CITY VIOLETS.

Fairest of Spring's fair children, Babes of the flowery year, Violets with dew-sprent eyes, Deep-bucd as midnight skies— What is it yo do here?

Here, in the pent-up city,
Far from your native dell,
Where the finch her nest entwines,
And through the budding pines,
Fitful March breezes swell.

In place of streaming synshine, And free, bud-blowing air, Upon your beauty falls
The shade of prisoning walls,
And gas-light's yellow glare.

Through street and crowded alley,
Your fresh plucked huds are borne,
Laden with pleasant tales
Of woods and ancient vales,
Thick with the white sleethorn.

Ever amid the tumult
Of traffic's conseless hum,
Sweet as a babbling rill,
Or a wild linner's trill,
Your guests of perfume come.

Seem they like fairy voices, Those odor-freighted sighs, Telling of vernal hours, And min-drops in the flowers, New-chaliced from the skies.

And that isint floating fragrance,
Like a low loving word,
Stirs many a heart of care,
As by the passing air
Eolian chords are stirred.

The worn face of the weaver, As he burries to the loom, Grows brighter, while he stays His weary glance to gaze Upon your-purple bloom.

The pale-browed scamstress pauses
A moment, as she feels
Within her room your scent,
That from the road-way pent,
Through her dull casement steals

To thousand, thousand workers
In labor's serried ranks;
Bright breesy thoughts ye bring,
Of meadows white with spring
Green crofts and sunny banks!

And therefore, Spring, fair children;
Babes of the flowery year,
Violets with the dew-spent cycs
Deep hued at midnight skies—
Thrice-welcomed are ye here!

NOBODY'S DARLING.

Little and pallid, and poor and shy
With a downcast look in her soft gray eye,
No scornful toss of a queenly head,
But a dropping bend of the neck instead!
No ringing laugh, and no dancing feet,
No subtle wiles, and abandon sweet
No jewels costly, no garments fine—
She is Nobody's Darling—but mine!

No "Dolly Varden" coquettish airs;
No high-heel boots to throw her down stain.
No yachting jacket and nautical style,
With a sailor's hat that she calls her "tille."
But "Lady" is stamped on her quiet brow;
And she crept in my heart I can't tell how,
Not made to dazzle not born to shine—
Nobody's—nobody's Darling—but mine!

Nobody 8—novel.

No saucy, ravishing girlish grace,
But a settled calm on the sweet pale face;
No sparkling chatter and repartee;
Very silent and still is she.
White and still is my pearl of pearls,
Yet to me she seemeth the queen of girls; Yet to me she seemeth the queen of girls;
Why I love her I can't define,
For she's nobody's—nobody's Darling—but mit

Were riches hera, or a beauty rare,
She would lose her charm, become less fair;
Were rings to shine on those fingers small,
They could not add to their grace at all.
She would learn to smile and to speak by rule,
In the foolish book of Dame Fashion's School
And the world to spoil her would soon combine;
Now she's Robody's Darling—bet mine!

LIFE

The not for men to trifle. Life is brief,
And sin is hero;
Our age is but the falling of a leaf.

A drooping tear.

We have not time to sport away the hours,
All must be carnest in a world like ours.

Not many lives, but only one have we-One, only one.

One, only one.

How sacred should that one life ever be—
That narrow span!

Day after day filled up with blessed toil,
Hour after hour still bringing in new spoil.

Our being is a shadow of thin air, No vacant dream;
Nor fable of the things that never were,
But only seem.
'Tis full of meaning as of mystery,
The strange and solemn may that meaning be. No vacant dream:

Our sorrows are no phantoms on the night, No idle tale; No cloud that ficate along a sky of light,
On summer gale.
They are the true realities of earth,
Priends and companions even from our birth.
