

The Impeachment Trial.

April 25th, Wm. S. Groesbeck, one of the counsel for the President, made an argument for the defence that caused a marked change in the current of opinion in reference to impeachment.

On the 27th, Thad Stevens and Republican Williams of this State delivered speeches. Thad broke down, and Butler read his violent Larangue, which seemed mainly designed to stir up party hate and bully Senators into voting under the lash.

On the 28th, after Williams finished his piece, and some time had been spent by Butler, Logan and others, in explaining about the Alta Vela guano case, Mr. Everts opened his argument for the defence.

Stantbery's argument was commenced on Friday and continued on Saturday. Manager Bingham will close the general debate, and will no doubt occupy one half of this week.

To those who anticipate a result dependent upon law and testimony, an acquittal is certain; but if partisan politics control the verdict, as impeachers intend, the end is to be judged according to the fears that Radical Senators may entertain of going too far with a party issue.

There has been at all times a possibility that a few Senators would shrink from the crime, and by their interposition avert it. That hope gradually lessens. Intimidation and bribery are alternately used to force a verdict of conviction!

August Belmont, Esq., Chairman of the National Democratic Executive Committee, in his official capacity, urges organization every where. In his letter he expects "such measures to be taken that will bring to our aid in the contest before us, the combined strength of all those who are opposed to congressional usurpation and negro supremacy."

Deficiencies. We have from time to time called attention to the fact that the Radicals have adopted a cunning device for making simple and credulous people believe that they are making some attempt to reduce the enormous expenditures of the government.

The Philadelphia Ledger, a paper which never makes a mistake about such matters, shows up this system of deceit, by giving some figures in relation to estimates and actual expenditures for the War department. It says: "By official records, it is shown that the actual expenses are sometimes several hundred per centum above the official estimates."

General Grant, Secretary ad interim, in his official report last December, estimates the total expenses of the fiscal year at $77,124,807. With a like excess of expenditure over estimates, we may look for the squandering of $250,000,000 to $300,000,000 in the War Department this year.

Lincoln vs. Carpet Bagger.

The following letter written by President Lincoln, Nov. 21st, 1863, is a severe rebuke to the carpet bag politicians now overrunning the South: "DEAR SIR:—Dr. Kennedy, bearer of this, has some apprehension that Federal officers, not citizens of Louisiana, may be set up as candidates for Congress in that State."

All the elections for the past year have shown radical losses; but they cackled over a "gain" in Rhode Island; the truth of which is as hereunder:—The radical majority in Rhode Island this spring shows a loss of 362 on last year. The vote is radical 9,494; Democratic 5,662—majority 3,832. Last year the majority was 4,194.

The Radical Conspiracy.

When the President, accused of acting in violation of law with intent to violate the Constitution, offered to prove that he consulted with and acted under the advice of his Cabinet, both as to the validity of the law and its applicability to the case in question, and that Stanton himself concurred in the advice, and when the Senate rejected this evidence, it was clear what the purpose of the majority was.

There has been at all times a possibility that a few Senators would shrink from the crime, and by their interposition avert it. That hope gradually lessens. Intimidation and bribery are alternately used to force a verdict of conviction!

The New York Tribune has official returns from fifty counties in Michigan, which show a total vote of 166,657, of which paper thinks will be swelled to 180,000 the remaining nine counties. The majority against the negro suffrage constitution, so far, is 39,477, and against liquor prohibition, 18,107.

Radical Inconstancy. The Kansas State Journal, the editor of which is a native of Michigan, and a decided radical, thus comments upon the defeat of negro suffrage in his native state: "My Michigan," has dishonored herself and covered the party with shame and inconsistency in refusing to adopt the new Constitution.

The Tribune of Thursday, has a long article giving its views of what the Impeachment trial means. It admits that it is not a trial in accordance with law, but says it is a political or partisan trial. It then goes on to defend the impeachment on the grounds that the republican party is the "government"; that Andrew Johnson is opposed to said "government";

The Tribune closes its article, with the conviction it says, that the President will be removed from office by the Senate. It conviction fails, it says it "must be because a few minds will have conceived their conclusions from certain legal aspects of the case."

Chicago Redeemed! The election in Chicago on Tuesday resulted in a glorious victory for the Democrats. On Friday, the Chicago Post, in speaking of the election, said that a Democratic victory in that city, would afford the party more comfort and encouragement than any other event that had happened during the past year.

Democratic Victories.

Since the commencement of the Impeachment Farce at Washington, the elections throughout the country have proved a grand series of Democratic victories. Every State, city, town and hamlet is impeaching a fanatical Congress, and giving their solemn verdict, against the unlawful and disgraceful actions of that body.

What is the President's Offense?

Under this head, the Cincinnati Commercial (Black Republican) thus talks: We commend it to the Jacobins: It seems to us that the wrangle over the War Office resolves itself into this: Has the President the right to test the Constitutionality of a law of Congress in the courts? That Mr. Stanton holds the office of Secretary of war, and that he is objectionable to the President on personal and partisan grounds, are mere incidents, having no further relevancy to the question than that Mr. Stanton furnishes occasion for the issue.

—The Chicago Tribune, the chief radical organ of the west, says: "Few persons we imagine, would seriously propose to elect Mr. Wade as President. He has neither the culture, the temper, the education, nor the judgment requisite for the position. No profane attestation will convince any one that he is in any way fitted for it, or that he will add one vote to the ticket."

—The so called southern elections which have been recently perpetrated under military rule and continued for many days allowing mobs of negroes to roam over the country and vote early and often, have generally resulted according to order. But in Georgia, it is reported that the white met. have elected a majority of the Legislature.

President was guilty of an impeachable offense in precipitating the issue resulting in a decision which all must admit is very greatly needed to put an end to the otherwise interminable wrangle over a question of jurisdiction.
