A Thicf Nabhed

Two Eric Railway detectives, from Elmira, brought a third to Montrose on Sanday morning last, whom they had arrested at Susqueban na in the act of robbing the Railway office of about $25,000, which was found in his possession. The officers had been on his track for was time and by well laid along they were enabled to nab him at this time, in the very act of escaping with his ill, gotten booty. He is well known to the detectives, to be one of a numerous gang of expert thieves, who meander along our thoroughfares to perform just such robberies as the one attempted at Susquehanna. The Lyons Republican is still published, notwithstanding the incident which Tinsley relates, "A former subscriber who discontinued his Republican, because he could not make it say just such things as he thought it ought to say, has, we learn, recently expressed considerable surprise to his friends that the paper should keep running—since he has with-drawn his patronage. It was pretty close work for a while, we confess; but by omitting to pu sugar in our tea, and by reversing our pape collars for the second and third time, we managed to rub along until a new subscriber came to take the place of our respected but disgrun tled friend and then Richard was himself again Nothing but rigid economy will carry one over such a calamity as the loss of a subscriber!"

The Odor of Flowers.

Many of our lady gardeners are doubtles looking forward with eager anticipation to the time when they will be relased from close rooms and enforced imprisonment, and can have a good time around their garden watks, trimming borders, planting slips and seeds, and preparing for the summer compaign among the roses. Has it ever occurred to them that in the order of flowers there are laws dimly shadowed, and as yet unwritten, concerning the accords of fragpictely snowed in for ten days during the late rance, the harmonics of sweet odors, and that snew Storms. They were discovered by Mr. there harmonies are governed by rules as fixed Nelson's seeing a little column of steam-like and as beautiful as those that rule the play of must arising from a snow bank. A Disease with a Thousand Symtoms.

Dyspepsia is the most perplexing of all human ailments. Its symtoms are almost infinite in their variety, and the forlorn and despondent victims of the disease often fancy themselves the prey, in turn, of every known malady. This is due, in part, to the close spmpathy which exists between the stomach and the brain, and in part also to the fart that any disturbance of the digestive function necessarily disorders the liver, the bowers and the nervous system, and affects, to some extent, the quality of the blood. A medicine that, like Hostetier's Bitters, not only tones the stomach, but at the same time controls the liver, produces a regular habit of body, braces the nerves, purifies the fluids and "ministers to a mind diseased," is therefore the true and only specific for chronic indigestion. Such is the operation of this famous vegetable restorative. It not only cures dyspepsia, but also all concomitants and consequences. Moreover, it is invaluable as a preventive of indigestion. No one who chooses to take half a wineglassial of this agreeable appetizer and stomachic habitual these times a day will exert be tenched with A Disease with a Thousand Symtoms. one who chooses to take half a wineglassful of this agreeable appetizer and stomachic habitually three times a day will ever be troubled with oppression after eating, nausea, sour eructations or any other indications of a want of vigor in the digestive and assimilating organs. The debility and languor superinduced by hot weather are immediately and permanently relieved by the Bitters, and persons who are constitutionally inclined to look upon life "as through a glass darkly," will be apt to take a brighter and more hopeful view of the situation under the gerial influence of this wholesome medicinal stimulant.
