The Local Option Bill.

Penusylvania, favors the restriction of the liquor traffic by submitting the question to the people of the different townships, wards or boroughs of the Commonwealth, at the regular election. The ballot shall have inscribed on it just as the voter choses, "for license," or "against license." And if after a count of the ballots, it shall be found that a majorty of votes have been cast against license, then it shall not be lawful for any license to be issued for the sale of spirituous liquors malt or other in toxicating liquors in the ward, borough or township where the majority against the granting of license prevailed. If, however, a majority of votes cast shall favor a license, then the existing license law in force at the time shall remain in force. By this bill the question of license or no license shall be submitted to the people every three years, and however decided so it shall remain until the time for its salmission to the people again shall have arrived, at the expiration of three years.

Penalties for selling liquors without license are provided by the bill,
