The Magnitude of the Coal Trade.

The number of hands employed in 1873 at the collieries in what is known as the Schuylkill region, namely, Shuylkill, Northumberland, Columbia and Dauphin counties, was 21,250 and in the Wyoming and Lehigh region 35,150 making a total of coal mine workmen in those regions of 56,400, In the districts mentioned there are 1,533 steam engines of 82,456 horse power, 2,884 steam boilers and 333 coal breakers. Counting one horse power employed in mining equal to the work of seven men the production of 29,032, 265 tons of coal in 1873 equaled the labor of 577,402 men.

On Monday evening last, at a few minute ast ten o'clock, Frederick Keisinger, a man-of all-work, stabbed to death, on Main street, John Lawlor and seriously wounded Frank Dodge, two ex-Erie employees. The facts of the case are as follows During the day, Lawlor, Frank Dodge, Wil-liam Boyle, Thomas Furey, and John Dundon, all young men and recently employed by the Erie Company, made a tour of the saloons of the place, indulging in the usual amount of "tangle foot." After supper they again met visiting three saloons, drinking, running through It is unknowful to fish with a scine, set net, fyke the street, shouting, and making things gene ally hideous

A Young Lady Burned to Death

ut noon on Tuesday, Carrie M., daugh ter of Mr. Obed Falkenbury, Foreman of the Ltie Foundry in this place, was burned to ucath in the following manner: The family resides on Main street, in the house recently occupied by J. T. Cameron. . Coming into the house, she sat in the front of the store to dry the soles of her shoes. In some manner her clothes caught fire in two different places from a spark. She soon discovered the fact, and, as supposed, quenched the fire. Soon after, her hule brother exclaimed,"Carrie, your clothes are all on fire?" She sprang from the chair, the blaze coming up all around her. She ran into a rear room as her father came in at the front door from work. He heard the alarm and supposed the house to be on fire. He rushed ough to the rear room, but missed her. Rushing through to another room, she met her uncle, who tore up the carpet put completely caveloped her in it, smothering the flames, but not until she had received fatal injuries. Drs. Badsall and Leslie were called, but human aid Tas powerless. She remarked to the physician that they need not be airaid to tell her the truth at Baltimore. as she knew she must die. -She died the same D'gut. She remained conscious to the last, giving di-not inhabited by speckled trout, subject to foregoing restrictions as to the time of fishing and he species of fish caught.

Odd Fellows' Anniversary.

The brothers and sisters of Montrose Lodge Boys and girls did you ever observe how celebrated the Fifty-Fifth Anniversary of Odd-Fellowship on Saturday the 25th ult. Ample arrangements had been made for the entertainment of a large number, but the severe snow storm prevented the attendance of many, eswithout, with many a flirt of wings and tail becially those residing out of town. A brother and many a quick and observant glance at the and sister from Harford who started before the surroundings, and shrewd calculations as to its storm became severe, were warmly welcomed adaptibility for a summer residence. Guttenberg, Rosenbaum, & Co's, While the affray was occurring with Keisinger, Dondon, Boyle and Fury were actors in another scene, near the post office. A reckless New Dress Goods, Shawls, & Sultings, rascal named Nehemiah Baker, Keisinger's son-in-law, was standing by the office when the second party came out of the billiard room They instantly collared him and shammed to take him to the lockup for an alleged attempt Ladies' and Children's Hats, to rob the office. They rudely pulled him shout, freeing himself when Lawlor shouted FLOWERS, LACES, RIBBONS, &c. that he was stabbed. This episode prevented

Baker from being with Kelsinger in his affray. They both fled together, however.
