

MISCELLANEOUS.

A Yankee Queen.

THE WIFE OF KING FERDINAND, OF PORTUGAL, A BOSTON GIRL, THE DAUGHTER OF A POOR GERMAN SHOEMAKER, AND AN ACTRESS.

It is not generally known that one of the Queens of Europe at the present time is an American lady of decidedly humble origin. She is the wife of King Ferdinand, of Portugal, who, finding the duties of his office uncongenial to his retiring tastes, abdicated a few years ago, and making, during a trip to Paris, the acquaintance of a very good looking actress, married her, in 1859, his heart and his hand, which she joyfully accepted. They were married with considerable pomp at Lisbon, and the actress, although she is no reigning Queen, is treated by her royal relatives with all the respect due to her husband's exalted rank, and she is addressed as "my sister," by Queen Maria Pia, the daughter of Victor Emmanuel, and as "Her Majesty" by her attendants and servants.

King Ferdinand's wife was born in 1840, in Boston, where her father was a poor German shoemaker, and she has many acquaintances in New York. Her name previous to her marriage, was Eliza Hensler. She attended the public schools of her native city until she was fourteen years of age. She was then a beautiful, rosy-cheeked girl, with large blue eyes and a wealth of golden ringlets.

Moreover, she possessed a very fine voice, and an operative manager, who heard her sing at a school examination, prevailed upon her father to let her go with her to a renowned music teacher and have her prepared for the stage. The old man joyfully consented.

Young Eliza proved a very excellent pupil, and two years afterward she made her debut in this city at the Academy of Music, in Audin's opera, "The Spy." Although Mrs. Lagrange sang in the same piece, Miss Hensler achieved a decided success, and was engaged for the season. Her brother, or cousin, who had enabled her to appear at the Academy of Music, was at the time leader of the chorus, and remained in that position for several years afterward.

In 1858 Miss Hensler returned to Boston, and appeared there on the stage with decided success. She then went to Paris to study her profession more thoroughly under Auber and Thomas, and sang repeatedly at the grand opera, without, however, meeting with much encouragement. She was glad to accept an engagement at the royal opera of Lisbon, where she sang for several years, and became a great favorite of the public.

It was there, already, perhaps, that King Ferdinand became acquainted with and enamored of her; but the King's first wife was then alive, and it was not until after her death that he made advances to Miss Eliza Hensler, who had meanwhile returned to Paris, where she made a somewhat precarious living by giving music lessons, a severe cold having impaired the beauty and strength of her voice.

Her royal husband is said to be exceedingly fond of his Boston wife. They have two children, and their happiness is much commented upon in Lisbon, where it is well known that the present King does not live on the best terms with his high born Italian consort.—N. Y. Mirror.

Every day for the last three months a large flock of English sparrows congregated in the yard of Miss Joanna Potts, in Pottstown, Pa. At first but two or three were seen about, but finding such liberality shown, they soon informed others, and now they can scarcely be numbered. When the flocks appear the birds are awake, singing songs of gladness; some perch on her shoulders and arms; others, intent on food, take notice of persons present. After receiving their quota, they perch on the flaps of trees and on the fences, and pour out their voices of thankfulness for the crumbs of comfort, old cheese, corn, oats &c., bestowed upon them.

The Columbia (Ky.) Herald tells of an exciting horseback race on the pike near that town, between Mr. C. R. Page, deputy sheriff, and a lady on whom he was endeavoring to execute a process. The lady, persisting that she would not receive the paper or hear it read, used the switch very vigorously on her horse, but the officer, being mounted on the better animal, caught up with her, and continued in her company until he had read to her the contents of the official document which he held. That official is worth his salary, every cent of it; but his gallantry won't wash worth a cent.

The following letter was lately sent to the Cincinnati Chief of Police: "I am left with five of a family, wife dead, and have tried various schemes. Can't you find me a woman or girl that would be a good mother? If she has been on the wing, a good home might be a good thing. Please see to it, and send me one—a likely girl or woman, lone, cast off, without friends—one that would have principle. If she had done wrong, I might make her right. I am in a bad fix. Send me one. If you are a father and love your children, you can appreciate my situation."

Professors of religion ought to show their christian purposes in their daily lives, and thus encourage any who may be imitating their example. Very much of the indifference and coldness, sometimes apparent in young members of the church, while after profession, is due to the appearance of evil, the carelessness of those who have had a longer experience in striving to lead a life in accordance with what they profess.

Pierce's Pleasant Lurgative Pellets

Or Sugar-Coated, Concentrated, Hot and Herbal Juice, Anti-Bilious Granules, THE "LITTLE GIANT" CATHARTIC, or Maltum in Parvo Physic.

The specialty of modern Medical, Chemical and Pharmaceutical Science. No use of any longer taking the large, repulsive and nauseous pills, composed of emetic, cathartic and purgative ingredients, when you can by a careful application of chemical science, extract all the cathartic and purgative properties from the most valuable roots and herbs, and concentrate these into a minute Granule, scarcely larger than a mustard seed, that can be readily swallowed by those of the most sensitive stomachs and feeblest frames. Each of these Pellets contains a full dose of the most concentrated form of each cathartic ingredient, so much so that a single Pellet is as potent as any of the large pills formerly used.
