many to make a note of this.

The Ohio Republicans have nominated er with a full ticket on a hard money, protection, and anti-third term platform, though the last named plank is but loose ly nailed on. Grant's administration, with its errors and iniquities in all their 2,000 hands, for the reason that it had flaring grossness, was heartily endorsed. The Democrats will probably nominate Government, however, in true Anstrain their present excellent Governor, Allen, who, with any effort at all, can beat his advancing capital to the works, and by opponent out of sight.

The indictment of the United States court at New York, on a charge of smuggling, of the members of the great house of H. B. Claffin & Co., would be startling if we were not used to custom house sensations. It looks a little had for the Claffins on first sight, but the whole revenue system is so confused and atterly rotten that innocent parties are about as likely to be charged with evading the laws as guilty ones, and we shall wait to hear more before we assume the guilt of a respectable firm of merchants, whose character is at least somewhat better than that of the New York custom house 🖏 gang.

With the exception of the demonstration against the third term, a topic thrust upon the attention of the Rspublican party, the declartion and nominations of the Lancaster convention have fallen as dead and spiritless upon the popular apprehension as the reports of the cotton market or the price of mess pork. We have the customary predictions of November victory, as we had last year, and always have; but no radical prophet seems inclined to give a reason for the taith that is in him. The Philadelphia North American has made the nearest approach to it. It says the republican party has reduced their state debt. In September the reinvenated democracy will give these dry bones such a shake as will at least put some noise in the old anatemy.

The Montrose Republican this week (June 14,) contains this contradiction:

"The editor of the Montrose DEMO-CRAT, whose chronic disability to make a correct statement has become well known is trying to get up a feeling of hostility against the County Commissioners because a safe for the protection of the County Records is to be put into the Court House."

Nothing is more certain than the sayng that "murder will out" or in other words, that a guilty party will, nine times out of ten, do or say something that will show his guilt, and lead to his conviction. Homer in his anxiety to cover up the guilt of the "Court House Ring," and to interpose a disclaimer as to the existance of any such combination, has convicted himself and the ring by his contradictory statements. Last week, having exhausted every other defense and failed, he at-
