From the New York Observer. Kentuckey Blue Grass Seed.

The Observer, some time since, requested information as to the yield per acre, of Kentucky blue grass seed, Orchard grass seed, and Red-top grass seed, to which W. R. Duncan, of Tonawanda, Ill., responds as follows: Blue grass, in Kentucky, will yield twenty-five or thirty bushels of seed in the chaff, weighing fourteen pounds to the bushel; usually worth there, fifty cents per bushel; This is the condition in which the seed is bought and sold. How much clean seed that would give, I cannot say. I never knew any nothing compared with some others I give, I cannot say. I never knew any nothing compared with some others I one to clean it there, as it is always sown have seen. one to clean it there, as it is always sown as it is gathered. It was fomerly gathered by hand and stripped with hand-boxes; here it is stripped with one horse, attached to little sled, in front of which there is some long teeth made of hoop iron and placed near enough together to strip the seeds off as the horse walks along. The driver rides on the sled, and rakes the seed back as it accumilates on the teeth. What the yield would be in this State, or in the city of Strasbourg. Strasbourg booth, of Branch Co., Mich., writes to the western. Wrat:

"A year ago last spring I hositatingly purchased enough of the seed to sow twenty-five acres, it taking at the rate of four and one-third pounds to the acre, at ohe dollar per pound. I sowed in the mouth of April, on ground prepared for and sowed to wheat. I harrowed the ground, and afterward plastered it. Notwithstanding the dry season, I cut from that ground about forty tons of hay in July. I drew in my barn five tons for it leading; the balance I stacked, and in September thrashed it and got eighty-five bushels of seed. Before cutting I brought in some stalks which measured four feeting this winch measured four feeting thing the my second at the present time. It is free from fuzz and dust, and the stalk, unlike the other clover, remains green after the seed has ripened, and the cattle size it with an avidity that would plainly vindicate its superiority over the common red clover. It is also excellent for the hocy bec, equal that, if not surpassing, the white clover. The first cutting produces the seed, and ufterward excellent pasturage, but if preferred for hay and as seed, it produces two crops. With the knowledge I havo of it, I would not recomend it for light yellow, sandy soil."

Improving Soils by mixing.

Improving Soils by mixing.

There is a large quantity of arable soil accomplishment; it is only where peculiar circumstances exist that the work can be done with profit. Where those conditions do exist, mixing soils is oue of the most paying improvements the farmer can make. We sometimes find in loamy soils where the subsoil is clay, knolls composed of vnite pure and barren sanda "poor, sandy knoll," the owner terms it, composed of variet pure and parren sandar "ready to hear it strike that nour, when a "poor, sandy knoll," the ówner terms it, from which he never gets produce enough to pay for its cultivation, unless ft is heavily manured. Manure on such spots does not last loug, as its virtue either leaches at that hour.

And it is only then that the cock crows. not last long, as its virtue either leaches downard, or is all required to make the crop which finds little else to assist. The best improvement on such knolls, is to cover them with clay soil, which can usually be obtained near by. The best time to do this is with a crop immediately asset to the clay halps form a time to do this is with a crop immediately preceding grass, as the clay helps form a thick turf, and thus makes vegetable matter. Just as frequently do we see clay knolls in lands, mainly feible and easy of tillage. Drouth cuts short the crops on these, and makes it exceedingly difficult to plow. The best ingredient for these is muck, but loamy earth or sand improves them wouderfully. There are investigated them wonderfully. There are many in-tances of this land where mixing soils would be practicable, and prove remuner-ative. On a general scale we cannot afford the expense of mixing soils, but occasionally very decided improvement may be made by bringing up the subsoil the sins of men, in order that their souls with the plow, and mingling it with the top soil; it may be rich in mineral food for plants.—American Rural Home.

HORSES NEED A SABBATH.—At a meeting of the British Association at Dublin, ing of the British Association at Dublin, Mr. Charles Bianconi, of Caspel, read a paper relative to his extensive car establishment, after which a gentleman stated that the Pickford's the great English carrier's, they could not work a horse more than ten hours a dry, and wished to hear Mr. Bianconi's opinion on the subject. Mr. B. stated he found by experience, he could better work a horse for eight miles a day for six days in the week, than six miles a day for seven days. By not workmiles a day for seven days. By not working on Sanday, he effected a saving of twelve per cent. Mr. Biancoui's opinion on this point is of the highest importance for he has over nine hundred horses working sixty-seven conveyances, which daily travel 4,244 miles. It is also the result of forty-three years, experience. Scientific American.

The Pacific Rural Press says: "Take a large head of cabbage strip off the outer leaf, and slip off the bud found at the root of the leaf. Take this bud and simport of the leaf, the sight dist, like any other plant."

The Pacific Rural Press says: "Take ary, "I prayed," said the boy, "as you told me; and I said, 'O' Lord Jesus Christ, if you please, make me a Christain. And He was so kind as to hear me, and to come and live in my heart ever since."

The Great Clock AT• STRASBURG.

This clock is in a great, splendid church what the yield would be in this State, or in New York, I cannot say. I have never seen a piece of grass kept up here for seed; I do not believe our soil quite as well adapted to blue grass as the soil of Kentuckey, yet it does well here when sown with other grass. In fact, it will come in with other grass, whether sown or not. I snppose the seed is in the soil or among the other grasses.

It took these There is a large quantity of arable soil which would be improved and made capable of cheaper cultivation and the production of larger crops, if it could be mixed with earth of a different nature. The farmer knows the defects of his soil. It may be a stiff, heavy clay, and he wishes there were more sand in it; it may be the reverse, and clay the ingredient wanting to perfect it. However desirable in most cases, stands in the way of its accomplishment; it is only where peculiar and it must take wise heads and skilful

Joy of a Missionary—One day the attention of the Rev. J. Williams was attention of the Rev. J. Williams was taken by seeing person get off one of the seats and walk upon his knees into the middle of the pathway, when he shouted, "Welcome, servant of God, who brought light into this dark island." This poor man had lost his hands and and feet by a desease which the natives call Kokooi. When the missionary asked him what he knew of the word salvation, he answered:
"I know about Jesus Christ, who came into the world to save sinners; I know that He is the son of God, and that He died painfully upon the cross to pay for the sins of men, in order that their souls

The most dangerous affections of the Pulmonary Organs yield to its power; and cases of Consumption, cured by this preparation, are publicly known, so remarkable as hardly to be believed, were they not proven beyond dispute. As a remedy it is adequate, on which the public may rely for full protection. By curing Coughs, the forerunners of more serious disease, it saves unnumbered lives, and an amount of suffering not to be computed. It challenges trial, and convinces the most sceptical. Every family should keep it on haid as a protection against the early and unperceived attack of Pulmonary Affections, which are easily met at first, but which become incurable, and too often fatal, if neglected Tender lungs need this defence; and it is unwise to be without it. As a safeguard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of childhood, Cuentry Preronatis invaluable; for, by its timely use, multi-undes are rescued from premature graves, and saved to the love and affection centred on them. It acts speedily and surely against ordinary colds, securing sound and health-restoring sleep.
