There is much good sense and truth in the re-mark of a niodern author that no man ever prospered in the world without the co-operadeavors, or fewards his labor with an endear ing smile with what confidence will be resort to his merchandise or farm-tly over lands, sail oversions, meet difficulty, or encounter danger— it he only knows that he is not spending his strength in vain, but that his labor will be rewarded by the sweets at home. Soli tade and disappointment enter the history of every man's life; and he is but half provided for his voyage who finds but an associate for his urs, while for his months of darknes happy he no sympathizing partner is prepared.

Legal Transfer of an Orange

Some idea of the tautology of legal formul may be gathered from the following specimen wherein, if a man wishes to give another an orange, instead of saying, "I give you that or-ange," he must set forth his "act and head" thus: "I give you all and singular, my estate and interest right title and claim and advantage of, in and to that orange, with all its rind skin, juice, pulp and pips, and all right and aduck, or otherwise cat the same orange, or give the same away, with or without its rind, skin juice, pulp and pips, anything heretofore or hereinafter, or in any other deed or deeds, in-struments or instruments of what kind or nature soever, to the contrary in anywise notwithstanding."

Occupation.

What a glorious thing for the human heart! Those who work hard seldom yield to fancied sorrow. When grief sits down, folds its hands, and mournfully feeds upon its own fears, wenying the dim shadow that a little exertion might sweep away into a funeral pall, the strong spirit is shorn of its strength, and surrow becomes our master. When trouble comes upon you dark and heavy, toil not with the waves, and wrestle not with the torrent, rather seck occupation to divert the dark waters that threaten overwhelm you with a thousand channels, which the duties of life always present. Before you dream of it, those waters will fertilize the resent, and give birth to fresh flowers, that will become holy in the sunshine which pene trates to the path of duty, in spite of every ob-stacle. Grief after all is but a selfish feeling; and most selfish is the man who yields himself to the indulgence of any passion which brings no joy to his tellow man.
