Crop and Market Reports.

Wheat-There is no considerable change in the prospects, except what may be caused by the very wet weather in Mich-igan, which, coming in the busiest time been done, too, when wheat was nearly ripe, and the rains could not add a single head to the crop, nor a single kernel to the head, but could only help in making the grain more plump and fine. In many instances, rains that came after wheat harvest had commenced, are said to have largely improved the crop. There is reason to believe that a similar course has been taken in regard to England and France, and that there more improvement in wheat is reported than the advanced state of the crop would admit of the crop the crop of the crop in the crop would admit of the crop would ad

Cooking Fodder.

"I. F." Ogle Co., Ill., asks: I. How much more fuel does it take to cook fodder for cattle with steam than the comder for cattle with the ng as to cook in the ear?...(1.) Practically not much. Theoretically the amount of water in the boiler has to be heated to the boiling point, and this much heat wasted. But this is a small affair when compared with the extra labor required in boiling fodder. The great advantage of steam is, that it is so perfecely manageable...(2.) A cutting machine for speech of Henry Boyd, a colored man, hay, etc., a trough in which to wet the delivered at Carrolton, Mississippi. He hay and mix it with bran or meal, a box has been called the "Black Demonthenes," or chamber in which to confine it while and is evidently a negro of good, hard or chamber in which to confine it while being steamed, and some sort of a steambolier which shall be safe to generate steam in ... (3.) The labor of shelling would be lost, and probably a longer time would be required before complete cookwould be effected. The best way is to put in water enough to cover them, and then introduce the steam through a pipe reaching to the bottom of v barrel, and fire up puntil the water boils. Then withdraw the pipe, cover the barrel, and leave it from 6 to 12 hours before using.

that is wonderful as is enclosed in a single little seed—one grain of corn, one to make her pay taxes, they turn around grain of wheat, one little brown apple seed, one small seed of a tree, picked up, perhaps, by a sparrow for her little ones, the smallest of a poppy or blueshell, or even one of the seeds that are so small that they float about in the air invisible to our eyes. Ah! there is a world of marvel and brilliant beauty hidden in each of the mule. I know five niggers that starved plum to death waiting for that fleese tinv seeds. Botanists suppose that these tiny seeds. Botanists suppose that there are some 100,000 kinds of plants. But has the seed of any one of them ever failed to produce its kind? Has any one ever deceived us? Has a seed of wheat ever yielded barley, or the seed of a poppy grown up into a sunflower? Has a syca-page for the seed of a poppy grown up into a sunflower? Has a syca-page for the seed of a poppy grown up into a sunflower? Has a syca-page for the seed of a poppy grown up into a sunflower? Has a syca-page for the seed of a poppy grown up into a sunflower? Has a syca-page for the seed of a poppy grown up into a sunflower? Jersey Lightning. BY JOSH BILLINGS.

Who it was that invented alchohol, am unable tew tell, without lieing, but it would have biz a fast klass blessing, for the rest ov ns, if he and liker, had both and securing the crop, and in some sections it is said wheat has commenced growing in the shock.

Spring wheat harvest has generally commenced in the Northwestern States. The crop is generally short and thin, but the heads well filled with plump grain. The fine quality will add somewhat to the value of the crop, but will not make the improvement in the yield claimed in many papers. Indeed, there seems to have been a general effort lately to show that the in wheat harvest, is very unfavorable, would have biz a fust klass blessing, for a general effort lately to show that the tring and doktor purposes, and viso for drouth has done but little injury to wheat.

Light rains and local showers in different kouldn't raize a barn, that would stand, improving the wheat crops, and this has been done, too, when wheat was nearly spirits in it, iz no healthier, than common large and attentive audience in the Metl

France, and that there more improvement in wheat is reported than the alvanced state of the crop would admit of.
This may have been more the case in France, where harvesting has for some time been progressing; in England wheat is not so early, giving more chance for improvement, though probably not for so much improvement as is claimed.
