The Democratic Party and the Future.

There is a strong effort being made at the present time to induce the people to look upon the Democratic party as deas a means of restoring peace and good faction are earnestly engaged in this movement. All their papers, from the Tribune to the smallest sheet in the remote West talk in the same strain upon this subject. In the South especially this view is being urged with great zeal and earnestness by the missionaries of the dominant organization of the nation .-They declare that if an early settlement of our national difficulties is desirable, if the Southern States claim rehabilitation and representation, the path toward those ends lies through an acceptance of the theories of the Radical faction, and an but false theory of those who father this submitted to a vote of the people. scheme for uprooting the Democratic party is that "the Democracy are so odious, never submit to their restoration to power." "The country," here, signifies that portion of the Radicals who think with the Democrats on the issues now agitating the land. It is assumed that there are enough of them, by voting with the fatter, to exile the former from power and place. But the leaders of the dominant or anti-republican party declare that it faction lead them further on along the path which leads inevitably to rain, than the following is one: win a triumph under the Democratic name.

friends of republicanism upon a common ground and for a common purlaw of the land, to restore the States to their old places in the Union, to repeal the obnoxious military reconstruction tions of the Union representation in the councils of the nation. This is a platform on which all true friends of the Republic can certainly unite. As to minor details, there may and will be differences of opinion. Local causes may induce the people of the East and the West to desire that the tariff and revenue laws should be presented in certain aspects, but on the great fundamental question of restoration, they need not be separated, if they will take counsel of their patriotic impulses, and not lend themselves to the arts of the demagogue, or the uncertain guides of passion and prejudice.

How can such a ppion of patriotic men, for such a high and holy purpose, be effected, but upon the platform and thro' the agency of the Democratic party What other organization can they trust What other party can present such a record of devotion to the great fundamen tal principles upon which the hopes of the Republic rest? The Radical organization has thrown overboard the Constitution, and is drifting upon the tide of popnlar passion. They can promise nothing Universal Liberty and Impartial Suffrage, for the future but discord, contention and anarchy. The Senate, on Friday last, voted Negroes to Vote in all the States. We cut the following from Forney's

"If Congress should remain in session another month, the bill introduced by Mr. Sumner, yesterday, providing that 'every citizen shall have the right to vote in every State or Territory, at all elections for Federal, State, or local officers of every kind, upon equal terms, without regard to race or color, all State or Territorial constitutions or laws to the contrary funct, a thing of the past, as having ful-filled its mission, and no longer necessary has been the change in favor of universal suffrage, that if the same bill had been ofgovernment in the country. have long been convinced that the Revolutionary party intend to force negro suffrage on all the States in violation of their constitutions. This is part of their plan, and has been from the first.

Forney made a speech in Doylestown last fall, in favor of Geary, in which he touched on negro suffrage. He said there could not be any issue of this kind in the contest, for negroes cannot vote in Pennsylvania without a change in the Constituabandonment of the principles of the Dem- tion, which could not be altered before ocratic party, and the organization foun- 1869, and that whenever the Constitu- vance, and death to stand still. What Sumner thought of Military Government two Years Ago.

The Lancaster Intelligencer calls attention to the fact that Charles Sumner, who is now dissatisfied with the military despotism established over the Southern States, because it is too lenient to suit would be far better to let the Radical him, during the session of 1865 offered in Congress a series of resolutions, of which trated in the course of the radical manuwould be astonishing were not the country so used to gross inconsistencies on the part of the Radical leaders. They seem to take particular delight in turning political somersaults. Because they have zealously advocated a measure to-day is State officers: no reason why they should not as enthusiastically advocate the reverse to-morrow. Being destitute of true statesmanship, and utterly regardless of anything except partisan success, they are ready to adopt any expedient, no matter how dangerous and revolutionary, if it promises to insure them a continuance in power. How much longer will the masses continue to follow the lead of these political quacks. who are constantly violating the Constitution, outraging liberty, and endangering all the material, political and social interests of the nation? The enemies of the Democratic party. The enemies of the Democratic party, and of the government it erested and so successfully maintained, take the position that both the government and the party are finally defeated, and can never, therefore call them to an account for their crimes. Let them not flatter themselves too much with this idea. It is true they have suspended the Constitution, and trampled upon the laws, and so also, did "Occasional" letter of the 27th of March, and of the government it erested and so Oliver Cromwell and his party trample that he died soon after. upon the laws of England. Yet those laws, like ours, were carefully constructed in harmony with nature, and had been tested by many years experience. At the time when Cromwell dissolved the long Parliament, the party who loved the old government had not an adherent who was not compelled to silence or driven into ex-

We and yet in a very short time, without any combination, without any preconcerted plans, the whole population of England rose up, drove out the usurpers and restored the constitutional government.

The democratic party in this country has never been driven to such an extremty. Our strength is such that they dare not attempt to silence us. The time is coming when the people will gladly put the government into the hands of the only party which ever could successfully administer it, and the more Mongelism leg islates to prevent this, the more certain will it be. The quarrymen in Portland who voted the Democratic Ticket have been notified by the radical "masters" that their services "will not be needed for a year to come." The result of this movement was that a thousand men threw down their picks and drills, and refused to work until their proscribed comrades were permitted to resume labor, and at latest accounts the quarry work in that town had ceased. "The causes of this defeat are palpable pon the surface, and we shall allude to hem next week. In the meantime New Jersey is rapidly going to the devil on the same track, and unless the Republican leaders open their stupid eyes to the danger in time the party will be past insurance.

-The nineteen months which intervene between now and the Presidential election will witness the decline and fall of a party which has done more mischief, shed more blood, squandered more treasure, kindled more diabolical passions, and inflicted deeper wounds on constitutional government, than any other political party that ever existed in the world.

-Radical organs never weary of telling he people how terribly our soldiers suf fered from "rebel barbarity" whilst prisoners at Andersonville, and their sympathy for those sufferers seem immense. However, one of those Andersonville prisoners was nominated by the President a few days are as Collector of the nort of of the Senate unanimously rejected him.
