

TOWN, COUNTY, AND VARIETY.

The winter term of our Graded school commenced again on Monday last.

We present our readers in this form, more reading matter than has ever before appeared in a single number of the DEMOCRAT.

Semi-Annual election of Officers of Montrose Fire Company, No. 2, of Friday evening, January 7th, 1876. All members are requested to be present.

This being the week of Prayer, appointed by the Evangelical Alliance of the world, the principal places of business have decided to close each evening during the week.

The custom of making New Year calls was kept up by some of our citizens this year, but whether cider, pumpkin pies and doughnuts were the Centennial refreshments of not, we cannot say.

We are indebted to Hon. Joseph Powell for a daily copy of the Congressional Record and other favors. Mr. Powell has been appointed by Speaker Kerr, upon one of the important committees.

Mrs. Annie Cook, the last of a family of twenty-one children by the same mother, died in Broad Top City, Huntingdon county, recently. The deceased was seventy-five years old. Her mother was married when fifteen and died at the age of ninety-nine.

Right Eminent, Sir J. H. Dusenbery has our gratitude as well as obligations for a copy of the Proceedings of the Twenty Second Annual Conclave of the Grand Comandary of Knights Templar of the State of Pennsylvania, held at Pittsburg, last May.

Boss Heckman is working a gang of men between this place and La Grange, in the business of grading for the double track on the Pa. and N. Y. railroad. No person seems to know exactly what the designs of the company are, but all agree in the opinion that the double track will be completed from Pittston to Tunkhannock by the first of April.—Tunkhannock Democrat.

We have been at a loss to conceive how the memory of our "city fathers" could best be perpetuated but we have at last fixed upon it. Let one of our "Highted Street Lamps" be deposited in the Archives of the State, to be put on exhibition at the next Centennial in 1876.—It will be a greater memento than a Revolutionary mortar gun is to-day.

We omitted to speak last week of those fine oxen, with "red, white and blue" ribbons on their horns, that Philip Hahn, the Public Avenue butcher, drove through our streets on Christmas Day, but it is not too late yet, as one of their lifeless bodies still "lies in state" at the market for inspection. The pair weighed 3,420 pounds. They were purchased of Mr. Abel Patrick of Montrose.

The Home Insurance Company, represented by Billings Stroud's Agency of Montrose, send the fraternity a Centennial calendar, good till 1878. In addition to the numerical calendar, are fine chromatic picture of Revolutionary scenes commencing with Washington at Valley Forge, and on the opposite side of each a full description of the same. It is a valuable as well as interesting and useful article and the company and its agent, Mr. Stroud, have our thanks.

Judge C. F. Read of this borough very widely known to the citizens of this county died on New Year's Day. It was not wholly unexpected as he has been on the decline for more than a year past. His funeral was attended yesterday (Tuesday) morning. The business places were closed in token of the great respect of this community for the departed, whose whole life among them was that of an honest, upright and honored citizen.

We are pleased to announce that another department has been fitted up in our Graded School building in order to better accommodate the smaller scholars and an additional teacher is to be employed. We do not know whether the suggestion in the DEMOCRAT hastened this along or not, and it is of but little consequence, only so that the thing is done, and we commend the action of all who assisted in bringing it about.

Four new narrow gauge locomotives from the Dickinson Works at Scranton, were placed on the Albany & Susquehanna Railroad last week, in place of the broad gauge locomotives sold to the D. L. & W. R. R. Company six months ago, and another will be placed upon the road to-morrow. Four of the old broad gauge locomotives are being narrowed up at the shops in Schenectady.—Binghamton Times.

Wm. A. Crossman, esq., has taken out the "high-toned" part of his lamp which he put up in front of his residence, and put in a pine plank bottom to set a kerosene lamp upon, and it now answers the purpose for which it was intended in a very fine manner. While, we would not advise the purchase of any more "gas-lamps" at a cost of $20 each, to take the place of a $5 or $6 kerosene lamp, yet it would be policy to put such a bottom into those that remain if there be one that has not had a "head put on it" (as the boys would say) by being smashed into flinders.

The Newburyport Herald notes the recent death in that city of Kate Coffin, who had been a city pensioner for thirty-seven years. When young she was the belle of Newburyport, and when old, even more so than fourscore, she was remarkably good looking and very polite. She was at the city alms-house for no weakness of mind, no disease of body, nor immorality of life; but when her father and mother died the town took her up, simply because she determined that she would do nothing for self-support. Labor, even of the lightest kind, was totally unacquainted with her; it was repugnant to all her ideas of what belonged to a lady, and she never forgot that she was one of the first families of the town, and when young knew not what work was, nor when young knew not what work was, nor when young knew not what work was, nor when young knew not what work was.

Her age was 89 years.

Ask your neighbor to subscribe for the DEMOCRAT.

Our "boys," in the office, celebrated the New Year on a large basket of apples, a bounty from the hand of John Beahan of Bridge-water. They have all been obliged to get their feet buttons set over. Their thanks are tendered Mr. B. not for bursting their buttons but for the apples.

Court convenes next Monday the 10th inst. We shall be on the "quiver" of anxiety to see how the thing will appear and how the old official "rats" will act when luster is shed upon them by a White, Democratic Sheriff. This thing has not happened to them in 24 years, since C. M. Gere went out of office in 1851.

The Centennial New Year was celebrated at Oneonta at midnight by a combined chorus of all the locomotive and manufacturing whistles in the village, some thirty in number, the Leary whistle at the Albany and Susquehanna round house acting as double. A canon manufactured by the foundry men also participated in the exercises. The chorus continued for about fifteen minutes, forming a rich, mellow tone, which was plainly heard for miles.—Binghamton Times.

St. Patrick's Total Abstinence Society, of Friendsville, held a Fair last week, commencing on Christmas Day and continuing eight days, for the purpose of raising a fund to build a Hall for the Society. Its success was remarkable and the excitement and pleasure very agreeable. A silver watch was voted upon to be given to the one receiving the highest number of votes. Mr. M. Lee of Middletown, and Christopher Byrne, of Chocoutin, were the candidates voted for but Mr. Christopher Byrne was elected to take the watch. Two young ladies were candidates for a gold ring and Miss Reardon, of Apolacon, was elected to receive it. Ticket number 173 drew a silver watch, and a gold coin was drawn by Mr. McNamara, of Binghamton. The gross receipts of the Fair amounted to $1,800; net proceeds $1,100. On New Year's Day, the Society headed by their Drum Corps, celebrated the Centennial by marching through the principal streets closing with a very fine banquet. It is estimated that 3,000 or 4,000 persons were present. It was certainly a gala day for Friendsville and a very encouraging one to St. Patrick's Total Abstinence Society, and we hope the same success may accompany them in all their good works.

Some parents in our borough marvel greatly at certain irregularities in their sons, and wonder why it is so and ask wherein is the remedy. From our stand point we think we can give a correct diagnosis of the disease and point out the remedy. The malady arises from this cause: Boys are boarded and clothed by their parents, at home, with no thought or care of the expense or trouble and they are allowed to work in some shop or factory at good wages and draw every cent of their wages for "spending money," which gives them from $3 to $10 per week to scatter at the saloons and grocers and perhaps in worse places than that. Thus without experience or knowledge of the value of money or character, they become reckless in the expenditure of their earnings and what is still worse, they become reckless and dissolute in their habits. Cannot there be several instances of which the above is an exact description, pointed out in our town? The parents are more than one half in fault for this. The civil law as well as the moral law, makes every parent the sponsor for his children and he should hold full control of them until their majority, and instruct them in economy as well as industry, not in a niggardly but in a frugal manner. The commandment says "the sins of the father are visited upon the children" and are not the sins of the children visited upon the parent in the above case and justly too?

The most remarkable debut any year has ever made, in our remembrance, was made by the "Happy Young Year" of 1876, on Saturday last. The mercury stood 42 degrees below zero, at 5 o'clock a. m., 50 degrees, at 8-30 and 63 degrees at 1 p. m. in the shade, while in the sun it rose to 95 degrees. Sunday was nearly as warm and Monday was a very mild day. Mr. Mathew Baldwin, one of the oldest citizens of Bridge-water, says he remembers just such a day; the first of January 1833, it being particularly fixed upon his mind by the burial of one of his children on that day. We hear it remarked that "we shall get our pay for this." We are not miserly enough to exact any pay for we feel that we already owe a great debt of gratitude to our Munificent Land-lord, for his continued forgiveness of the indebtedness of his slothful and wayward tenants, who have turned his vineyard into a Babel of sin and wickedness. We shall hold in sweet remembrance the belmy birth-day of the buoyant New Year of 1876, the Centennial of a Nation's birth in 1776, being presented to the world, wrapped in the swaddling clothes of Republican Institutions, and let it be our every prayer and aim to eradicate the many bad habits its youthful indiscretions have led it into, so that it may celebrate the second Anniversary of its Centennial in the conscious pride of virtuous manhood. The people of Montrose ought to be still further thankful for such an oasis of beautiful southern days, amid the usual desert of bleakness and bluster, which will so much loosen the clench of the icy fingers of the six months winter. All hail the Advent of FORTY EIGHT HUNDRED AND SEVENTY SIX!

A CANARY SINGS "HOME, SWEET HOME." The possessor of several canaries has just taught one of them to sing "Home, Sweet Home" in the most distinct manner. His mode of instruction was as follows: He placed the canary in a room where it could not hear the singing of other birds, suspended its cage from the ceiling, so that the bird would see its reflection in a mirror. Beneath the glass he placed a musical box that was regulated to play no other tune but "Home, Sweet Home." Hearing no other sounds but this, and believing the music proceeded from the bird it saw in the mirror, the young canary soon began to catch the notes, and finally accomplished what its owner had been laboring to attain, that of singing the song perfectly.

PRESENTATION TO GOVERNOR HARRIS.—The soldiers' orphans of the Uniontown soldiers' orphans' school have presented to Gov. Harris part of a relief fund by them at Dunbar camp, near Uniontown, Fayette county, Pennsylvania. It is a mass of melted and part-melted bullets, a portion of the ammunition destroyed by Gen. Braddock in his retreat from Dunbar camp after his defeat at Braddock's Field in 1775.

GRANGE MITE SOCIETY.—The Grangers of New Milford held a mite society at the residence of Homer Tingley, Dec. 21st, for the purpose of raising money to defray expense of furnishing Lodge room with an organ and other fixtures. The receipts in excess of expenses were $16 16, and a "tip top" time. We hear it hinted that some regret that we did not get a higher priced organ, as it is such jolly fun to attend Grange mite societies. The heartiest thanks are due Brother and Sister Tingley for their hospitality.

Disastrous Fire at Athens.—Athens was visited by a destructive fire on the morning of Dec. 25th, which resulted in the loss of four buildings.

The fire was discovered about 3 o'clock a. m. in the store room of Corbin's building and obtained such headway that it was impossible to enter the building at all, and in a few minutes had communicated with the Carrol Block which was new and built of green lumber, and burned very slowly—giving ample time to remove the tools of the mechanics who were engaged in its construction. At this time it was thought to be impossible to save any part of the row of buildings between Elmira and Main streets but as there was a strong south wind, and the roofs were covered with snow, it was determined to attempt to save the Carley block and those south of it if possible, accordingly an energetic band of workmen attacked the small Chaffee building and shortly had it demolished, and not a moment too soon, for it was fairly in flames as the last of its fragments were dragged into the street. Two little hand engines from Blood & Co's shop were promptly on hand and at this point did the business, by effectually checking the flames and preventing their spread to the south. The fire was communicated to the dwelling of M. Pyne, from Corbin's building and in a short time was an entire mass of flames. Pyne, however, succeeded in saving his furniture and effects.

The losses are given as follows: J. L. Corbin, loss $3,500; insured for $6,000. Odd Fellows, loss $800; insured for $500. J. Carrol, loss $2,500; insured for $2,000. N. P. Chaffee, loss $750; insured for $600. M. Pyne, loss $1,000; insured for $850. The Carley block was damaged somewhat by fire, say $150, fully insured. The hotel of Chas. Day, opposite side, was also considerably scorched. Damaged about $100; insured. This is the second severe fire visited upon the borough of Athens this winter. It is about time they were thinking of a better fire department, it is also the third time this same ground has been burned over, if indeed seems to be a fatal locality.—There is no present means of accounting for the origin of the fire but it is generally thought it caught about the stove in Corbin's store, in some unaccountable manner.—Cor. Bradford Republican.

Down in Luzerne.—From the Luzerne Union: Wm. Burke who was charged with highway robbery on the streets of Scranton by Chief Boice of that city, appeared before the court on the 23d, accompanied by his father, Thomas Burke, who became bondsman in the sum of $2,500 for his son's appearance at the next court of Quarter Sessions.

Rev. H. L. Jones read a death bed letter on Sunday to his congregation from Dr. Colton, who officiated in St. Stephen's church several months before the coming of the present Rector. This venerable man expects to survive but a short time. He sent love and kindly greetings to the congregation and to the Sunday School.

From The Scranton Times: Last Wednesday morning an explosion occurred in Hutchinson mines, at Mill Hollow, killing three men and wounding seven or eight others. Several years since the mines had caved in at this place and communication had been cut off from that portion. Gas had accumulated, and in working up the mines this abandoned portion had been reached, the gas filling the mine and causing a fearful explosion. The names of the persons killed are James Hutchinson.—Foster and Ryan.

James Doyle, a tinsmith, living at Green Ridge, while at work tinning a roof for James Lee, at Plymouth, on Tuesday, slipped and fell from the roof; a distance of forty feet, to the ground. It was a three story, and basement building. He struck upon his feet and was thrown upon his face, the first fall breaking his right leg between the hip and knee, the second cutting and bruising his face shockingly. Dr. Wilson attended him, and yesterday he was sent to his home in Green Ridge, arriving here at four o'clock in the afternoon. The result of his injuries cannot be definitely determined, but his physician takes a very favorable view of the case.

Last week a boy named John Lloyd, twelve years old, deliberately shot his sister-in-law, Mrs. David Lloyd—who may be better known as Jennie Lewis—in the face with a shot gun. The shot with which the gun was loaded, took effect in the left upper jaw, and the result of the wound is still a matter of some doubt. The circumstances as nearly as we could get them from conflicting accounts are as follows: The boy was at breakfast, and not liking the way it was cooked, asked his sister who cooked it, and was told that his sister-in-law, Mrs. Lloyd, had fixed it for him. He then made some mean remark and Mrs. L. replied in the same strain, when the boy, becoming enraged, told his sister to get his gun, and she did so, whereupon he aimed it at his brother's wife, the muzzle close to her face and discharged it. Then he was scared and ran off, and at latest advices they were looking for him very anxiously.

Mr. Van Horn, the proprietor of the new Restaurant on Market Street, has been put under bonds to appear at the next session to answer for selling and using benzine, or some patent fluid which is held to be dangerous. His popular restaurant on Main street was destroyed by fire a few months ago, and he has opened a new place on Market street.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption. The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only the civilized but the uncivilized nations, have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation, or maintained so long a name as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has been known to the public about forty years, and has made a name for itself that has won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of Croup, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of security from their fatal effects, that is well founded if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the remedy and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and no life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks. PREPARED BY DR. J. C.
