A Leaf of History.

Hon. Montgomery Blair, who was Mr. Lincoln's Postmaster General, made a speech at Annapolis, Md., on the 14th inst., in which he gave the following bit of history connected with the passage of the tenure-of-office bill, as far as applies to Cabinet officers:

The clause prohibiting the removal of members of the Cabinet, without the consent of the Senate, was an amendment proposed by Mr. Williams, of Pennsylvania, who is so much in the intimacy of Mr. Stanton that it is certain he acted with Stanton's sanction, if not on his suggestion. When the bill came to the President, Mr. Stanton astonished his colleagues in the Cabinet council by an outburst of his indignation and disgust at its invasion of the rights of the Executive! He proclaimed with vehemence that no man of honor could think of retaining a place in the President's council against his inclinations; declared the law a violation of the Constitution, &c. The President, having several vetoes to write at the time, suggested that Mr. Stanton himself, who was inflamed against the bill, should prepare a veto in consonance with his views. This Mr. Stanton was disposed to decline, saying he was not in the habit of preparing such papers. Mr. Seward volunteered to aid him in the effort, and the paper was committed to the joint labors of these worthy comrades, who, as Mr. Weed has recorded in print, "have been linked together with hooks of steel" ever since he betrayed the counsels of Buchanan to Lincoln's premier, communicating daily by stealth, says Mr. Weed, through a third party.

—What throes, says the speaker, it must have cost Mr. Stanton to surrender his honor, to swallow the indignation and disgust he expressed against the vetoed bill, and try to hold on to office, which he felt it was a violation of the Constitution to do against the will of his Chief, in order to furnish his friends with an article for the impeachment of the President.—It must have been distressing, too, to become the assailant of one (Mr. Johnson) who had harbored him, an enemy, in his bosom so long, against the appeals of his friends; but Stanton is capable of any thing, and to be guilty of this act of perfidy and ingratitude endears him the more to his Radical friends. No baseness that he could be guilty of would astonish us in the least.

The India Famine.

The terrible famine in India has now lasted a year, and the end is not yet. One million five hundred thousand persons have died from starvation and diseases incident to a want of food, and twenty millions of men, women and children have been in a greater or less degree affected by the visitation. In the Province of Orissa one-fourth of the inhabitants have been swept away. Starving wretches have turned cannibals and eaten their own children. A missionary records a case of a mother and son who were found devouring a dead child. A Hindoo is mentioned who, having found the body of an infant in the river, cooked and ate it. Over two millions of dollars were expended last year for the relief of the sufferers, and a much larger sum will be required to meet the demands of the present year.

The Late Conspiracy.

The conspiracy against the President for his impeachment and deposition, by Ashley, by fixing on him complicity with the murder of President Lincoln, as charged by Conover, alias Dunham, is either true or false. If true it should bring to Ashley and his accomplices the severest punishment. It ought to send him to the gallows, for it is a worse crime than Booth committed in murdering Lincoln. He simply took Lincoln's life, but he left his reputation unsullied. If by fraud and forgery they could make Johnson the accessory of Booth, they could destroy his character, and take his life at the same time, for never would the people permit him to live, if he was declared to be guilty. If the charge is not true against Ashley, he has the means of showing it, and he will not be deemed above suspicion until he begins that task. It does not do to say that Conover is the greatest rascal living, a perjurer, convicted of crime. Ashley and others have used him; he was thought to be good enough to swear away other people's lives; and though he is no doubt as bad as they say, yet if there are credible witnesses to sustain him, he cannot now be thrust aside at their convenience. The same demands thorough investigation — Newburyport Herald, (Repub.)

☞ Sweet Oil, according to the American Artizan, is an antidote for poison. It says that "a poison of any conceivable description and degree of potency, which has been swallowed, intentionally or by accident, may be rendered instantly harmless by swallowing two gills of sweet oil. An individual with a very strong constitution should take twice the quantity. This oil will neutralize every form of vegetable or mineral poison with which physicians and chemists are acquainted." We give this as we find it, and hope, for the sake of suffering humanity, that it may prove true.

—Some of the newspapers have recently been commenting upon the magnificent "turnout" used by General Sheridan in New Orleans. The World thinks, however, that the most magnificent "turnout" yet exhibited by the deposed satrap was the one lately furnished him by Andrew Johnson.

☞ By the expiration of Judge Woodward's term next December, Hon. James Thompson will become Chief Justice of the State.

J. Thomas'
Patent Atmospheric
CHURN DASH!
Patented May 7, 1867.

The most Important and Valuable Invention of the 19th Century.

1. This Dasher is superior to any other, by being as simple as the old Dasher, and combining the atmospheric principles therewith, and the Butter Gatherer.
2. It is superior to all others, inasmuch as the same power applied to this in like mechanical operations will make one fourth more reciprocations.
3. It is superior to all others, inasmuch as it produces the Butter in a much shorter time.
4. It is superior to any other, inasmuch as it produces a much better quality of Butter.
5. It is superior to any other Patent Churn, inasmuch as it is 500 per cent. cheaper than any other.

It is well known to Dairymen and others, that Butter is contained in minute globules or sacks, covered with a membrane, and requires the action of air to prepare the covering to be removed by friction. The Scientific American says:

"If cream is dashed against a hard substance, or mashed between bars or rollers, it breaks the globules and becomes oily, by destroying the grain. It should be thrown into currents and counter currents by the action of air, causing a friction by the rubbing of the currents against each other, removing the covering without breaking or bursting the globules."

This is the principle which the inventor of this Dash endeavored to keep in view, and the result shows a much larger yield of Butter obtained in less time than by any other Dasher.

Experiments have proven that any other method except pumping air through the cream, will not penetrate sufficiently to oxygenize all the globules preparatory to concentrating the Butter. Throwing it into the air by clappers or old fashioned Dashers, does not sufficiently expose it to the air to bring out the Butter.

The above Patent Dasher has been purchased for Susquehanna County by the undersigned. The process of churning can be seen at any time, in a Glass Churn, at Baldwin, Allen & McCain's store. An agent will canvass the county soon as possible, to sell the Dasher for individual rights; also township rights will be sold.
