Stock books are now open at the Juniata Valley Bank, in Millintown, where subscriptions will be received by T. Van Irwin, Treasurer of said Association.

W. CAMERON LAIRD, Pres't. E. J. NANGLE, Sec'y.

The dwelling house of Jos. Rhodes, at so occupied by his son Wm. E., in Oiler township, was discovered to be on fire on Saturday afternoon, spreading so rapidly that but a small quantity of the furniture and bedding was saved. It is not known how the fire originated, but from the manner in which it burst out it is probable that some of the timbers had been on fire for some time. The day was very pleasant, and but little fire had been kept up in any part. Mr. Rhodes built the house himself and had securely lined the flues, &c. with sheet iron. The loss is probably $2000 or more, with no insurance.—Lewistown Gazette.

C. C. I.—During the early part of last week cards were circulated among the citizens of Millintown and Patterson, bearing an inscription something nearly if not quite like the following: "Mr. — and Lady are respectfully invited to be present on the occasion of the sixth anniversary of the C. C. I., at the Crystal Palace, on the evening of March 1st, 1872." At once the C. C. I. became the subject of conversation in the village. Its origin, its past five anniversaries, its object, &c. were the subjects of a great deal of conjectural talk throughout the whole community. It was shrouded in mystery that imparted to it that peculiar charm that mystery only can impart. The eulastic letters, C. C. I. on the card brought out numerous conjectures as to their meaning. One individual in a group that were discussing the subject, said, as he turned the pasteboard in his fingers, that if he could see the skull and cross bones, he would be satisfied that it was a branch of the Kuklux Klan. Another was ready to believe it an offshoot of the Grand Army of the Republic, or the Union League, if he could only see the flag. A third hinted that it might be a religious or benevolent society, that was about to inaugurate some great enterprise for the moral improvement and physical comfort of Adam's fallen race. A fourth, with a great deal of earnestness and vehemency, and little politeness, said that the three preceding conjectures were wrong in toto; that neither the Church or the State had the lead to do with it; that the Devil, who rules the third kingdom, was the master spirit. Another said he was sure that he had got the meaning of the mysterious letters; they meant a "Confounded Common Invention. A fifth said that suited him, that he was a constitutional Democrat or Republican, and had no aristocratic blood in his veins and he'd go and see the C. C. I. Others said that who and whatever the C. C. I. might be, they believed that a dance was to be introduced some time during the entertainment, and that their religious creed did not recognize the "poetry of motion," as illustrated by the "light fantastic toe," and they for the world would not go. One individual said he would read backwards, and interpret it "I Can't Come." And so the town talked the whole week through, up to Friday evening, when at half past eight o'clock a party of more than a hundred ladies and gentlemen assembled in one of the spacious rooms on the second floor of the Palace.

After awhile a gentleman suggested a "quadrill." Four sets promptly took the floor, and displayed their skill in the art of dancing. Many did not engage in this exhilarating exercise, but found pleasure in conversation with friends and acquaintances. Others were feasting their eyes on their whirling friends that were keeping step and gracefully evolving to the strains that melodiously fell from the musicians' stand; while a number were entranced and sat quietly under the music of the violins, accompanied by the gentle pat of the tiny shoe and deep bass of the highly polished boot and hoop harmoniously mingling. They were away in the realms of fancy, the glories of which who shall dare to tell.

Supper was announced at 9 o'clock, and was served in a room adjoining the audience or entertainment room. The repeat over, all returned to the former room, where many remained enjoying themselves till about midnight, when they returned to their homes.

The C. C. I. managed affairs remarkably well, and numbers have sighed and wished that an anniversary could be forced to come around every month or two.

FIRE.—On Tuesday morning, between the hours of one and two o'clock, the cry of fire was sounded through the town. Bells were rung, to arouse the sleeping people. A fierce northwest wind was blowing at the time that made every citizen, as he sprang from his bed, think that perhaps the last night for Millintown had come. But, fortunately, these imagined forebodings were not realized, for the fire was in a house in the south side of the town, along Wright's alley, and was owned by John Wright, Esq. It was a one story and a half house with a basement. The west end was occupied by Mr. Daniel Troup. The east end was used by Mr. Henry C. Williams to finish leather in—he being a tanner. Between the hours stated Lewis Troup was awakened by smoke that almost stifled him. He aroused his parents and brother. The flames spread so rapidly that they had hardly time to gather up a few of the household effects and escape from the burning house. There was no insurance on the house. Mr. Williams had his stock insured in the York Company at $1,000.

The origin of the fire is enveloped in mystery. A story and a half house owned by Mr. Wright and occupied by Mr. Heck, at the east end of the burning building and separated therefrom by a narrow alley, was saved only by the hardest work of the citizens. The axe, water and buckets were freely used.

Had the fire originated at the north end of town, Millintown, in all probability, would have been burned up.

We notice that the Agricultural papers all over the country recommend the use of Sheridan's Cavalry Composition Powder—Eschwege.

Farmers and others in many sections have long known and appreciated the advantage of these powders over all others.

An exchange says: Brick-dust and butter pills is the latest cure recommended for chicken cholera.

SEWING MACHINES.—We would call the attention of all who contemplate purchasing a Sewing Machine, to the fact that J. B. M. Todd, of Patterson, has been appointed for the sale of the justly celebrated Grover & Baker Machines. These machines, so favorably known have steadily advanced in public favor in spite of the most determined competition, and now stands without a superior, as a first-class Family Sewing Machine. Mr. Todd keeps at all times on hand a full and complete assortment of these machines, so that purchasers can have a choice of selection of the different styles, which are sold on the most liberal terms. The late improved "Shuttle or Lock Stitch Machine" cannot be excelled for simplicity, beauty of finish, and perfectness of work. Call upon Mr. Todd, and he will convince you that the Grover & Baker is just the thing to suit you.

The real estate of George Goshen was sold at public sale, on last Saturday, by his assignees, at the following prices:

The farm in Milford township, to John Cunningham, at $41.50 per acre.

No. 1. A house and lot to J. Lyons, for $350.

No. 2. A house and lot to Adam Ernest, for $408.

No. 3. A house and lot to Philip Keper, for $430.

No. 4. A house and lot to the same person, for $400.

No. 5. A house and lot to John J. Thompson, for $345.

Nos. 6 and 7. Houses and lots to Mrs. Anna D. Goshen, for $275.

Nos. 8, 9 and 10. Houses and lots to Lucian Kingley, for $1431.

Coal and Lumber Yard in Patterson to J. B. Marley, for $330.

Seventeen acres of Woodland in Milford township, to J. S. Robinson, at $4 per acre.

Grocery and Coal Yard in Fermanagh township, to J. B. Marley, for $190.

Sum total—$10,337.37.

McALESTERVILLE, March 4, 1872.

On Saturday last Capt. Robinson and Lieut. Burchfield held the election for officers in the Fayette Union guards, which election resulted as follows: Captain, Lewis Deagan; 1st Lieutenant, T. T. Davis; 2nd Lieutenant, S. B. Caveny. Quite a number of new members were added to the roll. The Captain-elect announced that he would not appoint the non-commissioned officers, until the next day of meeting—which will be on Saturday, March 9th, 1872, at 12 M. It is important that every member be present on that day, as business of vital interest to the company is to be transacted, and it will, also, be counted the first drill and pry day of the Company.

By order of the Captain.

"AND LADY."—The editor of one of our exchanges goes for a certain affected class of bipeds in this wise:

Looking over the registers of hotels we frequently see the name of the man with "and lady" appended to it. We have often wondered what was meant by those words—whether they were intended to convey the information that some respectable woman was travelling in his company, and under his escort, or whether it was a woman of disreputable character whose intimacy while abroad was too great to allow the idea of respectability. On inquiry, we find that it means his wife. Then why in the name of common decency don't he say so, and write "John Brown and wife"? The observer will know without doubt what relation the woman bears to him. Some men seem to think that it is a mark of culture and refinement to say lady when they mean their wives.

The use of the word wife may seem common place to some men, and yet it is a holy and sacred word, and no man who has a wife should hesitate to call her by that tender name, whether in the domestic circle or on the register of a hotel.

A TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.—JAS BRICKER, ESQ., HORRIBLE MANGLED ON THE RAILROAD.—The citizens of this place were horrified beyond expression, on last Wednesday evening, at a report in effect that James Bricker, Esq., and old citizen, had been terribly mutilated on the railroad and that there were doubts entertained as to whether he could recover.

The facts, as near as we could learn them, are as follows: Mr. Bricker and W. I. Steel, about nine o'clock in the evening went down to the foot of the lock, generally known as "Snyder's Lock," to see a Mr. Piper, who resides in that locality, on business, and were returning with Mr. Piper in company.—On reaching a point opposite the gas tank an engine coming down signalled and Bricker stepped off on the up track, while the other gentlemen stepped off to the side of the railroad. The noise of the down train prevented him from hearing the First Stock west approaching on the up track, and before he was aware of his danger he was beneath the wheels of the engine and cars of the up-train. After the passage of the train he was found with his leg terribly smashed and otherwise much bruised. He was carried to the railroad station and thence to his afflicted family. The accident occurred about half past nine o'clock. Dr. Gemmell, of Altoona, was telegraphed, who came down on the Philadelphia Express, and he, assisted by Drs. McCullough, Miller and Flemming, amputated the limb. He died on Friday afternoon at four o'clock. This is another warning to those who will frequent the railroad without due precaution of the terrible fate awaiting them. Mr. Bricker is the last man that any one would have suspected of meeting with such an accident.—Huntingdon Journal.

An enterprising North Carolina woman got married, separated from her husband and eloped with another man in a week.

On Saturday morning last Joseph Tice, of this place, a workman at Logan Iron Works, had his left leg near the hip severely crushed and broken, by the falling upon him of a railroad tire, weighing about 800 lbs. The tire was being moved by several men, himself one of them, when it slipped their hold, careened and fell, crushing him under it. The physicians called in differed as to what was best to be done, and, in consequence, amputation was not resorted to. His sufferings have been very great; and his ultimate recovery is doubtful.—Lewistown Democrat.
