Doct's Corner.

LOVE SONG.

BY W. L. SHOEMAKER. "Do I still love you?" Ask the bee. If he still loves the flower; And of the flower demand if she Loves sunshine and the shower

And ask the bird if still he loves The joy that Summer brings-Soft airs, blue skies, and leafy groves, That listen while he sines. If bee and flower and bird say "Nay,"

Then my love's faise and fled away. "Why do I love you !" Ask the sea Why it adores the moon ; And asked the queenly rose why she Dotes on the month of June : And ask the sunflower why she turns

Her bosom to the enn, And all the dark night fondly yearns For her beloved one. If sunflower rose and sea reply. "We do not know," no more know I

Ah, who the secret course can tell Of love that long endures ?" The charm is undefinable. That draws my soul to yours, I only know that still my love

Is centred all in you-As constant as the stars above And pure as the morning dew, Enough, though bil the cause may be

This event has been a sudden shock to both families, and the absolute con cealment of his marriage from all his friends for many years, while his wife and children openly bore his name in public botels in this city, is as unaccount able to them as it will be to others .-The young man was for several years an internal revenue officer in this city, but for some years past has been employed in a bank down town. He paid three thousand dollars a year for the board of his wife and children, while receiving salary of only two thousand; and has yet maintained his bachelor life with lavish expenditure. In his rooms are said to have lain not far from a bundred suits of clothes, with expensive books, and many evidences of wealth. But his ac counts at the bank are said to be entirely correct. His tull understanding of what he was doing appears from the fact that he carried to the alter a pistol, with the fixed purpose, as he afterwards said, of blowing out his brains there if the ceremony should be interfered with.
