PORT ROYAL, June 22, 1872. Mr. Editor: I see in your paper of last week an article in regard to the county printing, and the manner in which the Commissioners discharged their duty in regard to it. Little else could be expected. This whole scheme was conceived in sin and brought forth in iniquity, and it would have been little less than a miracle had their decision proved satisfactory

This questionable work will doubtless result in good in the end, publishers will be arraigned before the bar of public opinion and an unanimous demand by the people issued that the laws passed in relation to the public printing, in Juniata county be repealed in toto, so that the law will stand as it was before the act of 1867 was passed, or else, as you suggest, that it be let by contract to the lowest bidder. This, perhaps, would be better. It would do away with the jobbing that has been done through the County Commissioners' office so largely in years gone by.

But there is little hope for reform unless the people speak out boldly and refuse to support any man for office who will not oledge himself to use every hon-HON, ULYSSES MERCUR, orable means to bring about such a re sult. The people for two years have asked a repeal of the law of 1867. In 1870, when it was known that petitions were circulated asking for its repeal, our able Senator had the law promptly repealed in the Senate, and quickly notice thereof was published, so as to blind those who were active in the matter, and create the impression that it was unnecessary to further petition for the pur pose-that it would be done anyway -But the Reverend member who repre sented the good people of Juniata county, not expecting to be a candidate for reelection, could not see it, and the repealing bill did not pass the House. By what means this was brought about your readers can judge. I have heard that a

Letter from an Old Jacksonian Democrat

NEAR SEVEN STAR TAVERS,)

My Dear Mr. Editor :- How clear, ow cloudless, how calm and quiet the earth. I love such evenings; they fill our hearts with the most delightful feelcases never can be gratified; but you know that it is better to feel and long and never realize, than never to feel and long at all. So with me. Many of my longings can reach no further than a wish and a hope, for you know that I am getting old and have passed my hay-day, and have got into a groove or rut, and can't get out.

A lovely evening like this awakens feelings and longings so far different from boiler house, remained for thirty minutes the feelings and emotions that a dark, tempestuous night start in one's heart that we almost wonder whether we are always the same beings, spiritually. We and timbers, but they were dug out alive are told that the body-hair and nail, though considerably burned and buised flesh, bone and blood-undergoes an en- Some of the escapes were almost miracutire change every seven years. Tell me, lous. As soon as possible a large force don't we change oftener than that in our was put to work, and the men who were feelings and longings. Time, circumstances and change, and, generally speaking, men change with them. Few are steadfast. Old Andy was as steadfast to his cause as is the needle to the pole, but he was Andy Jackson, you know.

I shiver and my bair stands up when I see Old Greeley at the head of our party. What did he ever do for it? He bailed Jeff. Davis, the man that Old Hickory would have banged in the petticoat that he was trying to sneak away in. For that bailing the rebels feel mighty kind toward Horace, and it was most blamed kind, that's so. But that isn't all that draws them tarnel Southern chaps so lovingly to Greeley; not by a long splice. The cause sticks a good deal deeper than that.
