Ask Me Not to Drink

Fair lady, ack me not to drink, Fair lady, ask me not to drink,
A toast to thee to-night;
For broken vows and blasted hopes,
Fxpose the demon's blight.
Put back the wine—I dare not taste—
Put back the sparkling bowl;
For who hath quawed a draught so deep.
And reached a blissful goal?

Oh, ask me not, there lies within A posson deep and dire; And every drop but serves the more, To fan the latent fire. Each draft will quench my sen e of guilt, And blast you'n's badding hope; Esch drop will sink me deeper still.

In moral night to grope. Oh, press me not to touch the cap, Within are glaring eyez, And starving widows, bungry babes, And freezing orphan's cries; Wnom the gods destroy they first make drunk, Then sak me not to drink ; Oh tempt me not, but spare my soul,

I have three sisters, mildly fair, Like angels round my way; Whose love is like the stars that shine, With undominished ray; Shalibay be doomed to see me fall, A prey to maddening drink, And sundered be the love that binds, Or snap the golden link?

From death's eternal brink.

Another sleeps where sadly wave, The willows in the vale; And midnight whispers from the sky. Come on the sighing gale; She passed away as summer's breath, in life's incir test blown; Then tempt me not, I would not mar, Her slumbers in the tempt.

Two Loving Bearts United after Seven

In a recent i-sue the Kansas City B Vetin relates the following: -Quite a romantic marriage took place at the Garno House, Wayndotte City, on Saturday last. The circumstances are these :- 1 Miss Moshier, living in Freeport, Stevenson county, Illinois, be came engaged to young man named Morrison, of the same place. Business being dull there in 1865, the time our story commences, he concluded to try his fortunes in California. So after takhim Two long, weary years rolled by, and she received no letters from bim. and nothing was heard by his or her friends of his whereatouts. A report about this time was freely circulated by a young man named Shipman, post Miss Moshier, still his long silence, together with the report of his marriage, made her come to the unwilling conclusion that she was forgotten.

Shipman now became very assiduous in his attentions to her, and, after a short courtship, asked her to become his wife, she, stung to the quick with the treatment of her first love, finally con- in the greatest consternation, began to sented, and in due time they were mar- tell the prince in English that the word ried and concluded to make their home out West, removing from Freeport to Kansas City, Mo.
