

Junia Sentinel.

MIFFLINTOWN. Wednesday Morning, November 30, 1870.

B. F. SCHWEIER, EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.

GEN. P. ROWELL & CO., 40 Park Row, New York...

No Bolting.

The country distinctly recollects that the belief was entertained by both Republicans and Democrats that General Cameron had the political machinery so adjusted that at the meeting of the Legislature that convened at the close of the year 1862 he should be hoisted into the United States Senate.

While the Democracy rigidly enforce discipline among its members, as just illustrated, it at the same time seeks to break the discipline of the Republican party.

THE RUSSIAN trouble is seemingly as far from settlement as it was on the day that Prince Gortschakoff announced to the parties to the treaty of 1856 that Russia will no longer respect its provisions.

The English Cabinet is divided as to the course that England shall pursue in the Russian trouble.

The hope of the French people is now centered in the Army of the Loire, which they confidently believe will soon defeat Prince Frederick Charles.

THE MONARCHICAL party of Spain are jubilant over the election of their new King of Aosta.

GEN. HARRY WHITE, Speaker of the Senate, by virtue of his office, has ordered an election in the First Senatorial District.

PAMPHLET.—We are in receipt of a pamphlet containing Charter, By Laws, Regulations and History of the Union Cemetery Association of this place.

THE HARRISBURG Telegraph says Gen. Cameron, who has recently been down to Georgia, has arrived at home, with his health entirely restored.

THE ALABAMA claims should be presented to England for immediate settlement. If she will not settle, all intercourse with her should cease.

Steamship Line.

A few weeks ago we drew the attention of our readers to the efforts that the Philadelphia North American was making in its columns to induce the Pennsylvania Central Railroad Company to aid Philadelphia in establishing a steamship line to and from Europe.

"Resolved, That the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will unite with the commercial, manufacturing, and industrial interests of the city of Philadelphia in the establishment of a line of not less than four steamships, to be built in the United States, to ply between this port and Liverpool, or other European port, upon the following general basis:—

"A charter for the organization of a steamship company to be obtained from the Legislature of Pennsylvania at the next session, the minimum capital of such company to be $700,000, with power to increase to $5,000,000.

"The Pennsylvania Railroad Company will subscribe for $400,000 of said capital, on condition that $300,000 be subscribed for by other responsible parties."

"The people of Central Pennsylvania are interested in everything that tends to the advancement of the chief city of the State. That Philadelphia cannot fail of receiving great benefit from the suggested enterprise is too plain to admit of a doubt; and if the city is benefited and increased in importance, so in proportion must the State increase and grow in importance.

"We trust Philadelphia will accept the fine offer that the Railroad Company has made. Though living among the mountains of Central Pennsylvania, we are anxious for the advancement of the commercial and manufacturing interests of our great city on the Delaware.

"The importance to the city of a properly managed steamship line to Europe must be witnessed to be realized. And to understand how it will be managed with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in it as a partner, it is only necessary to direct one's attention to the management of the railroad. The greatest success cannot fail of attending the enterprise.

"A PHILADELPHIA correspondent of the Beaver Review writes as follows of the death of Senator Watt.

"Since my last sad death of Senator Watt has produced a stir in Philadelphia politics as it doubtless has done elsewhere. He was taken ill on last Saturday and on Tuesday became unconscious, and remained so until yesterday at 6 o'clock, A. M. when he breathed his last.

"A REMEDY.—The editor of the Mirror's Journal, at Pottsville, in writing upon the proposition to vote away the funds of the 'Sinking Fund' to certain speculative companies, writes as follows:

"If the people are to be robbed of these $9,500,000 by a set of purchased legislators, we hope to God that the people will raise en masse and hang the scoundrels on the Capitol grounds.

"There must be a stop put to this rascally swindling, or our Republican institutions will be a thing of the past.—The time has come when the press of the country must speak out even if it is dumb in our cities, where nearly all this corruption and rascality springs from.

"HEAD LEVEL.—Knabb, of the Berks and Schuylkill Journal, in speaking of the intimated betrayal of the Republican party at the meeting of the Legislature, says:—

Credulity of the People.

A balloon letter from Paris to the London Daily News, dated November 2, says,—"The seign is one long holiday to the working classes. They are as well fed as ever they were and have absolutely nothing to do except to play at soldier. Although the troops are unable to hold the villages within the fire of their forts they are under the delusion that—to use the favorite expression—the circle in which they are inclosed is gradually but surely being enlarged. I was this morning buying some cigars at a small tobacconist's. 'Well, said the proprietor of the shop to me, 'so we are to destroy the Prussians in twenty days.' 'Really,' I said. 'Yes he replied, 'I was this morning at the Mairie: there was a crowd before it complaining that they could not get meat. A gentleman—functionary—got upon a stool. Citizen and citizenesses, he said, be calm; continue to preserve the admirable attitude which is eliciting the admiration of the world I give you my honor that arrangements have been made to drive the Prussians away from Paris in twenty days. 'Of course,' added my worthy bourgeois, 'this functionary would not have spoken thus had the government not revealed its plans to him.' 'At this moment a well dressed individual entered the shop and asked for a subscription for the construction of a machine which he had invented to blow up the whole Prussian army. I expected to see him handed over to a policeman, but instead of this the bourgeois gave him two francs! What, I ask, is to be expected of a city peopled by such credulous fools, and the government fools them to the top of their bent!'

"STARVATION IN PARIS.—EATING A MENAGERIE.—No more startling presage of the famine which threatens Paris could be furnished than the London telegram of the 12th, which announced that the Parisians began on the 7th instant to slaughter and eat the flesh of the different animals in the Jardin des Plantes.—It was added that 'the meat rates high in the market. Yaks sold at thirty francs per pound. The monkeys were to be killed and eaten during the next ensuing week.' Long before the war scientific men in Paris had partially succeeded in popularizing horse meat as an article of food. But none of them had dreamed of the approaching necessity of recommending yak, or anything else to be found at Paris only in the menagerie or the Jardin des Plantes. This menagerie is indeed abundantly supplied with animals. It is one of the most extensive in the world. Established in 1794, it has become an important addition to the attractions of the Gardens, which itself dates from the reign of Louis XIII. The various compartments of the menagerie are enclosed by iron railings. Noah's ark could not have been more crowded with animal reptiles. Here all kinds of poultry, geese, swans, crocodiles, alligators, lizards, bon constrictors, buffaloes, lions, bears, elephants, camels, camelpards, hyenas, panthers, Bengal tigers and innumerable monkeys. In the good old days of peace the visitor was directed to apply to M. le Directeur du Jardin des Plantes for a ticket to witness the feeding of the animals; but now that dire war has reduced the Parisians to feed upon them, a differently worded ticket will be required.—No doubt Parisian cookery will be equal to the emergencies, but the Parisian restaurant will need new and strange bills of fare.—N. Y. Herald.

"ROBBERY ON THE HIGHWAY.—A young man named Anthony Hood, a long as he was crossing the mountain on Saturday on the by-road leading from Williamsburg to this city, and when in the vicinity of what is called the Kettle some two or three miles from this place, with his head down and the snow and sleet beating in his face, he was assailed by three men who suddenly emerged from the brush, one presenting a pistol and taking position directly in front of him, while the other two proceeded to search his pockets, relieving him of all the money he had—$75.00 in all. Not a word was spoken on either side, and as soon as they relieved him of his money they allowed him to depart. One of them, a short heavy set man, and the other two of medium height and slender, and all wore more or less disguised, and about as ill-looking scamps as can well be imagined. This occurred about one or two o'clock in the afternoon.—Mr. Hood has relatives here, and his statement is fully credited by those who know him. Let others take warning and be better prepared than he was, should such an emergency arise.—Altoona Sun.

"IMPRISONED FOR LIFE. Southern papers say that E. M. Yerger, who killed Colonel Crane in Jackson Miss., several years ago, has had a second trial, and being found guilty has been sentenced to imprisonment for life.

"FOUR STEAMBOATS were burned on the Ohio river at Evansville, a few days ago. Mrs. Madora Ward, a passenger on one of the vessels, perished in the flames.

Just as we Found Them.

All the little German school girls are knitting soldier's stockings. General Sheridan has gone to Constantinople. A catholic church fair just closed at Reading realized $3,000. Bear meat is cheaper than beef at Omaha.

Virginia has the best crop of cotton ever grown in that State. San Francisco has street preachers in the shape of Chinese converts.

A $5,000 organ is to be put in the English Lutheran Church at Allentown. In the list of coffee drinking nations the United States ranks second.

Mrs. Durin, of Copley, Lehigh county, has reached the astonishing age of 103 years. Forty-seven years ago the ice on the 21st of November was thick enough in central New England to bear a sled.

Wheat straw is selling in West Chester at $14 per ton. Prime timothy hay worth about $20 per ton. The people of Chester county are flocking in crowds to Virginia, where they invest in land largely.

Cows have been dying in the neighborhood of Intercourse, Lancaster county, from milk fever. A bridegroom of eighty and a bride of ninety-eight, have appeared in Rowley, N. H.

The buffaloes have become disgusted with the hideous howling of the locomotives on the Pacific Railroad, and are rarely seen along the line now. There are manufactured in the United States each year over 1,500,000 scythes, at a cost of about the same number of dollars, employing not far from 1500 hands.

Three safe robbers were arrested in Kentucky last week through the instrumentality of an old lady and her daughter, to whom a member of the gang had made a confession just before his death. The Artesian salt well of Lincoln, Nebraska, throws a stream of brine six inches in diameter to a height over fifty feet. This stream has sufficient volume and velocity to turn a mill wheel.

A young lady having read about a man having invented a stove which consumes its own smoke, hopes he will devise a method where by tobacco smokers can run on the same economical principle.

The people of Minnesota have voted an important amendment to the State constitution. That instrument now provides that all stockholders in any corporation shall be liable to the amount of stock held by them. The amendment excepts railroads from this provision.

The only property left by an old woman who died recently at Lafayette, Indiana, at the age of eighty-nine, was a twenty-dollar gold piece, which she had kept carefully concealed for thirty-five years, in order to pay her funeral expenses.

To cure dogs of sucking eggs, a correspondent of the Southern Cultivator says:—"Take an egg, punch a hole in it large enough to admit the little blade of a knife and put in through the hole as much tar emetic as can be piled on a dime piece, and give it to the dog, or put it in a convenient place where he will find it. Repeat three or four times within ten days or two weeks.

In Muskingum county, Ohio, a man named Dutton had been out coon hunting and, after returning home and retiring, dreamed in his uneasy slumber that he had caught the coon and struck it against a tree, killing it. He was awakened by the frantic screams of his wife, and to his horror found that he had picked up his little infant daughter and dashed her against a bedpost, killing her almost instantly.

The following head notes of the case of Houser vs. Tully, from Adams county, lately decided by our Supreme Court, may give useful information as to the duties and obligations of inn-keepers to their guests. Tully went to Houser's inn and purchased liquor, &c., and gave money for safe-keeping to one in the bar-room, as to whom there was evidence that he was bar-keeper. The money was lost. The Court properly instructed the jury that if Tully was a guest, and gave his money to the barkeeper, or if not in fact bar-keeper, one acting in capacity from which an authority to receive the money on the credit of the house might be inferred, he could recover if the money was entrusted to him on the credit of the inn; but if Tully was not a guest, or entrusted the money on the individual credit of the inn-keeper, he could not recover. An inn-keeper extends an invitation to travellers and receives a reward for his hospitality, from which result corresponding duties, one being to protect the property of his guest. An inn-keeper is bound to take all possible care of the goods, money and baggage of his guests deposited in his house or entrusted to his family or servants, and is responsible for their acts and the acts of other guests. An inn-keeper is bound to provide honest servants and to exercise an exact vigilance over all persons coming into his house as guests or otherwise. An inn-keeper is bound to pay for goods stolen in his house from a guest; unless stolen by a servant or companion of the guest. In the case of a loss at an inn, the inn-keeper is liable although sick or absent. An inn-keeper is not liable for the loss or embezzlement of his guest's money when he does not deposit it in security of the inn, but entrusts it to another guest, or inmate in whom he reposes confidence.

A SPLENDID CHANCE, AN EXTRAORDINARY OFFER, DON'T DELAY, SEND AT ONCE, A LARGE ILLUSTRATED PAPER Free For One Year.

THE PEOPLES JOURNAL is a first class monthly, containing 16 pages four-column paper; a popular Journal, independent in its discussion of subjects, ignoring nothing of general interest to the American People. It is in charge of able Editors, who keep it with the times.

Its Department cover the field of magazine and news literature. That of Morals and Didactic Literature is sufficiently abundant and thoughtful to make the Journal an ever-welcome Sabbath day or devotional companion. The aged may find rich food for comfort in its columns; and the young, jewels of fact and counsel.

Another department is especially devoted to the Young Folks. This will prove a mine of wealth to the thoughtful and diligent. It is not only instructive, but so adjusted as to excite a love for reading and study in the young. About that space is given to the News of the Month, and the treatment of National, Political and other secular topics, after the manner of our best weekly and daily journals.

The Farmers' Department is in charge of a practical agriculturist, who makes it equal to the advanced wants of the most enterprising farmers and gardeners. Besides all these, there will be found Departments devoted to Literature and Art in the abstract, to news of Literature, to Wit, Humor and general Faerie.

In short, THE PEOPLES JOURNAL is a most extensive and complete Monthly Repository of Information and Thought. We are now prepared to offer the PEOPLES JOURNAL as a Free Gift for one year to all new subscribers (or renewals) to the Junia Sentinel, in accordance with statement in local column.

GEORGE FRYNSINGER'S Cigar and Tobacco Store, In Kirk's Room, on Main Street, MIFFLINTOWN, PA. Is now open. Everybody is invited to give him a call.
