Now what are the advantages derived from such legislation? Surely they can be but little.

The ease and facility with which such legislation has been procured has a ten dency to lessen the respect and regard for the law. It is and has been the fruit ful source of contention and litigation.

It is often procured by the contrivance and influence of a few individuals who are to be specily benefited thereby, the majority of the citizens of the county township or district to be affected therewar to prevent it is to take away the power to do it. It would not do to say the people ought to trust their representatives. They have been deceived too often. In this our own county is not wanting in instances.
