

THE DEMOCRAT.

E. B. HAWLEY & CO., Editors.

Wednesday, Oct. 22nd, 1873.

Colerain, Ohio, October 19.—Both parties now concede the election of Allen Democrat, by six to seven hundred majority.

GRANT has issued a thanksgiving proclamation. There is no man living who has greater reason to be thankful than GRANT.

Majorities in District.

The official count for Representatives in this district shows the election of Henry M. Jones, Republican, of Susquehanna County, over Eugene B. Hawley, Democrat, of the same county, by 13 majority.

The Republican majorities are smaller than usual, owing in a measure to a light vote, yet the Republican vote was fuller in proportion than the Democrat.

County Majorities.

The Republican majorities are smaller than usual, owing in a measure to a light vote, yet the Republican vote was fuller in proportion than the Democrat.

For Judge of the supreme Court, Isaac G. Gordon had 767 majority for State Treasurer, Robert W. Mackey, 741 for Representatives, H. M. Jones, 539, and A. B. Walker, 615 for Prothonotary, David Summers, 834 for County Treasurer, Edwin G. Taylor, 881 for County Commissioner, Edward G. Ball, 769 for Jury Commissioner, Wm. A. Crossman, 766 for County Auditor, J. B. Johnston, 765.

Mexico is slowly building herself up to the position of a true Republic. Her Congress has just decreed the separation of Church and State, and decrees that hereafter no laws can be enacted either establishing or prohibiting any form of religion.

The Yellow Fever South.

The latest accounts from Memphis indicate no abatement in the ravages of the yellow fever at Memphis. As late as last Saturday, citizens continued to leave the place as the epidemic was spreading to the heart of the city.

The majority for license in the city of Philadelphia last week was 32,493.

Another Query.

Here in Montrose a considerable fraction of the Republican vote was transferred from Jones to Hawley.

We are at a loss how to interpret the above manner of accounting for Jones' disaster in Montrose, as "the people in this Borough are not all of them strangers to E. B. Hawley. Are we to understand by the above, that Homer, who always stands at the door of the polls to pass out the tickets, was so under the influence of liquor that he could not tell Democratic votes from Republican, and thus passed out the former? or does it mean that Hawley was drunk and therefore a large portion of the Republicans voted for him on that account? or are we to understand that he charges that all R-Republicans that voted for Hawley were drunk? We are still more surprised to find the following in another part of the same paper.

"Hawley points to his vote last Tuesday as evidence that we were mistaken about his popularity in Montrose. We may have been. We certainly underrated the popularity and influence of his candidate—'whiskey'."

If the above maudlin talk is intended for a joke it is a very flat one. If intended for a sneer and rober charge it is still more flat. So far as these Republicans are concerned, who gave E. B. Hawley their support, they have manifested sufficient independence to show their competency to settle the matter with the Republican for themselves, and do not need any defense from us.

We are fully satisfied with his vindication at the ballot box, on the fourteenth, and we hope his opponents are equally well satisfied. Notwithstanding E. B. Hawley has been charged through the columns of the Montrose Republican, as being a "law-baker," a "common liar," a "Hyppocrite" and a "whiskey" worshiper the sequel shows that by the votes of the people of this district, he was 210 better than Alanson B. Walker, and only 13 less than Henry M. Jones, and he is perfectly willing to take his chances with those who did not vote at all.

The result of the election in this Assembly district has proved a great surprise to men of both parties, and no less so to them, than to the candidates themselves.

Robert R. Little, the Democratic candidate of Wyoming, is elected to the Legislature by 334 majority, and Henry M. Jones, Republican of Susquehanna, is re-elected over E. B. Hawley, Democrat, by a majority of thirteen. While we are privileged to rejoice over the result, yet we cannot feel to do so in a strict partisan spirit, but we hail with joy the fact that, as we said before election, the people are inclined to take matters in their own hands again.

THE SURPRISE.

The result of the election in this Assembly district has proved a great surprise to men of both parties, and no less so to them, than to the candidates themselves.

hip, would be in opposition to facts and human nature.

Another source of surprise was the greater proportion falling off in the Democratic voters, than in the Republican.

By reference to the returns as compared with those of last year it will be seen that only one half of the Democratic vote was polled while nearly two thirds of the Republican voters were out.

Both of these are censurable. The first because no man should falter in what he deems to be right, and the second, because any one who entertained such a view should not have failed to have entered his protest at the polls.

It is eminently encouraging. We rejoice that Robert R. Little, Esq. has been chosen to represent this district in place of Alanson B. Walker, by so decided a voice of the people, and we have such confidence in his ability, integrity and statesmanship that we firmly believe he will bring no blush of shame upon them by his legislative actions.
