Aman of around his neck for some time. His while he calls upon God to bear witness to his innocence, is struck dead almost before the appeal has left his lips. Incredible as the circumstance may appear, they are literally true. A little over a year ago there lived in a small village in Sweeden a man by the name of Rosencrist, whose ostensible pursuit was that of a tailor, but rumor bad it that his principal revenue was derived from preaching and stealing, and at last this impression was so strongly confirmed that he suddenly left that village to evade the arm of justice. He came to this country about eight months ago, and took up his residence in Chicago, where he again worked at his trade, Having a family, he found it difficult to support them in the city, and consequently sent them to a farm about fourteen miles from Chicago. He thereupon took ladeines at a boarding-house No. 144, Burnside street, and for a long time no suspicions were cutertained as to his character. Recently several valuable articles belonging to boarders at the house were found missing, out no clue as to the perpetrator could be detected. Yesterday afternoon another theft was discovered, and the proofs of guilt pointed directly to Rosencrist, no one else having been near the apartment since the time the articles stolen were last seen. On being accused, he stoutly denied the thefr, but, finding no eredence was given to the denial, he suddenly grew more passionate, and, and lifting up his hand towards heaven, exclaimed that he hoped his "tongue would ret in his mouth, his head drop from his shoulders, and God strike him dead on the spot," if he was guilty. No sooner had these words escaped his lips, when he suddenly began to real and stagger, and, before support could be given, he fell to the floor-dead, The excitement this created among the bystanders can better be imagined than described. Strong men stood paralyzed. women fainted and none were able to speak for some minutes. The occurrence was so horrible, this apparent retribution so terrible, that men doubted their senses But the dead man remained prostrate on the floor-a ghastly proof of the reality, with $25,000 belonging to his neighbors The rumor of this strange and startling fatality soon spread through the neighwas fitted with horror stricken people. none of whom doubted that the hand of God was thus made visible. A physician was called, who pronounced the cause of death to be disease of the heart, produced by over excitement.
