

Juniata Sentinel.

A union of lakes, and a union of lands,
A union no power shall sever;
A union of hearts, and a union of hands,
And the American Union forever!

MIFFLINTOWN:
Wednesday Morning, April 3, 1867.

H. H. WILSON, Editor and Publisher.

THE JUNIATA SENTINEL has the Largest Circulation of any paper published in this County. It is therefore the best advertising medium. It is a Paper, truly loyal, ably conducted, a first class Localist, and well worthy of the patronage of every loyal citizen in the County.

THE LAST VETO.

President Johnson has sent to Congress a veto of the Supplementary Reconstruction act that reads very strangely to any one familiar with his administration as military Governor of Tennessee. It is entertaining to observe how apprehensive he is lest the conventions to be elected under this proposed reorganization of the rebel States should not represent "the people" thereof. Looking into the message closely, says the North American, we find that his idea of "the people" of the south does not include the four millions of the African race, but that he has the most especial and remarkable error for all the whites of these States who were rebels. He does not perceive how they are to avoid perjury, and he fears, poor soul! that they will be compelled by the force of circumstances to do rather too much hard swearing. If Congress would set up a mark so that they could swear at it, perhaps they could arrange matters satisfactorily, to themselves at least.

Taking into consideration the amount of time and care bestowed in this bill upon the work of registration, and the precautions by which a full and honest vote is insured, it is tolerably cool in President Johnson to treat the bill as an outrage upon popular rights, when the sort of an election he held and contrived in Tennessee in 1864 was such that Congress refused to count the electoral vote of the State, notwithstanding that he was our candidate for Vice President. The disfranchisement established, and indeed originated by himself, in Tennessee, far exceeded what is provided for in this act, and if this policy of disfranchisement be now as odious as he would have us believe, he must thank himself for it.

The point in reference to Congress exacting a condition of suffrage at the south which is not established at the north would be a good one but for the important considerations that these northern States have not been in rebellion against the national government; that the blacks in the north are so few that the denial of suffrage to them does not prevent a majority of the people from governing, as it does in the south; and finally, that the national government has neither the power nor the cause of complaint against the north that it has against the south.

As to the apprehensions Johnson strives to excite, relative to the interference of military authority to prevent the registration, it is a sufficient answer to that to say that the whole military authority is under his own immediate control and direction, by the express words of the national Constitution; that Congress possesses no power to interfere with him in that department, and that he has himself appointed the brigadier generals entrusted with authority in the several military districts. What, then, could possess the man to magnify the dangers of military usurpation or tyranny, when he knew that the remedy was in his own hands? What, indeed, but the soured, discontented, malignant and hateful disposition of a man who knows that his own dark designs have all been thwarted by the legislative body whose acts he seeks to slander and misrepresent?

No President of the United States ever before was subjected to the mortification of having his veto defied in the Senate by a vote of forty to seven. This majority against him seems to augment with each successive veto, and it is so great now on the occasion of his twelfth act of folly, that he might as well waste no more good writing paper in placing on record statements that must hand his name down with infamy to all posterity.

It is reported that the latest movement in the New Jersey Legislature, with regard to female suffrage, has been a report by a committee recommending that a Constitutional Convention be called to consider this and other matters, that the question may be fairly brought before the people for their action.

THE NEW LICENSE LAW.

No act of the present Legislature is received with more favor than the law regulating the sale of intoxicating liquor throughout the State. This approval is not confined to any particular party. Journals, says the Harrisburg Telegraph, without distinction of politics, accept the provisions of the law as essential to public health, individual life and general prosperity. Our contemporaries all bear testimony that the time had arrived to check the sale, and if possible to diminish the inordinate use of liquor as a beverage. Succeeding in doing this, crime of all kind only can be erased. If this law is potential in keeping men and women sober, the larger portion of the penal code will become obsolete, for the reason that there will be less criminals against whom to enforce laws against crime. To keep men from crime, in nine cases out of ten, it is only necessary to keep them sober. Hence it is that our contemporaries approve the new license law. Hereafter wise and upright judges will have power to discriminate in granting license and instead of having lager beer saloons strung along our streets like so many concealed pits of iniquity, from which weak men seldom escape when they once fall in, these temptations will be removed, and many a warm-hearted fellow saved from a drunkard's grave. Such a prospect is well calculated to make the most callous men rejoice.

GEN. SHERIDAN'S LAST ORDER.

General Sheridan, under the authority conferred upon him by the Military Reconstruction bill, has issued the following order:

NEW ORLEANS, March 27.—The following order was promulgated to-day: HEADQUARTERS OF THE FIFTH MILITARY DISTRICT—General Orders No. 5.—Andrew S. Herron, Attorney General of the State of Louisiana; John T. Monroe, Mayor of New Orleans; and Edmund Abell, Judge of the First District Court of the city of New Orleans, are hereby removed from their respective offices, from twelve o'clock, noon, to-day.

The following appointments are made, to take effect on the same date:—B. L. Lynch, Attorney General of the State of Louisiana; Edward Heath, Mayor of New Orleans, and W. W. Howe, Judge of the First District Court of New Orleans.

Each person removed will turn over all books, papers, records, &c., pertaining to his office, to the one appointed thereto; the authority of the latter must be duly respected and enforced.

By command of Major-General P. H. Sheridan.

GEO. L. HARTSUFF, Assistant Adjutant-General.

This retires from authority for the present, the principal aiders and abettors of the New Orleans Massacre, and if their successors are not faithful to all the requirements of loyalty, "Phil" will defer them with a sharp stick. As we remarked in a former issue, if that district is not made habitable for loyal men, we are sure it will not be Gen. Sheridan's fault.

Settlement of the Negro Question.

The New York World, the leading Democratic paper of the country, admits that agitation of the repeal at any future time of the reconstruction measure passed by Congress should not be thought of, and so far as the country is concerned the negro question is settled. The following extract from one of the World's leaders will give the gist of its views:

"While every northern State at present in possession of the Republicans, some time is required for changing the political character of the State Legislatures, which elect the Senators. Until this is accomplished, the Senate will remain, as now, overwhelmingly Republican. But when the senatorial changes begin, they can proceed but slowly, owing to the long terms of the Senators. There is, therefore, no possibility of the repeal of the reconstruction act until it has accomplished all the mischief of which it is capable. Agitation for its repeal would be political folly, because the Southern States cannot, and will not, stand unrecognized and unrepresented until a repeal could be effected. Nothing is more certain than that the Southern States will be reconstructed upon the basis of that act; and the negroes, once admitted to the suffrage, can never afterwards be excluded, inasmuch as their own votes would have to be counted on the question of exclusion. Neither the Democratic party or any other party of practical men in their senses, will go into the next Presidential election with the repeal of the reconstruction act upon that issue, it is certain that no subsequent one can. We may accordingly regard the negro question as settled."

France not only retires ignominiously from Mexico, but is forced, through absolute fear of Prussia, suddenly and wonderfully aggrandised, to seek alliances for mutual defence with Holland, Belgium and Switzerland; and Belgium, at least, has rejected the overtures. Meanwhile Prussia has made a close alliance with Wurtemberg. Prussia can now put into the field a much larger military force than France can command. A new arbiter of European destiny has arisen.

It is reported that the latest movement in the New Jersey Legislature, with regard to female suffrage, has been a report by a committee recommending that a Constitutional Convention be called to consider this and other matters, that the question may be fairly brought before the people for their action.

—Maximilian only waits in Mexico to make the best pecuniary arrangements that he can, and he will certainly leave the country before the 1st of July. We never believed other than that Max went to Mexico to make a pecuniary arrangement. Like all pretenders he wants money.

—While every Northern Copperhead is howling over the passage of the military reconstruction bill, the sensible men of the South approve it. Reverly Johnson, of Maryland, thinks it the best terms that the South can expect. Gov. Orr, of South Carolina, Ex-Gov. Brown, of Ga., and Gov. Pierpont, of Virginia, also approve of it. The objections of Copperheads and rebels are of no sort of account.

WHO ARE DISFRANCHISED.—Senator Wilson, in a letter to John M. Wascom, of Texas, relative to the Reconstruction law, says: "In reply to your question, 'Does the law, as it now exists, disfranchise the rank and file of soldiers who had never taken the oath to support the Constitution of the United States?' I have to say it does not disfranchise them. The Constitutional Amendment disqualifies from holding office certain persons who had taken the oath to support the United States and then engaged in rebellion, or gave aid and comfort to it. This class of persons are disfranchised, and all other persons are entitled to vote."

AN ANTI-TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT.—The Portland correspondent of the Boston Herald says that "there is a movement among the Democracy to vote in a body and in full force against the amendment of the law to suppress the drinking houses and tipping shops, which is to be submitted to the people of that State on the first Monday in June, and, through the aid of 'liberal' Republicans, defeat it, thereby getting a good organization and the beneficial influence of a victory."

The Southern ex-rebels will have their jokes, or at least will talk about jokes. One of the most recent is the proposition to elect a negro Governor of Tennessee. The trouble is that no decent negro will consent to run on a Democratic ticket, and if he did no decent negro would vote for him. There would be the difficulty in carrying out the "goak." If Brownlow lives he will thorn the Democracy a couple years longer, and it is fit work for him.

The Reading Journal proposes that "one of these years, after national affairs are settled," the question of a Free Railroad Law be "brought before the people." Why not this year?
