OH G. Packbiting.

The editor of the Examiner & Chronicle says The longer I live the more I feel the importance of adhering to the follow-ing rules, which I have laid down for myself, in relation to such matters:

1. To hear as little as possible what is to the prejudice of others.

2. To believe nothing of the kind until I am absolutely forced to.

3. Never to drink in the spirit of one who circulates an ill report. 4. Always to moderate, as far as I can, the unkindness which is expressed toward others. 5. Always to believe that if the other side were heard, very different accounts would be given of the matter.

The Typo and the Devil.

The lawyer-editor of a country paper who wrote a very "blind hand," was frequently annoyed by compositors inquiries concerning words which they could not decipher. One day a compositor, as little acquainted with the disposition of the editor as he was with the hand-writing, entered the asnotum, and, holding the copy before his eyes, inquired what a certain crooked mark stood for. The editor did not wish at that time to be interrupted, and exclaimed, "Go to the devil."

The compositor retired, not to his Satanic majesty, but to the composing room, When the editor read his proofs he had the pleasure to see a line in his leading editorial read:

"He [Mr. Webster] will, in all probability, go to the devil." The copy was produced and the crooked mark was, "be nominated."

-When Gov. Andrew sent the Massachusetts girls to the Pacific coast to supply the want of femininity in that region, he said they need not marry immediately, but could find plenty to do in teaching the little children. Anna Dickinson, [the sly puss,] "cau't see it." She says : "where the children are to come from out of a population of ten thousand men was more than she could imagine; but, she thought that probably Governor Andrew, being a man, might be able to do so. She had the Governor there.

Empress of France, Empress of Austria, Empress of Russia, Empress of Brazil, Queen of Spain, and Queen of Bavaria.

The Grover & Baker Elastic Stitch Sewing Machines re superior to all others for the following reasons: They sew direct from the spools, and require no rewinding of thread.

2. They are more easily understood and used, and less liable to derangement than any other machines. 3. They are capable of executing perfectly, without change of adjustment, a much greater variety of work than other machines.

4. The stitch made by these machines is much more firm, elastic and durable, especially upon articles which require to be washed and ironed, than any other stitch. 5. This stitch, owing to the manner in which the nuder thread is inwrought, is much the most plump and beautiful in use, and retains this plumpness and beauty even upon articles frequently washed and ironed until they are worn out.

6. The structure of the seam is such that, though it be cut or broken at intervals of only a few stitches, it will neither open, run, or ravel, but remains firm and durable qurable.

7. Unlike other machines, these faston both ends of the seam by their own operation.

8. With these machines, while silk is used upon the right or face side of the seam, cotton may be used upon the other side without lessening the strength or durability of the seam. This can be done on no other machine, and is a great saving upon all articles stitched or made up with silk.

9. These machines, in addition to their superior merits as instruments for sewing, by a change of adjustment, easily learned and practiced, execute the most beautiful and permanent embroidery and ornamental
