DROWNED.—Last Thursday, Charles C McCulloch, of Frostburg, Maryland with three companions, all students of Academia, went to Pomeroy's mill dam to bathe. One of the young men, who has been so unfortunate as to require the use of crutches, concluded not to enter the water after they reached the bathing place. The three others entered the water. There is an island in the dam Around this island two of the young men concluded to swim. They started on their course, leaving McCulloh in the water where they entered. When the rival swimmers returned to the near side of the island, they were horrified by the information of their cripple friend on the shore, that their companion, McCulloh, was drowned in their absence. The alarm was given The young men and neighbors dove to and searched the bottom of the dam for the body of the unfortunate young man. After about twenty minutes' search the body was found, but life was extinct, and no human power could restore it. The event cast a gloom over the School and surrounding country, and occasioned the following resolutions from his fellow students of the Academy.

TRIBUTE AO RESPECT.

Phreno and Philo, societies, having convened in mutual convention, adopt the following resolutions in honor and memory of our deceased brother of society and fellow student.

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God, in the dispensation of the providence, to remove from the living our late brother of society and fellow student Chas. C. McCulloh; and

Whereas, It is but just and proper that we should notice this event in a manner expressive of our feelings and of our appreciation of his worth, and that a tribute be rendered by us to his memory, therefore be it

Resolved, That while we bow in humble submission to the will of an all wise Providence who doeth all things well, yet we mourn the loss of our brother of society and fellow student

Resolved, That, though his voice is hushed in death in our memories, he shall ever live in our hearts, his virtues be ever cherished and his example be ever emulated.

Resolved. That we sincerely sympathize with the family and friends of the deceased in this melancholy bereavement.

Resolved That the societies go in mourning in a manner prescribed by the members of society.

Resolved. That a copy of the above be transmitted to the family of the deceased and to the Frostburg and Mifflintown press for publication and also a copy be presented to the pastor of the Lower Tuscarora Church.

THE NEW YORK CIRCUS.—The New York Circus will visit Mifflintown on Wednesday, June 26th. This celebrated troup is one of the best now traveling and is highly spoken of by the press in all places where they have exhibited. The Managing Director, Alex. Robinson, is an old caterer to the public, and fully understands what is necessary to make up a popular amusement. He has secured the services of the most prominent artists, male and female now living, and his stud of performing horses and ponies are unexcelled, while his corps of trained mules affords infinite amusement to young and old. From what we have heard of his company we believe it to be worthy of public patronage, and expect to see a large audience in attendance at their performance. The best of order is maintained by the management both within and out of the tent, and nothing said or done calculated to offend the most fastidious, and the performances are of a high toned, moral character. *
