Doings in Congress.

Partisan legislation still continues to House, but as is now foreseen, will pass enjoyed by a free and happy people. theSenate. When Mr. Wood denounced it as " the most infamous act of this most sinfamous Congress," we felt that he uttered a painful truth. But he was mistaken if he thought the lowest depth had back reached; for a baser act, remained to be projected, which has since been agreed upon by a majority of the reconstruction committee. It is no less than this: That the Supreme Court of the United States shall have no power to consider any act which has been done or may be done under authority of the reconstruction acts of Congress! This amounts tirely so far as the great issues of the day. are concerned; and gives the present fanatical majority of a rump Congress, (who do not represent a majority of the voters, as shown by the late elections) an unconstitutional power which they are basely using to fasten negro equality and an absolute despotism upon the country.

Senator Thomas of Maryland is kept out of his seat, to the end that the radicals may pass their unconstitutional acts over the veloes of the President.

J. Y. Brown, a member from Kentucky is excluded from the House, in the same spirit.

When the reconstruction act was on passage in the House, Mr. Wood moved to insert the following as an appropriate title to the bill.

"A bill to absorb the entire authority of the government into the hands of Congress, by which the powers of the Executive, as Commander in Chief of the army and navy, shall be abolished; the power of the Supreme Court to pass upon the validity of the acts of Congress prohibited; Congressional usurpation over ten States established by force of arms, and a new form of government created in place of that which formerly existed under the Constitution of the United States, hereby. declared to be null and void."

How the States will vote for the next President.

With the present exclusion of certain States, it is easy to see how the States will vote for President this year. The electoral college will be made up of 232 votes, requiring 117 to elect. The followfor the Democratic candidate:

Impediments.

Another Stab at the Supreme Court, Allocher State at the Supreme Court. The so-called Reconstruction Committee this mor-hing agreed to report a. bill probibiling the Supreme Court frem exercising juristifetien over any case or ca-ses arising under the reconstruction acts, and dismissing all such cases now pending before that tri-bunal. The object of this measure is too obvious to the any room for dubt as to this disrior designs of those who havor it. The ensement of the "majority bill" passed by the House last week being somewhat in doubt, it is now proposed to deprive the court of its right to decide upun the legality of any act of Congress relating to the reconstruction. There are others which are expected to rote with us, and increase the majority. If the Radicals attempt to cast the Southern negro vote at the point of the bayonet, and count it for their candidate, such policy will cause such a farther reaction as will throw almost the entire North against them, and render their defeat all the more certain and overwhelming. So, in either event, the Democracy will win.
