Horace Greeley is manuscript is no The Montrose Democrat toriously bad, and it is said to require a printer of no ordinary skill to set up his copy," if he happens to write it in a hurry.

The recent newspaper anecdote of an article headed William II. Seward, which Mr. Greeley had returned to him set up "Richard III.," is fresh in the minds of all: but an occurrence still more funny is related, which happened in the Tribune office some years since.

A compositor had made so many errors in setting "the philosopher's" copy, that it irritated him to such a degree that he wrote the typo a letter, discharging him from further duty. The compositor being utterly unable to decipher the contents of the note on receiving it, took it to the foreman, who explained to him that it expressed that he was not " not a careful man, and Mr. Greely dispensed with his service." The next day he applied for a situation in a large jobbing office in the same street as assistant foreman. The proprietor inquired if he could bring a recommenda-

All I have is a letter from Mr. Greeley," said the young man boldly, producing the document.

The worthy job printer scanned it for some minutes with a perplexed air. H-m-m-careful man-servicessigned H. Greeley"-" yes, that will do;

we will engage you."

And he did, and never learned until two years afterward, that the letter from Mr. Greeley was one of discredit, instead of commendation, as he had supposed.

The reckless course pursued by jority in both branches of the Pennsylvania Legislature, is awakening public attention and earnest comment. The manner in which many bills were passed last session, to say nothing of their questionable character has startled thousands throughout the Commonwealth. The people, everywhere, are demanding reform. They see the absolute necessity of changing the style of legislation. They now look to the Democracy to correct the evil, and, if good men are placed in nomination by the Democratic conventions, hundreds who never before voted our ticketswill rush to its support. In view of this fact, the approaching delegate elec-tions are invested with the greatest importance. The first thing to accomplish is to elect sound and reliable men as our representatives in the several nominating conventions. If this is done, the battle will be an easy one, and the victory will be overwhelming.

Rancid Butter.

We cut from an exchange the following recipe: "To a pint of water add thirty drops (about half a teaspoonful) of liquor of chloride of lime. Wash in this two and a half pounds of rancid butter. When every particle of the butter has come in contact with the water, let it stand an hour or two; then wash the butter well again in pure water. The butter is then left without any odor, and has the sweetness of fresh butter. These preparstand an hour or two; then wash the butations of lime; have nothing injurious in

The same paper says: "We forthwith obtained some of the most rancid butter, and it was bad enough for any stomach of the most rancid butter, and it was bad enough for any stomach of the most rancid butter, and it was bad enough for any stomach of the most rancid butter, and it was bad enough for any stomach of the most rancid butter, and it was bad enough for any stomach of the most rancid butter, and it was bad enough for any stomach of the most rancid butter, and it was bad enough for any stomach of the most rancid butter, and it was bad enough for any stomach of the most rancid butter, and it was bad enough for any stomach of the most rancid butter, and it was bad enough for any stomach of the most rancid butter, and it was bad enough for any stomach of the most rancid butter, and it was bad enough for any stomach of the most rancid butter, and it was bad enough for any stomach of the most rancid butter, and it was bad enough for any stomach of the most rancid butter, and it was bad enough for any stomach of the most rancid butter, and it was bad enough for any stomach of the most rancid butter, and it was bad enough for any stomach of the most rancid butter, and it was bad enough for any stomach of the most rancid butter, and the most ran that had more sensibility than a wagon wheel. We doctored it as per recipe, and when placed on the table along with new, good butter, very able judges could not distinguish which was the new butter.

We were much amused by the folfowing incident related to us by one of Uncle Sam's officials:

While the troops were in Nashville, a little fellow frequently passed headquarters enquiring whether any one desired his services to sharpen knives. The boy was poorly clail, and seemingly very ignorant. One morning when he stopped as usual, Col. B regiment, who prided himself no little on his literary attainments and sharpness of speech, asked the boy "if he thought he could sharpen wits?" The juvenile eyed the elegant uniform an instant and replied, "yes, for them what's got any, but I never think of bringing my sharpner round here!"

Why Davis was not Tried.

The Washington correspondent of the New York World says:

The ultimate release of Jefferson. Davis has been an exciting topic of discussion among the Cabinet; and his present freedom will result in a few days in eliciting the fact that he cannot be tried on the charge of high treason. The Attorney General is said to take this view of the case; and Judge Chase, he holds, is responsible for the result, as the Judge, during the war, decided that the rebels were belligerents, in order to justify the disposal of the blockade runners in prize courts, and beligerents cannot bestried for treasou. To reverse the decision would be to declare all the sales of prize vessels unlawful. It will be remembered that the South claimed such vessels should be the subject of adjudication in Admiralty "courts; but to overcome this objection, Jadge Chase declared they were belligerents. This is the true cause why Jeff. Davis has not been tried.

are superior to all others for the following reasons:

1. They sew direct from the spools, and require no rewinding of thread.

2. They are more easily understood and used, and less liable to derangement than any other machines.

3. They are capable of executing perfectly, without change of adjustment, a much greater, variety of work than other machines.

4. The stitch made by these machines is much more firm, clastic and durable, especially upon articles which require to be washed and ironed, than any other stitch. 5. This sitted, owing to the manner in which the under thread is inwrought, is much the most plump and beautiful in use, and retains this plumpness and beauty even upon articles frequently washed and ironed until they are worn out.

6. The structure of the seam is such that, though it becut or broken at intervals of only a few stitches, it will neither open, run, or ravel, but remains firm and durable.

7. Unlike other machines, these fasten both ends of the seam by their own operation. 8. With these finchines, while silk is used upon the right or face side of the scam, cotton may be used upon the other side without lessening the strength or durability of the scam. This can be done on no other machine, and is a great saving upon all articles stitched or made up with silk.
