That the Prince Esterhazy was more valuable, but fortasts and workmanship combined, with histor.cal interest, it is not too nuch to say that nothing like it has been offered for sale in England within living memory, if at all. A mere catalogue of the arti-cles shows this. After the war between France and Austria in 1859, and when peace was concluded, the Empress had a head ornament of diamonds worked into the off or of an olive wreath, with black heads introduced in it at regular intervals. The olive branch told its own story of peace, and the sombre beads with which the glittering brilliants were relieved were
