Abolition of the Grand Jury.

Forty-eight lawyers of Reading, among whom Se Hon J. Lawrence Getz, and Senator J. D. Davis, have petitioned the constitutional conreation to abolish the grand jury system for alleged reasons that it has long since outlived necessity or usefulness, that it is an impediment in the administration of fustice, entailing an unnecessary amount of labor and expense on the currens; and that it is no longer required for their safety.

Lively Scene in Court.

Last week, sheriff Edminster, of Broome county, New York, was brought before Judge Crosby as defendant in an action to recover rom the sheriff the amount of a judgment for which one Thomas Hammond was incarcerated Hammond, who was out on the limits, went udden, esq., and the prosecution was conductwas ordered to leave the witness stand and conduct his own attorney to Jail. The sheriff. however, refused to obey the mandate, but the judge took no cognizance of anything further Mr. Ludden did, and would not note the testimony he examined. The judge likewise threatened to send the other attorneys; Mr. Johnson and Mr. Curran to jail for interrupting him while he charged the jury.

The result was a disagreement of the jury.

Birth tay Party.

That was an interesting party which assembled on the 9th inst., in honor of the 88th birth change in the weather for the better. It is real- day of S. Mitchell, Esq., one of our very oldest ci izens. Fifteen men, from seventy-five to THE new bell for the Presbyterian church, | eighty-nine years old, met and spent an afternoon together. Their average age was a little tian 1200 years of life. The Hebrew Psalmist considered life hardly worth keeping, beyond three score and ten years. What would be have thought had he seen men who had passed four score years, climbing into a high open wagon, and laughing at the chilly wind, and the snow banks and mud holes, over and through which that four horse team took them to their rendezvous. The same team brought them safely to their homes again before night, and every one appeared to be glad that they had the ladies who had charge of the repast, provided the waiters, the driver and every one who comfort. And what is perhaps of as much im portance as any thing else, not one of them felt any worse for their ride over an awful rough road, in a damp south east wind. It is to be hoped that such a reunion will occur often among those who are fast passing away.

The good people of our usually quiet town, were suddenly disturbed in their serious cogitaons, by a most sanguinary conflict on Easter ad from "Faderland," had been employed together during the past winter, and the Dutchman being notorious for the manner in which murders the "kings english," probably thought that the more he talked, the more flu ently he could speak our language; but the old adage "he who talks much must talk in vain." he probably never heard, and in order to giv somethings that were somewhat derogatory to the character of some of our most respectable citizens. Now the Green Islander, whose fra ternal feelings were none of the strongest for the Dutchman, reported the same to the parties who had been calumniated, and on the morning aforesaid, the parties who had been s ignominously slandered, seeing the object their antipathy leisurely walking near the "burnt district," made a raid upon the unsus pecting Datchman, informing him of his short comings, and that he (the attacking party) was going to put a veto on such an indiscriminate age of our language, especially in such a broken and outrageous manner, and probably thinking the most effectual remedy would be the applica opened. But finding his position untenable and not having the fear of the Lord in his heart, and disobeying the devine injuction "to keep thy heart free from guile," he fled into a neighboring yard, and probably thinking he might be called upon to do picket duty, he took a picket from the yard fence and returned to the charge, thinking to be revenged for the stern rebuke he had just received. The owner of the premises on which they were trespassing, suddenly appeared on the scene o action, and peremptorily ordered them to cease action and retire from the premises, which was strictly obeyed, the Dutchman carefully guarding his rear to prevent any further attack on that quarter. The retreat was made quietly either party. We de Do Not Forder the Menadente.—We do not wish to be understood as advising our readers to neglect necessary business for pleasure. Out we do heartily advise all who wish to blend a few hours of rational amusement with profitable instruction to visit the great Menagerie in Moutrose, on Friday next. It is a real Museum of Natural History: not one of the low circoses with a cage of superanuated lions and a monk-over that frameanty annear with faming necessary. of Natural History; not one of the low circuses with a cage of superanuated lions and a monkey, that frequently appear with faming posters, so worded as to catch both the moral and the other portion of society. When we assure our readers that the original VanAmburg's Menagcrie is really coming, we have said all that is necessary in the way of ealogy. That our citizens will generally patronize it, is certain, for they never fall to do that when VanAmburg comes. Our purpose now is to suggest the propriety of their bringing the children also, for we honestly believe that the young are beneflited by attending a first clars Zoological entertainmentifice VanAmburg & Co'a. They acquire a more extended and accurate be owiedge of Natural History than they can ever gain from books.—It also gives them a taste for rational and hightoned amusements, an item of no small importance to parents in these days of low mountebanks show. We believe in rational amusements for the young, as being the best agencies for giving them a distate for coarse and immoral places of entertainments. We are informed by a gentleman who has visited Van Amburg's Menagerie, that it really contains a two horned Rhinocerus, the only one ever captured, and a species of that huge animal never seen except by a few dering adventurers, until the one in question was captured. There are also in the collection an Australian Wombat, a Horned Horse, Ruan Autelope, Hippopotampa Hogand a large number of other rare creatures seldom seen in captivity. Our citizens may never have another opportunity to examine these wonders of the Natural world, and we'therefore deem'it proper to thus recall their attention to the fact. proper to thus re-call their attention to the fac-that this opportunity will be theirs next Fri-day, May 2d.
