Tallow Dips. Seventy years ago, when gas and kerosene were not, and wax candles were an extrava gance indulged in only on state occasion, eyer by the wealthy, the tallow dip was an article of necessity and "candle dip day" was as ter tain of occurrence as Christmas, though, per haps, even less welcome than the equally cer tain annual Fast Day. Fancy ar imment kitchen with before mentioned fire place in the center of one side. Over the blaze of backlog and forestick, something like half a cord eight foot wood, are swinging the iron crane laden with kettles of melting tallow. On the opposide side of the kitchen two long poles bout two feet apart, are supported at their ex tremes upon the seats of chairs. Beside the poles are other great kettles containing melted tallow poured on the top of hot water. Acros the poles are the slender candle rods, from which depend ranks upon ranks of candlewicks made of tow-for cottonwick is a later inven tion. Little by little by endless repeating the slow process of dipping into the kettles of melted tallow and hanging them to cool, the wicks take on their proper coating of tallow To make the candle as large as possible was the aim, for the more tallow the brighter the light. When done the ranks of candle, still de pending from the the rods, were bung in the

By the close of winter carpets become intol erably dusty, but this discomfort can be almost entirely obviated by using bran when sweeping Dampen the bran just enough to make the par ticles stick together; for if to wet, it takes longer to sweep it off. Scatter it evenly over the floor, and proceed as usual. Very little dust will rise, and if the carpet be old, and fad ed, it is surprising how much brighter the colors appear-not because they are restored, but the bran cleanses the fiber of the fabric and catches all dust and lint, so that none re-settle on the carpet to make it look dull. If damp bran is used once or twice a week from the time carpets are first put down, they will never be clear an apple tree of these pests. One family come very dusty; and in a room little used, a few such sweepings are equal to a slinking. All other methods I have tried have some disadsafe from the devastations of the whole insect vantages, but this one has none. Ventilation of Houses.

Notwithstanding the objection formerly urg ed against the introduction of gas for illumina tion, in private houses especially on the scor f health, the opinion is now quite generally held that, taking any number of houses in given tocality those well lighted with gas are more easily and efficiently ventilated than those that are lighted by other means. Spontaneous ventilation, that which most closely imitates natural processes, is generally promoted and indeed, is always in operation in a house whose walls and ceilings and furniture are dry and warm. In such circumstances, in fact, it is im possible that air can remain at rest, a constan terchange is effected, fresh air forcing itself n, and having its temperature raised and when naking its escape giving place to a turther supoly at a lower temperature.

In devising plans for ventilating, many per sons are greatly troubled about getting rid of he heated air, and they are disappointed because it will not make its escape at any opening they may choose for it. It is easier to be gin by admitting a continuous supply of cool oure air : just so much of it according to sea on and temperature, and other circumstance a shall be agreeable, and yet its presence no to be indicated by creating draughts. It this be well looked after, there need be no anxiety about what becomes of the vitiated air. Tha must be displaced by the entrance of fresh air -both kinds cannot occupy the same place at the same time. Thus, ventilation is obtained according to the truest principles.

Potato Bugs and Paris Green-

EDITOR PRACTICAL FARMER .- As we know you are always willing to publish anything of interest to the farmers and which tends to ad vance the interests of agriculture, as the time is approaching for potato planting and as the potato bug has been so great a pest to the farmers and many have met with serious loss owing to a luck of knowledge how to destroy them, would be glad to submit to you and your readers what I know from experience in the way of a good remedy.

It is a well known fact that Paris Green is lestroyer, but there are many different opinions how to utilize it most effectually. A number of farmers are afraid to use it, thinking it is poisonous and dangerous if inhaled during the process of dusting, and therefore do not use it and allow the stalks to perish. With my early rose, about two acres, I first used the Paris Green and lime dusting process, and then went along with pans and knocked them off-trying both of these methods, but they were attended with a great deal of labor and were not as ef lectual as the process named below. I had eight acres of "Peerless" planted. I purchased wenty-five pounds of Paris Green at a cost of nine dollars, and took two empty barrels, put them on the wagon, then added from threefourths to a pound of Poris Green to each bar rel, took a common watering can, stirring the water well-as Paris Green is a mineral and naturally seeks the bottom-then went through the rows and sprinkled. Going over the patches twenty-four hours afterward. I discovered large quantities of the bugs laying under the stalks on the ground dead. I only applied this twice in about four weeks. This season being a very dry one, I cannot say whether, had it been a wet season, it would have worked so well, as the preparation might have been washed off and required applying oftener. The yield of this patch was only about one hundred bushels of very nicely developed potatoes to the acre; but this I attribute more to dry weather than the bugs. There would here and there remain a few bugs, but very few. The first application was made short time before the stalks began to blossom.

West Harford, Mr.v. 21, 1875. Decoration Day. The Montrose Firemen and Soldiers held a due observance of Decoration Day, on Saturday last. There was no attempt at ostentation but it was carried out in a quiet and appropriate way, allowing us to be the judge. The bells were tolled in the morning in commemoration of the "fallen brayes," and those having the matter in charge, proceeded to the cemetery each of the "boys in white." At 2 o'clock p. m., the procession formed in tront of the engine house, on the public green, consisting of the Montrosa Cornet Band, No. 2 Drum Corps, some of the clegymen, soldiers and firemen, and marched to the cemetery where the ceremory of decorating with flow ers took place, after which D. W. Searle, esq., delivered a short, pithy and appropriate ad cress, which seemed to meet with favor at the hands of all present. The suggestions of the DEMOCRAT were carried out in the following manner, as the annexed resolutions will show : . . . Believing from the work performed that the original executive committee for the collection of funds and building of a Soldiers Monument

We are pleased to see that action is to be taken in this matter and from the above resolutions, we are certain that something will be done. As we have said before, the soldiers can count upon the "push" of the DEMOCRAT if they will continue to show pluck.

a death dealing occupation?

Wilkesbarre, May 26, 1875. Letter From Colorado DEMOCRAT.—Dear suFP Maving many friends and acqueintances in Susquehanna county, and believing that some of them would like to hear from us, in this far off land, I take the liberty to write to you, and if you please, you may publish it in your pa per. I was a resident of that county for nearly 56 years. Eleven years ago we moved to Carbondale. Last fall on account of poor health and to escape the severe winters of the East; we went to the sunny land of Colorado. A land of world wide reputation for health. A

Denver is a beautiful city of near 23,000 inhabitants. In 1870, it numbered less than 5,-000. Streets are broad, smooth and straight better than paved. Very many elegant buildings-majority of them are brick. In 1874, them were near 500 erected at a cost with improvements on other buildings of $1,600,000.-There is a vast amount of business done here Five railroads center here and it is wonderful to see the amount of freight left at the depot.-I frequently go to the depot when the train comes from the East to see four beautiful gray teams of four horses each, and elegant transfer coaches beside several single teams. We have good hotels here, can get board from one to four dollars per day. Denver is an active business place but there s a money pressure, that is seriously felt just est of Denver but notwithstanding these things there are more buildings being built than any tormer spring. Building material costs more here than East, but I built a two story brick house of eight rooms beside closets, pan try, and cellar, neatly furnished it throughou and cost $1,500. I think that is as good as you can do in the east.

Multitudes of mechanics and laborers of all kinds are coming here. The wages are low.-I hired good carpenters for $2 50 per day. Money loans for 11/2 per cent. a month. Real estate has dropped down of late. Have offered my house for $2,700, am told one year ago, it would have been cheap at $3,000. Provisious are a trifle dearer than in the East n consequence of the destruction caused by he grasshoppers last year and what they are doing just now. There are millions of them on the plains. One farmer said he sowed 70 cres last fall and they had destroyed it all.and planted flags at the head of the graves of It they sweep the country this year, it will be a serious draw back to Denver.

We have good church privileges and school as can be found in America. One school building, near the centre, cost near $100,000: 500 scholars attend; the Professor gets $200 per month, and his wife $100. There is another in the cast that cost near $50,000, and others L. W. Kellum, J. P., Warren Kilbourn, of Large being erected. Schools are free. The ability of the cost of t are being erected. Schools are free. The ability, zeal and plety of our preachers will measure up to the standard of the eastern preachers. There is much liquor sold here, but few drunken men on the street. We have a good police land of world wide reputation for health. A multitude of invalids have come here, many defer it too long, consequently are not benefit ted but very many are restored to health and probably many years are added to their lives by the change.

Our health has improved. Mrs. Dickermar's is better than it has been for years, we have better appetites, and rest better nights than we did east. There is no trouble sleeping in this dry and bracing air.

Motivitustanding the cry of hard times and a scarcity of money, C. F. Sisson & Co., Binghamton, are doing a much larger business than ever before. They are successors to the oldest and best known Dry Goods House in the city. The great secret of their success is in dealing airly and squarely with everyone; by representing every kind of goods just as they are, and by selling the very best class of goods in market, at prices to bring them within the reach of eyerybody. We have a much larger and finer stock of Dry Goo's than ever before. and we would take great pleasure in forward-ing samples of anything in our line to anyone desiring them.
