TO EXTRICATE HOBSES EASILY FROM A BURNING BUILDING .- In removing horses from a stable on fire, considerable dfliculty is always experienced in consequence of them. If, however the harness and trappings be thrown over draught horses, they may be brought out as easily as on ordi nary occasious. If time permit, substitute the bridle, &c.; for the halter, and thus the the "grind-out" principle while they darsnimal's fears will be completely removed. Self-possession in the person that is employed is indispensable.

A GOOD SUGGESTION .- We' would suggest that in each township and borough of this county some one take a list to each man liable to military duty and ask him whether he be in favor of the continuance of this war; and of all those who say they are let them put down their names. Then when the draft is to be made, let those be drafted who want war. This would give others in Ohio, abducted from the State general satisfaction, for those who wanted war could have it, and those who did not want it could stay at home in peace. We say, then, let the administration make a draft upon this principle and it will prove to be the most satisfactory measure this administration ever put into execution .---
