Wisconsin Dairymen.

The Pravic Farmer has a report of the Wisconsin Agricultural Convention, from which we make some extracts: "Mr. Leomis said his memory went back forty years. The farmers of Herki-mer were then poor. By hard work, by the women making all the cloth in the house, by always saving and never spending, an average farmer was able to find himself at the end of the year the posses-sor of $100. This was enough to pay the taxes, the interest on the mortgage, and to buy the school books. He remembered when a neighbor came to his father, and told him that he had seen how they were making money over in Fairfield on their cows. He believed he would mortgage his farm and buy cows with the money His father advised him not to. He bough them, however, and died owning 800 acres of land, and a herd of cows that yielded a splendid income. He had also settled six sons on good farms, each of whom had a fine house and good surroundings. Dairying had added millions of dollars to the wealth of Herkimer. He would say he however, with all your breeding, breed milkers. He moved from Herkimer county to the sandy regions on the Wisconsin river. Old friends there advised him not to buy the land he selected, but he purco my me iand he selected, but he purchased it. They said he never could raise grass on it. He found a meadow that had been in grass for twelve years. They told him he must plow it up. Instead of doing so, he sowed clover and plaster. It had been in clover five raise. had been in clover five years; produces well, and will continue to do so for many years. He had succeeded in beating Herkimer county in raising timothy, clover, and red-top. He concluded by saying that you could not make a dairy with cows and grass alone. You must

Mr. John Carswell said the first essential in successful dairying is the man. Until the man was all right everthing else would be wrong. To make money out of the diry, you must not expect to make money out of anything else. You can raise a few hogs, grapes, apples and pears, but the care of them must be secondary. Let a man hesitate before he goes into dairying. If he can not make up his mind to milk twenty cows twice a day, every day in the year, he had better give up the undertaking before he begins it.

grain crops or garden crops of any sort, on ground that has been somewhat exon ground that has been somewhat exhausted by cultivation, the preparation described below will be found very useful. It would improve the mixture, however, to add to the ashes about a peck of good, newly slacked lime, which would bring the potash of the ashes to a caustic state and enable it more speedily to soften and dissolve the bones, which when lime is thus used, need not be necessary in the abscence of quicklime. With its use in this way, and with a sufficiency of good uncleached woed ashes, the bones, which have merely been cracked up with the hammer, may easily be softened. Take one barrel of pure, finely ground bone, and mix with it a barrel of good wood ashes; during the mixing, add gradually three pailsful of water. The heap may be made upon the floor of an outbuilding, or upon the barn floor; and by the use of the hoe, the bone and ashes must be thoroughly blended together. The water added is just sufficient to liberate the caustic alkalies, potash and soda; and these re-act upon the gelantine of the bone, dissolving the little atoms, forming a kind of soap, and fitting it for plants aliment. It must be used in small quan-tities, or in about the same way as the socalled superphosphates. A barrell of this mixture is worth two of any of the commercial fertilizers, and the cost will be but about half as much. If the bone meal and ashes are very dry, four pailsful of water may be required, but care must be exercised not to have it inconveniently moist. It may be ready for use in a week Tell them you saw an old hady of six-andafter it is made. Pure, raw, finely ground sinety reary who has spent her life in

LEATHER BITS.—One of the most cruel things done is putting hard, frozen iron bits into a horse's mouth. It is not only painful, but a daugerous act. Thus a horse's mouth becomes frozen by the cold morning she had sought and found the time causing these freezings to go deeper and deeper, to end at last in extensive ulceration. Thinking and humane people avoid this by first warming the bits; but this is much trouble, and sometimes impossible as in night work like staging to the staging of the source and sometimes impossible as in night work like staging to the source and sometimes impossible as in night work like staging to the source and sometimes impossible as in night work like staging to the source and sometimes and sought and bound morning she had sought and bound the saving she had sought and bound the saving she had sought and bound the saving. possible, as in night work, like staging and physicians' work. Now all this is avoided by getting leather bits so made that no metal substance can touch the flesh. Don't fail to try it.-Chillicothe

The testimony of all the agricultural you. books, of all the scientific agriculturists, is, all of it, in favor of deep plowing and deep cultivation. To plow deep, is to renew the soil by bringing up to the light of the sun and benefit of the air, the rich sun half and benefit of the air, the rich sun half and services which half and services a which half and services are successful.

CHILDREN, BY MARY HOWITT.

Sporting through the forest wide, Playing by the water side; Wandering o'er the healthy fells, Down within the woodland dells, All-among the mountains wild, Dwelleth many a little child.

In the baron's hall of pride, By the poor man's fireside,
'Mid the mighty, 'mid the mean,
Little children may be seen;
Like the flowers that spring up fair,
Bright and countless everywhere!

In the far isles of the main. In the desert's lone domain In the desert's lone domain,
In the savage moutain glen,
Mong the tribes of swarthy men,
Whereso'er the sun hath shone,
On a league of peopled ground,
Little children may be found!

Blessings on them!—They in me Move a kindly sympathy. With their wishes, hopes, and fears, With their laughter and their tears, With their wonder so intense, And their small experience!

Little children, not alone 'Mid its labors and its cares, Free from sorrow, free from strife, In the world of love and life, Where no sinful thing has trod, In the presence of our God! Spotless, blameless, glorified, Little children, ye abide!

John Adams, father of John Quincy Adams, used to say: "When I was a boy, I had to study a Latin grammar; but it was dull, and I hated it. My father was anxious to send me to college, and, therefore, I studied the grammar till I could bear it no longer; and, going to my father, told him I did not like the stady, and asked him for other employment. It was opposing his wishes, and he was quick in his answer. 'Well, John, said he, 'if Latin grammer does not suit you, you may try ditching—perhaps that will. My meadows youder needs a ditch, and you may put by grammar and dig.'

'This seemed a delightful change; and to the meadow I went, but soon found ditching harder the left of the meadow I.

Hair Vigor, For restoring to Gray Hair its

A dressing which is at cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead growth of hair is produced. Instead of foffling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will heap it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so undead a final produce from these cleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make generations substances which make some preparations dangerous and inju-rious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre, and a grateful perfume.
