Is a Resurrectionist Around? Mr. Editor:—In your column of local affairs please notice the finding of a box, containing the remains of a human body...

These remains are still there, some in the box, and some lying around loose. Ought not the authorities to take notice of the matter? The box resembles one that a certain nice young man, connected with our "first families," was seen preparing...

Allow me to suggest another thought: We have in our borough a Burying Ground; and oh, what dear departed ones are there buried. How many fathers, mothers, brothers, sisters and dear children taken to the hill-side, and their precious dust left to mingle with its mother earth...

Sad Affair. On Thursday night, the 12th inst., a party of young men went to the house of Charles F. Babcock, near Stevensville, Bradford Co., who had been lately married, for the purpose of giving him a serenade, or as it is generally termed, a "horning."

Melvin White, forty-four slugs in the legs—dangerous. J. B. Stevens, leg, severe. Clarence M. Platt, hand, arm and groin, severe. E. A. Rockwell, leg, slight. Stevens and White now lie in a critical condition...

Local Items. We will thank our readers for a note of all occurrences in their localities or within their knowledge. If they do not care to write communications for publication, let them send us a brief statement of any thing of interest in their locality...

—The act introduced into the State Legislature to erect the town of Saratoga and a large territory into a "City," failed to receive the signature of the Governor.
