affections, dysneisla, or general debility Visitors will notice a difference in a few days. Chili and fevers are unknown.
