The Montrose Democrat.

E. B. HARLEY, EDITOR.

MONTROSE, PENNA.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 16, 1870.

A New Scheme.

Captain Hall, who, as it was reported, has been soaking for some time to get Sir John Franklin in the Arctic regions, has returned, and is now at Washington, where an application from Congress for the purpose of fitting out a new expedition to the northern part of our hemisphere. Nobody expects that the discovery of the many whose fate is still shrouded in the dark veil of mystery. In 1850, the efforts of eleven vessels were engaged in all of them, failed with the second. Lady Franklin has been sent out since the disappearance of Sir John Franklin, and numerous expeditions have been fitted out by the British Government, but the Arctic Regions embarrassing to discover. Franklin. Mr. Hall passed by a strict party vote. The adoption of Mr. Bingham's amendment was a defeat of the Butler wing of the Democratic party, and they voted with the second party. The act shall not be construed to extend the time for which the official bonds of any officer of the United States have been given as security. Mr. Bingham proceeded to close the debate, arguing in support of his bill. Mr. Woodward spoke against the bill. Mr. Butler then proceeded to close the debate. Mr. Bingham's amendment was adopted, and as amended the bill passed by a strict party vote. The bill now goes to the Senate.

I only pick up and look at I am not anxious to be elected to Congress, but if I am I shall oppose every man who is a political trickster, no matter what party he belongs to. I am in favor of economy in this country, and I am opposed to the present system of taxation. I am in favor of a tariff for revenue, and not for protection. I am in favor of the payment of the national debt, and I am opposed to the issuing of any more greenbacks. I am in favor of the payment of the bonds in coin, and I am opposed to the issuing of any more bonds