Oil Meal for Calves.

We take the following statement of experience from the Ohio Farmer: Last spring, a year ago, having two good steer calves, I thought I would know its value from experience. The calves were taken from the cows at three days old and taught to drink at first sweet milk—were fed until the stomach became strong, when milk that had stood over one milking was fed twice a day. I then commenced to feed oil meal to them. To prepare this, take a little boiling water and stir in the meal until it is thick enough, then put it into the milk to be fed. What can be taken up with one hand is plenty at first, the quanity being increased as the animal grows older. If too much is given, scours will be brought on, when the quanity must be reduced. I continued feeding until pumpkins were ripe, when the meal and milk were omitted, and pumpkins fed as long as they were to be had. By this time the calves were fat, and came into winter quarters with heads up. Good hay and timble were furnished, with no grain until February when oats were fed until they were turned to grass, and have been all summer without anything else, and to-day they weigh 2,210 pounds. The country is full of steers two years old that are not so heavy.

Preserving Roots.

Market-gardeners and those who have a considerable quantity of vegitable roots to keep for Winter's use will of course pack them in trenches, but the family supply is usually kept in the cellar.—When put loosely into bins and barrels, the roots, if the cellar be a dry one become shriveled and injured before Spring. This difficulty is avoided by packing in dry sandy earth—the sandier the better. We scrape off a cart load of soil from a place that has been recently harrowed, and use this for the roots.

Beets, carrots, salsify, horseradish, ecc., are laid in boxes or barrels, as may be most convenient, with plenty of earth distributed among them. In this manner the roots are preserved perfectly fresh and should any chance to decay, which is rarely the case, all odors are prevented from escaping by the earth.

Flower roots, such as dahlias, caladiums and callas, may be successfully preserved by the use of earth, which for them may be quite dry. These tropical roots not only need to be kept dry, but warm, and if the cellar is a damp one they can hardly be preserved. A spare closet in a part of the house where there is no danger of freezing is preferable to a cellar for these.—Agriculturalist.

Eggs in Winter.

A great many people complain that they get no eggs during the winter. This fault does not belong to the chickens, for they alone are at the mercy of their owners for a living; hence, if hard corn once a day is given, and nothing more, how can a fowl be expected to yield her fruit? My method is this: For fifty fowls twelve quarts of fine, well-cured clover heads of timothy hay, to be cut up fine; scald this thoroughly with boiling water, having sufficient hay tea to admit two quarts of corn meal or bran, so as to mix with the scalded hay. If you have any sour thick milk add as you wish to help to cool it, but don't be afraid to mix too much. Put in troughs or pans; then call up your family of fowls, chickens, turkeys, etc., and see how freely it will be partaken of, and mark the increase of eggs. Soon after discouraged hens will begin to sing; careless roosters will soon crow every hour in the day. This is cheap food, and supplies the fowls with what constitutes a large part of their food in summer.—Agricultural Correspondent.

Dry Food for Horses.

The Spirit of the Times says: "We never have believed and never shall believe that chopped hay and corn meal, saturated with water, is proper for a working horse as a general diet. We firmly believe that the food of a working horse who cannot be pastured should be good sound oats and sweet hay for at least five days a week. Look at the South, where the common run of working horses are fed on corn. What is found there? Why, the big head, a terrible and almost incurable complaint. We also think that wet cornmeal is the very worst way of feeding corn to a horse that ever was practised. And the chopped wet hay is not half so good as fine, bright Timothy from the mow. We like to hear the horse grinding up his good Timothy hay like a grist mill, after he has finished his oats. A nice mash once in a while is good, and a very different thing from almost constant soft diet."

Barreling Winter Apples.

The Yankees always barrel their apples for the market, and sell them in this way to most advantage throughout the Fall and Winter. The secret of having them keep and carry well is to pack them tight. The N. Y. Agriculturist tells how to do it thus: "Clean new barrels should be provided. When one is about half full, shake the barrel gently, in order to settle the fruit; repeat this when the barrel is full, and then a layer on the top so that the apples will be at least one inch above the chime. The head is then put in position, and pressed down by means of a lever. Apples packed in this way can be carried a long distance without danger of bruising. Do not put any poor fruit with the first quality, as it will seriously affect the price. After the fruit is all barreled it should be stored in a cool place where there is no danger from frost."

Tanning Sheep Skins.

About every six weeks we have an inquiry as to the best method of tanning sheep skins with the wool on, for use as door mats, rugs, etc. Here are the directions: Tack the skin upon a board with the flesh side out, and then scrape with a blunt knife; next rub it over hard with pulverized chalk until it will absorb no more. Then take the skin from the board, and cover it with pulverized alum; double half way over with the flesh side in contact; then roll tight together and keep dry for three days, after which unfold it and stretch it again on a board or door, and dry in the air, and it will be ready for use.—American Artisan.

THERE are more than a thousand named and described varieties of pear said in this country, in the gardens of pomologists and others, and about 2,500 varieties of the apple. But few practical cultivators will want more than a dozen or such.

Is claimed by our best Judges, to meet the necessity so long felt, of a Convenient, Practical, Durable Gate, so endorsed by the highest authority in America. Can be opened and closed without the operator changing his position. Hanging or pulling a pound, and if desired can be easily arranged to be opened and closed without dismounting. It occupies no more ground when opened than two posts with barn gate, this making it very desirable over any other Gate to farmers and those living in Villages and Towns. Is in order every day in the year, no snow to shovel in winter. It cannot sag or get out of repair.

For further particulars address the undersigned, who will as far as possible visit the several Counties in Pennsylvania and adjoining States, for the purpose of exhibiting and introducing the same.

Farmers and enterprising men generally, will do well to give this special attention, as this Gate certainly will go into general use.

Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Among the great discoveries of modern science, few are of more real value to mankind than this effectual remedy for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. A vast trial of its virtues, throughout this and other countries, has shown that it does surely and effectually control them. The testimony of our best citizens, of all classes, establishes the fact, that CHERRY PECTORAL will and does relieve and cure the afflicting disorders of the Throat and Lungs beyond any other medicine. The most dangerous affections of the Pulmonary Organs yield to its power; and cases of Consumption, cured by this preparation, are publicly known, so remarkable as hardly to be believed, were they not proven beyond dispute. As a remedy in this adequate, on which the public may rely for full protection. By curing Coughs, the forerunners of more serious disease, it saves unnumbered lives, and an amount of suffering not to be computed. It challenges trial, and convinces the most sceptical. Every family should keep it on hand as a protection against the early and unperceived attacks of Pulmonary Affections, which are easily met at first, but which become intractable, and too often fatal, if neglected. Tender lungs need this defence; and it is unwise to be without it. As a safeguard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of childhood, CHERRY PECTORAL is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued from premature graves, and saved to the love and affection centred on them. It acts speedily and surely against ordinary colds, securing sound and health-restoring sleep. No one will suffer troublesome influenza and painful Bronchitis, when they know how easily they can be cured.

Originally the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, no cost or toil is spared in making every bottle in the utmost possible perfection. It may be confidently relied upon as possessing all the virtues it has ever exhibited, and capable of producing cures as memorable as the greatest it has ever effected.

HALE'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER

Every year increases the popularity of this valuable Hair Preparation; which is due to merit alone. We can assure our old patrons that it is kept fully up to its high standard; and it is the only reliable and perfected preparation for restoring GRAY OR FADED HAIR to its youthful color, making it soft, lustrous, and silken. The scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean. It removes all eruptions and dandruff, and, by its tonic properties, prevents the hair from falling out, as it stimulates and nourishes the hair-glands. By its use, the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth, except in extreme old age. It is the most economical HAIR DRESSING ever used, as it requires fewer applications, and gives the hair a splendid, glossy appearance. A. A. Hayes, M.D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the BEST PREPARATION for its intended purposes."

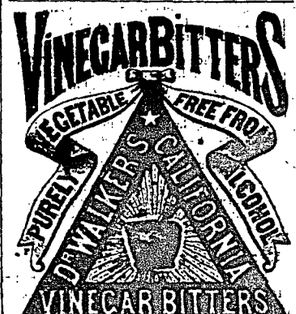
VINEGAR BITTERS

PURELY VEGETABLE FREE FROM ALCOHOL



Vinegar Bitters are not a vile Fancy Drink, made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the native roots and herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the Great Blood Purifier, and a Life-giving Principle, a Perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition, enriching it, refreshing and invigorating both mind and body.
