BREAKING FAITH WITH SOLDIERS

We clip the following article from the Fulton Republican. It shows in what estimation such men as Lyons, Wilson, Sterrett and (Pern) Patterson are held by Republicans in neighboring counties, and needs no comments from us—Ep.

"The pledges and promises made by the Republican party, during the war, in favor of the soldier, all sounded very well, but the action of the party, in several instances, especially in the late campaign, in violating the pledged faith of the party, in this respect, are worthy of notice. In Philadelphia not a single soldier was placed upon the ticket, notwithstanding meritorious soldiers, who had ample qualifications for the several positions, were presented for the nominations, yet they were set aside to make room for hackneyed politicians who thought too much of their worthless carcasses to risk them in the army. The Democrats taking advantage of this and placing on their ticket brave and meritorious soldiers, succeeded, by reason of this, in defeating us where we should and could have had 5000 majority and with the defeat of the local ticket, defeated also our candidate for Supreme Judge.

"In Juniata county the Republicans did nominate a soldier, Capt. H. H. Wilson, for the Legislature. He received the nomination over the heads of stay-at-home patriots, and these, conveniently forgetting their professions and pledges of devotion to the soldier while in the field, now resolved to defeat him, notwithstanding the party in convention said they preferred him. Accordingly they went to work, and by a system of trading and bartering succeeded in defeating a brave and gallant soldier and electing a Copperhead without education or qualification, and who, during the war, used whatever influence he had, against the Government, while Captain Wilson was battling for the right.

"Who and what Captain H. H. Wilson is, we will briefly state. He enlisted as a private soldier in the 16th Regt. Penna. Cavalry, and during the course of the war, by gallant and meritorious conduct won his way up to a Captaincy. The flag of the Regiment has inscribed on it some thirty-seven different engagements, in which the Regiment participated, in all of which, with two or three honorable exceptions, Captain Wilson was engaged.

"At the battle of 'Hatcher's Run,' on the 5th day of February, 1865, Captain Wilson was severely wounded, the ball carrying away the half of his lower jaw and a part of his tongue, leaving him a cripple for life. About two months before the expiration of his term (three years) of service, he resigned, being unable to live on army fare after losing his masticating powers.

"This is the record of a brave man, and who will say that it is not honorable? And this is the fate he met at the hands of the Juniata Republicans. Base and unparalleled in gratitude! It is a withering, burning, blistering shame, and those who were guilty of it, will, if justice is ever meted out to them, drink the Litter cup of remorse.

"But 'twas John J. Patterson's candidate, 'say they, and excuse themselves on the plea that they wanted to rebuke John J. Patterson. Fanatical sophistry! If John J. Patterson deserved rebuking, why did they not wait until they had a chance to rebuke him, and then do it, and not pour the vials of their wrath on the head of the brave, exemplary, unmaimed soldier.

"Their shame is all the greater for trying to excuse themselves in this perfidy. In point of qualifications Captain Wilson stands incomparably above Mr. Miller;—in patriotism and devotion to country he is so far above the Democrat for whom the Juniata Republicans voted, that it must be an insult to a brave soldier to be named on the same day with Miller and yet they voted for this Miller to break Captain Wilson's neck, in order to gratify their spite at John J. Patterson.

"We have no apology to offer for J. J. Patterson. The Republicans of Juniata county probably have reasons for their dislike to him, but then he, individually, is the man for them to vent their spleen on, and not a meritorious soldier like Captain Wilson, who, for three years, interposed himself between these men and their enemies and returns from the war, maimed for life.

"Their conduct is cowardly, and their ingratitude unequalled! The same remarks apply to Colonel Robinson's case."

SHERMAN AND THE INDIANS.

Lieutenant-General Sherman officially informs the troops under his command, and through them, the citizens of the United States, that a peace has been concluded with the Kiowa, Comanche, Apache, Cheyenne and Arapahoe Indians, which treaties are yet incomplete. The most important part of the official order is that which says that, by the terms of the treaties, these tribes will ultimately be located in the Indian country to the south of the State of Kansas; but as they are to be allowed to hunt game outside the settled limits of Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado, in the prairie country to the south of the South Platte, it is ordered that this treaty right be respected on the part of all these tribes, although the treaty limits the right to the Cheyennes and Arapahoes alone. Commanding officers of posts, and of troops en route, are required to treat all such hunting parties in a friendly spirit, but to neglect as a precaution for safety, as troops should observe always, no matter where they are; and all troops are commanded to spare no proper effort to keep the peace with these Indians, because it is the earnest wish of the Government of the United States that war should be avoided, and the civil agents of the government have a full and fair chance to reduce them to a state of comparative civilization. The hunting right was strongly insisted upon by the Cheyennes and Arapahoes, and it would have been impossible to negotiate the treaty without it. But as long as it exists there will be constant danger of collisions; and although General Sherman may succeed in keeping the troops from engaging in hostilities, it will be difficult to prevent assaults and outrages on some of the large number of adventurers that cross the Plains.

DISORDERS IN ENGLAND.

The English bread riots continue, but they are confined to small sections of country, principally in places where the populace are idle in consequence of a want of employment. These constitute the "dangerous classes," and they are strong enough in England to pull down the fabric of society, if they unite and get their passions fairly roused. In that country the fashion is to ascribe all evils and misfortunes to "government," and reflection has little to do with the prejudices of the ignorant. The worst feature about the prejudices of the ignorant is that they do not seem to be permanently extinguished. As soon as they are put down in one place, they break out in another. This shows a disordered condition of the body politic, which is indicative of the trouble that menaces the privileged orders in England, and which must in time undermine and destroy aristocratic institutions.

The "Democratic" papers advise Gen. Grant not to accept the Republican nomination for the Presidency; and kindly add that that they will defeat him, if he should run on that ticket! Grant never kept out of a fight for fear of defeat; and never asked his enemies how he should act. He carried on the war in his own way, and without regard to the advice of the Rebels, who all the while insisted that they were winning victories. So he will act in politics—in contemptuous disregard of the opinions and wishes of the Copperheads; whom he detests for their cowardly desertion of the country when it was betrayed into the hands of traitorous enemies.

The late election in Georgia resulted in a complete Republican victory.

From the Levittown Gazette.

OUR SENATORIAL DISTRICT.

Our readers will bear witness that we have generally refrained from urging candidates to contest elections, even when good cause existed; but the conduct of McIntire and Shugert's friends, through their Copperhead organs, is so mean, contemptible and overbearing, that we feel constrained to urge the prosecution of a contest, and thus test a matter to which we have repeatedly called attention. Not satisfied with their success in obtaining certificates by the aid of deserters, by bribery, and by involving the Pennsylvania Railroad into political difficulties which it may yet become the duty of a Legislative Committee to ventilate, they are arrogantly charging in advance all manner of fraud, corruption, and disregard of law on the Republican members of the Senate of Pennsylvania.

These Copperhead gentlemen all profess to love, revere, and worship the Constitution. If they can be believed none of them, much as they love power and money, would even hold an office in violation thereof; and they are struck with horror, turn up the whites of their eyes, or are lashed to fury when either of their twin rebel sheets, Age or Patriot and Union, gulls them with a dish of pretended violations of that instrument. They cannot complain then if they get a dose of "Constitution" of a compound euphoric nature, are physicked according to the Constitution, and cleansed of bile and mucus by that object of their apparent idolatry. And to do this, we need not quote a Republican judge, but will cite their own kith and kin—a man after their own heart, who, during the rebellion declared that Pennsylvania naturally affiliated to the rebel States—the immaculate Chief Justice Woodward. Although soldiers voted under the laws of Pennsylvania in the war of 1812, no matter where stationed; although they voted under the burning sun of Mexico, no one dreamt of depriving a citizen of his right of suffrage because he was serving his country, until during the rebellion, when, soldiers not voting for home snakes according to order, Woodward issued his fiat that every citizen MUST VOTE IN THE ELECTION DISTRICT WHERE HE RESIDES! We commented upon this construction at the time, and pointed out the fact that Granville, Derry, Oliver and Wayne did not hold their elections according to this decision; we did the same thing subsequently, but the Constitution-loving Democracy paid no heed to our admonitions.

The following are the majorities for Shugert and McIntire, in the district referred to:

Shugert's Majority	McIntire's Majority
Derry.....21	Robison.....29
Granville.....3798
Wayne.....2930
Oliver.....6565
Total.....	222

All the above, according to the decision of Woodward, are UNCONSTITUTIONAL, and consequently illegal, null and void! The figures then, thus far, elect Mr. Robinson by 200 over Shugert, and leave Mr. M'Vitty only 11 votes behind McIntire; and as there is no doubt every deserver in the district, where Copperhead boards presided, was taken and counted, we believe they alone would be sufficient to overcome all that could be brought forward by the opposition.

"VIVA LA CONSTITUTION!"

NOVEMBER ELECTIONS.

NEW YORK.
NEW YORK, November 6.—The returns complete and estimated from thirty-eight counties give a Democratic gain over last year, when the Republicans carried the State by 12,789 votes. The Democratic majority in the State will doubtless exceed 40,000.

MASSACHUSETTS.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—Returns from 316 towns, comprising nearly the whole State, give the following result:

Bullock, Republican.....	95,589
Adams, Democrat.....	98,862
Republican majority.....	28,727

WISCONSIN.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 6.—The net Democratic gain in the State, as far as heard from, is two thousand and four. The Republicans claim that Fairchild is elected by about four thousand. The Democrats concede about three thousand. The Democrats gain six or eight members of the Assembly, and three or four Senators.

KANSAS.

The Democrats have made heavy gains in Kansas, but the Republicans have carried the State. The constitutional amendments have been defeated by eight or ten thousand majority.

MINNESOTA.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 6.—Scattering returns indicate that Marshall, Republican, is elected Governor by about 4,000 majority.

Negro suffrage amendment was defeated.

MARYLAND.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 6.—Returns come in slowly. The indications are that every official position in the State will be filled by Democrats.

NEW JERSEY.

The Democrats have carried the State by a small majority.

WEST VIRGINIA.

In this State the Republicans gain four members in the House over last year and two in Senate.

Reaction here, like gravitation, "turns the other way."

GRANT AND RETRENCHMENT.

General Grant is creating consternation in the military department of the government by the numerous reforms which he has ordered. The reduction in the number of clerks and employees of the government is so great that the yearly saving will amount to a handsome sum—This reform extends to all portions of the service, and cuts off many useless expenditures. In public affairs it is much easier to increase the number of officers who may be employed than to decrease them. Once a man gets into a position he begins to consider that his place is a necessity, and although it may be altogether useless, he will resist, as a personal wrong, any attempt to reduce extravagance so that the people shall be hampered with no greater burdens than they should bear with ease and justice. It requires an officer of independence and stern resolution to deal with such cases, and perhaps none could be found better fitted for the discharge of the delicate and unpleasant duty than the General-in-Chief.

STATEMENTS by a certain Chicago journal, made some weeks ago, were supposed to reflect the opinions of the Hon. James F. Wilson, of 1853, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee of the House, on the question of impeachment. Since the arrival of that gentleman at Washington he has seen proper to contradict this interference. Whether those statements were unauthorized, or the results of the October elections induced the Chairman to recant an advance movement, it is idle to spend time in conjecturing.

Practically, it does not essentially matter whether Mr. Wilson is in favor of impeachment or opposed to it. When the reports of the Committee shall be presented the House will determine what it will do, no matter which way a majority of the Committee shall go. If the House shall judge the evidence to be such as to demand impeachment, it will prefer articles. If it shall decide otherwise, the agitation to that end will cease.
