At a late meeting of the New Hamp-At a late meeting of the New Hamp-shire farmers, Hon. Simon Brown, of Massachusetts, stated that he went through the markets of Boston, not long since, and asked every dealer that he could find what proportion of the butter brought into the market was strictly prime, and he was strack with the won-derfal unanmity of the response, "not one pound in ten," or, "not one tub in ten." He stated, a fact not unknown to others, however, that yery much of the butter is consistency, or by which a nutty, fine fla-vor can be given to butter made from poor feed or by uncleanly processes. One circomstance in relation to the best but-ter is not generally understood—it is that very little of it finds its way into open market, and the price at which it is sold is never quoted. Many of the producers of strictly prime butter have regular customers who take it at prices made above the market, and if, by chance, a dealer gets hold of any of it he has customers always waiting for it, and he is moreover very careful that the producer and consumer do not be-come known to each other. Most produ-pers do not appreciate the advantages come known to each other. Most produ-pers do not appreciate the advantages that would result to them from the pro-duction of a better article and the exer-cise of a little more skill in selling it.— Exchange.
