SHOOTING AFFRAY.—About 2 o'clock on Tuesday morning, April 5th, a shooting affray occurred at the Depot, in which two men named Christopher Myers and George Miles were shot. Miles died in a few moments, and Myers, it is thought, cannot recover. It appears that the two had been drinking pretty freely the night before and met James Robinson, a mechanic, formerly of this place, with whom Miles had a fight in which he was worsted. About two o'clock they again met at the Depot, when Myers and Miles both pitched on him and mauled him severely. As soon as Robinson could get clear of them, he drew a pistol and shot them both.-Biug. Rep.

-The Washington Chronicle, of April 13th, contained the following rather unusual language for an abolition organ:

"The flooding of the country with paper money must cease, else it will continue to raise prices and sweep away values in a financial deluge."
