Constitutional Convention.

The Union League of Philadelphia some time ago inaugurated measures which, if adhered to, and adopted by the Republican party generally, cannot fail of inducing the Legislature soon to couvene, to favor the calling of a State Convention to amend the State Constitution. The desire for an amendment is not confined to the Republican party, it is heartily shared by Democrats. The amendmendments should not be of a partisan character. The Constitution is for the government of the whole people, and should be shaped to a single purpose, and that purpose the public good The prominent points now talked of connection with the amendments, are Special legislation-protection against it in the Constitution

The offering and the acceptance bribes on the part of legislators.

A change in the distribution and security of the public funds.

A change in regard to the power of corporations.

An increase of the members of houses of the Legislature

The election of State Treasurer. torney General, Adjutant General and State Superintendent of Common Schools. The election of a Lieutenant General.

Several other points are referred to which are not here mentioned, but which usual one. shall be sucken of at another time. Let the people carnestly think over the changes spoken of.
