

The Election—The Future.

The various matters which more especially affected our State Government, being now, for a moment, disposed of, we are naturally impelled to look around us and contemplate our present position; the causes which have placed us where we are; the condition and prospects of our opponents; and the course to be pursued by our political friends, in all our future arrangements, with reference to the triumph of the principles which we profess to venerate.

The position which our party now occupies, is a high and honorable one, and we doubt not that it will long be maintained. Indeed, we know of no circumstances which are less favorable and honorable to us than those which have placed us where we are.

We would not exert our full force, but we consider the result of the election, as a great victory for the Democratic party. They have found fault with every act of the general government, involving any great and important concern; they have proposed no means by which to produce a better result than that which has been achieved by the present administration.

On reaching the house of the number of the Quince, those who knew the value of the Quince, will feel an interest in its cultivation. At the late exhibition in Philadelphia, the Quince was the only article which was paid for by the public. The article generally brought to our market is inferior, owing to the neglect of fruit growers to take proper care of it.

On Thursday last, the motion of Thomas Williams, Esq. for C. S. Sawyer, Esq. was admitted as an attorney in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

THE KEYSTONE IS SAFE

Her Democracy have proved that they are not fair-weather politicians; that they are not afraid to face the cannon of a foreign foe, or to meet the ballot-boxes of the spoiler of their own country.

And what is now the condition of Country? Take a brief retrospect, and contemplate the picture. In 1840, the Coon was stuffed with all the luxuries from the East, and the Libby was hung from the gable to the cellar, through the fields, into the woods, every where.

There was a sprinkling of snow on Thursday. The weather has been very cold, as we observed the commotion with his clock on yesterday. The Libby was hung from the gable to the cellar, through the fields, into the woods, every where.

LOCAL MATTERS

We particularly direct persons who have had for sale in the neighborhood of the City, to the advertisement of a committee of the Western Pennsylvania Hospital.

A New Way to Make a Raisin.—We have some smart boys who will assist you in making a raisin. They are not afraid to face the cannon of a foreign foe, or to meet the ballot-boxes of the spoiler of their own country.
