Some people never appreciate home institu tions Everything they see, hear or do away from home is better than the same at home .-Especially is this so with music. We have people in our own town that expect to hear as good music from their home-band as they would from one that travels on a good salary and spends its whole time practicing. The trav eling band that lately visited us has had years of experience: "I have heard the expression sever-al times during their stay, "The Brookiyn Band freely, but by clubbing their means together, had better hang up," "Wouldn't play any more," etc., etc., If they have no more apprecistion of home talent, I would advise that they organize a band themselves and after playing but two years be expected to compete with one of ten years standing. Our Rand makes no big pretensions as to what it can do, and if it cannot compete with the Bell Ringer's Band (which I think it can do) it boldly challenges Susquehanna County to produce a better one. Job Green.
