

OBSTINATE HORSES.

A horre "balks' far oftener from some, to him, good and sufficient reason, than because he is obstinate, but occasionally a bor will make up his mind not to go. past a certain place, and it is very likely that no amount of whipping will force 12 him to go. The first thing which should be don : to ascertain if the load is too heavy, if the harness is easy, if there are stones in the hoof ; or anything frightened the animal ; sometimes a little. patience and patting will be sufficient and at any rate will be far better than any amount of fingellation. There are also some simple devices which are sometimes effective. The writer hereof has seen a horse induced to move on, and that too, after he had been severely beaten, by covering his eyes and breathing into his no-trils. In this instance the operator simple place I his hands as closely as possible over the animal's eyes, and breathed two or three times into one of, his nostrile. Another method, which we cannot wouch for personally, is told in a marrative form, concerning a horse, ridden by a groom, which refused to pass a certain place, rearing and plunging in such away as to endanger the lives of both borse and rider. Presently a spectator of the scene walked up to the groom and said, "I think my man, you are not taking the proper method to make the horse go; allow me, if you please, to show you a trick worth knowing."-"Well," said the groom, if you can make him go, it's more than I can do." The first speaker then took a piece of whipcord, and tied it with a firm knot to the end of the animal's ear, which he bent gently down, fastening the end of the string to the check buckle of the bridle ; this done, he patted the horse's neck once or twice, and said, "Now let me see you go quietly home like a good horse " The horse moved off as gently as if nothing had happened Probably neither of these devices has any special virtue in itself, but each of them involves a certain amount of gentle treatment, certain manipulations to which the horse is accustomed. If either plan should be resorted to in a violent manner, as if the covering of the eyes, or tying of the cord were intended as a coercive measure, very likely the horse would remain obstinute and savage. If properly and kindly executed some such plans as those we have mentioned will divert the horse's attention, arouse his curiosity. and it is likely that he will move on as if nothing had happened .- Christian Union.

and no preparation for the hair has ever been produced equal to Hall's "Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer," and every honest dealer will say it gives the best satisfaction. It restores GRAY HAIR to its original color, eradicating and preventing dandruff, enring BALDNESS and promoting the growth of the hair. The gray and brashy hair by a few applications is changed to black and silky locks, and wayward hair will assume any shape the wearer desires. It is the cheapest HAIR DRESS-ING in the world, and its effects last longer, as it excites the glands to furnish the nutritive principle so necessary to the life of the hair. It gives the hair that splendid appearance so much admired by all. By its tonic and stimulating properties it prevents the hair from falling out, and none need be without Nature's ornament, a good head of hair. It is the first real perfected remedy ever discovered for curing diseases of the hair, and it has never been equalled and we assure the thousands who have used it, it is kept up to its original high standard.
