FUNERALS.

The Advocate says that one of our city pastors has received funeral fees to the amount of $100 in a year, being considerably more than he received in the same length of time for wedding services .-Why shouldn't he? The work is harder, and such earnings are as legitimate as those of undertakers who make all their living from the dead.

We clip the above from a city exchange. But few persons are aware of the amount of gratuitous service which some of our Ministers render in this way. We have known a Minister to sit up the whole night, to write out, in full, a funeral sermon, furnish his own horse and carriage, ride forty miles (in going and returning.) over a rough road and in inclement weather, to conduct the funeral services in a wealthy family to whom he was a comparative stranger, and to whom he was under no obligations; and having done all this, to receive the following compensation: "It you are ever this way again, please call."

Another being invited to conduct the funeral services in a family belonging to a different denomination from his own, consented; although at much personal inconvenience. He hired his own conveyauce for which he paid a dollar and a half-spent one whole day of his time from his own people-and then was not with increased prestige and authority, vigeven so much as thanked for his services; orously protested against European interbut received the ill-will of the whole con. ference with affairs on this continent .nection, because he would not ride five This was the first expression of homoge miles additional and engage in the social the Republic received on its accession to festivities of a Funeral Dinner with the fresh luster and renown. friends and neighbors.

The New School Assembly continued its committee during the coming year, and expressed an earnest desire for the consummation of the Union. In the meantime. another branch of the Presbyterian family, the General Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church, has passed resolutions favoring a Union of all the Presbyterian bodies, and, for maturing this plan, has called a General Presbyterian Convention, which is to meet this fall.

THE NEW LIQUOR LAW .- The new liquor law of Pennsylvania is by far the most sweeping enactment of the kind ever adopted in this State. It closes all bars and saloons after midnight, and entirely on Sabbath; makes it the duty of the constables and police to arrest every person found in the public streets or highways intoxicated, whether disorderly or not : utterly forbids the selling or giving in any way of ale or beer, as well as of stronger liquors, to minors; authorizes any shild of any parent to forbid the sale of whisty or champagne to his father; and makes it the bounden duty of all sherifis, constables and officers and members of the police, to compel the observance of all its provisions.

THE war in Mexico has at last reaphed almost a quietus. Late accounts state that Maximilian is a prisoner, and the Imperialists have been used up. It has cost this invader millions to get himself into this scrape; and additional millions will fail to get him out of it with a whole hide. It appears to be inevitable that he will be executed promptly, unless Horace Greeley bestirs himself, and goes his bail! What would the Mexicans say to such an offer? We fear they "couldn't see it." In Mexico, rebels are treated as rebels: in the United States, they are treated as distinguished statesmen.

OUR thanks are due to Gen. A. L. Rusell, for a copy of the Adjutant General's Report for 1866. It is a highly valuable the late Rebellion from the State.

In his speech at Columbia, South Carolina, on the 4th day of October, 1864, Jeff Davis said :

Does any man believe that Yankees are to be consolidated by means of concession? Does any man imagine that we can conquer Yankees by retreating before them -or do you not all know that the only way to make spaniels civil is to whip them?

Such seems not to be the opinion of many Yankees as to the late rebels-especially does not Horace Greeley think so of Mr. Davis.
