The Harrisburg Patriot and Amesty-What Forney's Press thinks of Amesty.

The Harrisburg Patriot is a good newspaper. It is extensively read, and, as a Democratic paper, stands high.

The Insurrection in Paris.

The reported strength of the Paris army is 200,000. The insurgents continue to rob churches and public offices, and all plate found is sent to the mint and converted into coin.

Efforts have been made to bribe several military officers of the Thiers government. A despatch states the following, as the first indication of a reaction in favor of the priests: "A crowd collected in the street, and a woman denounced a man attired in plain clothes as a priest."

The government has been shelling Paris. Between these missiles of death and the terrible rule of the insurgents, the population has a dreadful time.

The Democracy United.

An article that appeared in three different Democratic newspapers last week leads to the belief that the Democracy are united.

One of the Judges of the Supreme Court of South Carolina is a colored man named J. P. Wright. Some time ago Judge Wright was traveling in Virginia.

There was a Judas among the twelve, and his treachery awakened such remorse that he went and hanged himself.

No riotous troubles have arisen at Senanton during the past week. A Board of Arbitration, composed of delegates from the miners' associations and coal operators, met at Mauch Chunk on Monday.

A REPUBLICAN may yet be the Governor of New Hampshire. In the Tenth Senatorial district a Democrat was supposed to have been elected, which gave that party a majority of one in the Senate.

Legislative proceedings are virtually stopped. The Senate has utterly refused for the past month, to consider any private bills, and the House has also put a stop to further legislation until the Senate agrees to proceed to business.

The State of Wisconsin has abolished the grand jury system. We are not acquainted with the provisions of the act, to take effect on the 1st of July next.

Minnesota papers say that fears exist at Leech Lake of another Indian raid.

Negro Jurymen in Philadelphia.

Some very convincing arguments were put in force by Judge Ludlow, in the Court of Common Pleas, on Tuesday week, against a man who considered himself degraded by sitting upon a jury whereon a colored man was empaneled.

Thomas Cullen, residing in the southern portion of the city, and said to be the proprietor of the Keystone Skating Park, is still thoroughly imbued with the old Democratic idea of the war of races, and seems to have forgotten or never to have known what the nation has passed through since 1861.

The recent history of our courts here in Philadelphia has given abundant evidence of the fact that distinction on account of color has become a thing of the past.

The Clerk (Mr. Hancock) was about to call a jury to the box for the trial of a case, when Cullen stepped to the bar and exclaimed: "You needn't call me for I won't serve!"

Judge Ludlow. Why what's the matter?

Juror. Well I won't serve isn't that matter enough?

Judge Ludlow. Then I fine you $200, and order you into custody until the fine is paid.

Juror. All right; get the money?

Judge Ludlow. Take him into custody!

Juror. All right. Take me to prison! I'll rot there!

Judge Ludlow. I am sorry to see such an exhibition as this in a court of justice.

Juror. Well, I won't serve on the jury with a "nigger!"

Judge Ludlow. You must understand the law, that the law of the land has made the colored man your equal in the jury box.

The juror was then taken into custody.

The episode created considerable excitement, for a time, and occasioned a great deal of comment, as this was the first instance in which any opposition had been met with.

Mr. Cullen was sent to prison, but after a few days of confinement concluded not to rot there, but paid his fine and was released.

BALLOU'S MAGAZINE FOR MAY—There is an immense variety in the May number of Ballou's Magazine, and the stories, sketches and poetry are all good.

One of the most interesting adventures in this number is the story called "Caught by Mosby," by James Franklin Pitt.

The contents are: "Bothwell Castle, Scotland," "The Absurdities of Fashion," "The Joys of a Miner's Life," "May Flowers," "A Sensation Wedding," "Extinct Races," "Market Scene at the Cape of Good Hope," "A Leap in the Dark," "Expatriation," "If He wanted Her," "Caught by Mosby," "The Shipwreck of the Carrier Pigeon," "Taking Summer Boarders," "The Wet Grave," "Raising a Sunken Whale," "Forever," "Widow Higgins and her Daughters," "A Fireside Chromo," "The Legend of the Silver Heart," "Rogue River," "The Mystery of Velore Vere," "Two Women," "OUR YOUNG PEOPLE'S STORY-TELLER—Guess or, The son of a Politician," "A Horrid Boy," "The Quill-pig Family," "Elin House," "Curious Fancies," "The Housekeeper," "Facts and Fancies," "Smith's Hunting Expedition"—Humorous Illustrations. The terms of Ballou's Magazine are only $1.50 per year, or 15 cents per copy, or clubbed with "The Monthly Novelle" for $3.00 for the two. Thomas & Talbot, 63 Congress Street, Boston, are the publishers.

HOME AND HEALTH.—The April number of this new Health Magazine comes to us with a great variety of interesting articles. The principal ones are on "The Teeth—Causes and Prevention of Decay," "Health at Home," "Bathing and Baths (Illustrated)," "Rearing Babies," "Tight Lacing (Illustrated)," "Bright's Disease Unintentionally Considered," "What shall we do in the Sick-room?" etc. There are more than forty smaller articles, containing valuable hints on health and for the home. Published at $1.50 per year, by W. R. DE PUY & BROTHER, 805 Broadway, New York.

In Schuylkill county, Pa., there are something over 200 collieries, with an invested capital of about $12,000,000.

The average loss to each collier, while lying idle, is at least $100 per month, making in all over $200,000 a month, and $2,400,000 a year dead loss. This, with the loss to railroad companies during the suspension, will aggregate a grand total of $300,000 a month, or $6,000,000 a year. This is without regard to the sufferings of miners.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.

BY SCHUYLER COLFAX, VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

Midway across the continent—at the head of twelve hundred miles of Lake navigation—a thousand miles from Buffalo, the western terminus of the Erie Canal, and as near to it by water as Chicago—a hundred miles west of the young city of Duluth, the initial point of the Northern Pacific Railroad.

That great work, so magnificently endowed by the Government, is already being pushed rapidly westward, under its energetic controllers; and before the snows fly next Fall, it will be completed to the western line of Minnesota, where it crosses the Red River of the North—which runs northward to Lake Winnipeg—and one-eight of its distance to the Pacific Ocean will have been accomplished.

Commencing, too, this season on its western line, the work will be prosecuted from both directions, and long before the nation celebrates its Centennial Anniversary of Independence, the Lakes will be united by iron bands with that Mediterranean of our Northwest, Puget Sound.

Of the auspicious influence of this enterprise, which but a few years ago would have been considered so daring, the most sanguine of its friends have scarcely yet a full realization. Then taking Chicago as the starting point, it will be via St. Paul, where an arm of the Northern Pacific Railroad is reached two hundred miles less distance to Puget Sound than to San Francisco.

Besides this, vessels from the Golden Gate to China sail on what is called the grand circle, instead of in a straight line; and any one testing this by a string on a globe will be surprised at the result, if they have not previously studied the effect of the rotundity of the earth, and its diminished protuberance as you go northward towards the Pole.

Hence, when they have sailed eight hundred miles from San Francisco, they are only one hundred miles from the entrance to Puget Sound; and this striking fact shows the advantages this route will have in commanding the through traffic of Asia with our Atlantic States, or that portion of it which will pass over the soil of this nation on its road to Europe.

Nor is this all. Development is the great duty of the Republic, after all its recent trials. Resources are the gift of the Creator. Developing them depends on the work of man.

Along the line of the Northern Pacific Railroad, as it flows up the water-courses, the Missouri and the Yellowstone on this side, and descends by the valley of the Columbia on the other, a vast body of agricultural land is waiting for the plough, with a climate almost exactly the same as that of New York, except that, with less snow, cattle in the larger portion of it, can subsist on the open range in winter.

Here, if climate and fertility of soil produce their natural result, when railroad facilities open this now isolated region to settlement, will soon be seen waving grain-fields, and bappy homes, and growing towns: while ultimately a cordon of prosperous States, teeming with population, and rich in industry and consequent wealth, will occupy that now desolate and almost inaccessible portion of our continental area.

But this Road is fortunate also in its pathway across the two ranges of mountains which tested so severely the Pacific Railroads built on the central line, and the overcoming of which reflected such well deserved honor on their energetic builders.

At the Deer Lodge Pass, in Montana, where it crosses the Rocky Mountains, its altitude above the sea is 3500 feet less than the Union Pacific Railroad at Sherman, which is said to be the highest point at which a locomotive can be found in the world.

And on the Pacific side of the Continent it is even more fortunate. From Arizona up to the Arctic Circle the Columbia is the only river which has torn its way through that mighty range, the Andes of North America, which in California is known as the Sierras, but which in Oregon changes its name to the Cascades.

Nature has thus provided a pathway for the Northern Pacific Road through these mountains, the scaling of which, on the other line, at an elevation of over seven thousand feet (a most wonderful triumph of engineering) cost the Central Pacific company millions of dollars and compelled them for seventy miles to maintain a grade of over one hundred feet to the mile—twice the maximum of the Northern Pacific at the most difficult point on its entire route.

It is fortunate, also, in its terminus on the Pacific coast. No one who has not been there can realize the beauty of Puget Sound and its surroundings. One hundred miles long, but so full of inlets and straits that its navigable shore-line measures seventeen hundred and sixty miles, dotted with lovely islets, with gigantic trees almost to the water's edge, with safe anchorages everywhere, and stretching southward, without shoals or bars, from the Straits of Fuca to the capital and centre of Washington Territory, it will be a magnificent entrepot for the commerce of that grandest ocean of the world, the Pacific.

The Land Grant of the United States, exceeding Fifty Millions of acres in the winter-wheat region of our nation (ten times as large as the area of Massachusetts) is doubtless sufficient for the completion of the Road; but, besides this, millions of private means are already invested in it. The bonds based on the Land Grant, and a mortgage on the Road itself in addition, are being sold as rapidly as the money is needed; and, as an investment, yielding about eight per cent. per year in currency, rank already with the best class of railroad securities.

And thus the good work will go on with unchecked steps to its final consummation, carrying the blessings of settlement, development, civilization, and Christianity with it in its progress, and literally causing the wilderness to blossom as the rose.

A Man and Wife Run Over and Killed by a Train of Cars.

CHICAGO, April 13.—Last night, at the South Park station, Edward Marston, foreman of the Prohibition office in this city, and his wife Jenny were run over by the Kalamazoo train on the Michigan Central Railroad, and killed. They had crossed the track for the purpose of getting on the Hyde Park train, which was about to start. At this moment the Kalamazoo train approached at a high speed. Mr. and Mrs. Marston, supposing there was no danger, kept their position beside the other, but as the engine passed the long dress of the lady was drawn under the fast-flying train. At the same time her husband seized her with the intent of rescuing her, but he was also drawn under the wheels. They were a young and highly respected couple and had been married only a few months. The coroner's jury exonerated the railroad company from blame.

A Noted Horse-thief and Murderer Hanged in Virginia.

STAUNTON, April 11.—Thomas Hodges, the noted horse-thief, murderer, and desperado, who shot and fatally wounded Mr. Whitlock on Friday night last, was taken from the jail in this place about 1 o'clock this morning and hanged about one-and-a-half miles from the town.

The jailer and ex-sheriff McCutchen were both in the jail and released the mob the keys, when they broke open the doors and took Hodges out. None of the men who entered the jail were disguised, yet they were not recognized by either the jailer or the ex-sheriff, being strangers to both. Hodges had shot and killed four men previously in this locality. This first act of lynching in this locality is universally condemned.

Frozen to Death During a Storm.

OMAHA, April 13.—On Monday last a party who were looking at Western lands were overtaken by a storm about one hundred and twenty miles west of this city. Three of the party took refuge in a hut, while two started for a barn half a mile distant, to put up their horses, but so blinding was the storm that they both lost their way. One of them was found in the barn, and the other, named Henry, was found after the storm frozen to death.

BEQUESTS DEVOURD BY LAWYERS.

—New Orleans protests against receiving any more legacies from well-intentioned but rather cracked-brained old millionaires. John McDonough's large bequest, the papers say, was absorbed by the lawyers; the greater portion of that left by John D. Fink was stolen by somebody; and lastly, that continual bone of contention and litigation, the Girard bequest of $100,000 has dwindled to $30,000.

Killed on the Highway and then Robbed.

CHICAGO, April 14.—An elderly lady, named Mrs. Lloyd, while walking along West Madison street this evening, was knocked down and run over her forehead. She died in a few minutes. While the unconscious woman was lying in the street in a dying condition a thief snatched from her hands a pair of shoes, which she had just purchased, and escaped with his plunder.

MOSES S. TERWILLIGER, of Brunswick, Ulster county, New York, about midnight on the 8th inst., entered his mother's room, and, after killing her, placed her body in the fire and set fire to the premises. Some men endeavoring to enter the house were met by the murderer, who knocked one of them down with a club. Terwilliger has been insane for some time. His mother was 83 years old.

A WESTERN wag recently got off a rich sell on the editorial brotherhood by writing an article on the discovery of the North Pole by Captain Hall. The sell took well, and numerous have been the comments by the press on the importance of the discovery. The joke is apparent when it is realized that Capt. Hall's expedition has not yet been organized.

Mayor Cobb, of Lynchburg, Virginia, before whom several negroes claimed the ownership of a dog, left the decision of the doubtful matter to the dog himself. Several of them called the intelligent animal pathetically, but he regarded them not; finally one of them yelled out "Buster," and with a bark of joy the dog rushed toward him and decided the matter.

It is estimated that counterfeit money to the amount of $50,000 has been "shoved" in Dauphin and Lebanon counties during the past six months. The gang of dealers has been arrested. Some have been convicted and sent to the penitentiary. The last arrest was that of John D. Estweiler, a keeper of the Washington House at Millersburg.

James Glaisher, the English aeronaut, is said to be seriously ill, never having recovered from the effects of his balloon ascension from Wolverhampton, last September, when he reached a height of seven miles, the greatest ever attained. It is supposed he then burst some blood vessels, as he has never since been in good health.

Just as We Found Them. Green peas are selling in Baltimore for 62 a bushel. The Mormons are in trouble. There are actually 800 more men than women in Utah. Virginia is a poor country for horse thieves, the law hanging them being still on the statute books. A very wicked fellow, who desires to torment housekeepers, predicts a tremendous supply of flies this summer. All the biographies of the great and good show that not one of them had a fashionable mother. A man in Boston is said to be so short that when he is ill he doesn't know whether he has headache or corns. On Sunday morning, E. D. Jackson, of Erie, was taken with hemorrhage of the lungs, and in ten minutes was a corpse. Don't let your cattle stray; they often wander to the most mysterious places; we once saw a cowhide in a shoemaker's shop. A young man in Ohio, recently opened a clothing store, and was sent to jail for it. Cause—the clothing store belonged to another man. A young man who was caught straining his sweetheart to his bosom the other night, justifies himself on the ground that he has a right to strain his own honey! A young lady at a party, on being asked to favor the company with "The Maiden Prayer," went to the piano and struck up, "Mother may I go out to swim!" in a very animated manner. Envy deserves pity more than anger, for it hurts nobody so much as itself. It is a distemper rather than a vice, for nobody would feel envy if he could help it. Who envies another secretly, allows that person's superiority. The wool interest of California is getting to be something immense. Last year that State produced 20,000,000 pounds, or $3,000,000 more than all the British North American provinces, and nearly one-third of all clipped in the States. A certain power of fascinating animals is by many persons attributed to snakes; but St. George Milvart, one of the ablest opponents of the Darwinian theory, says that the most distinguished naturalists entirely deny the existence of such a power. On the door of the Chetopka House, in Kansas, was recently posted the following notice: "This hotel is closed on account of a difference between the proprietor and cook, which was settled with pistols, and sent the proprietor to the grave and the cook to the jail." A distinguished clergyman in one of our eastern cities was met by a dilapidated looking individual, with a flask of whiskey in his pocket, who inquired: "Sir, is this the nearest road to the almshouse?" "No sir," replied the clergyman, pointing to the bottle, "but that is."

CONGRESS has passed a bill repealing the act requiring each new Congress to organize on the 4th of March.
