THURSDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 5, 1867.

WAR MEETING

Rally for your Country!

A meeting of the citizens of Pittsburgh and vicinity, who are in favor of sustaining the government in the existing war with Mexico, will be held at the old Court House, on Saturday evening, at 7 o'clock.

Mr. Clay's Speech—No. 1.

We have imposed on ourselves the task of commenting, at length, upon the speech of Mr. Clay, as reported by himself, and in understanding that a substantial correspondence, calculated, in some measure, to deter us from doing so.

War, Peace, and Famines, are favorite terms with Mr. Clay, which he fails not to introduce to the attention of his hearers, whenever he would impress them with the belief, that some dreadful calamity is impending over the country.

The loss of human life, incident to war, is of course, only to be regretted, but it is not to be deplored. Yet, the purest philanthropists, who ever appeared on earth, have believed that there are circumstances which may surround individuals, calculated to render their death more desirable, and this being the case, as we all know it, we can surely believe, that however dearly we may regret the sacrifice, it is more desirable that many precious lives should be sacrificed, than that the nation should be plunged into a state of anarchy.

The Wounded Mexican Plunderer

Col. Wexford's timely and patriotic letter, as anticipated, has elicited the editorial reply of the "Morning Post," and the "City Daily Morning Post," in the most appropriate and honorable manner.

LOCAL MATTERS

The Slender case, in the District Court, (Zavada v. Lee), is progressing rapidly. The testimony of the witnesses, taken yesterday, and yesterday, has been most satisfactory.

There will be some good spectacles made at the Mam Meeting, on Saturday, 12th. It is not strange, that some of the speakers, will be of the rank of the "Morning Post," and the "City Daily Morning Post."

Christmas time is coming. The market is glutted with turkeys and other fowls. They are cheap, and will be still cheaper, as the day approaches.

It is a curious fact, that the "Morning Post," and the "City Daily Morning Post," are both published in the same building, and are both published by the same person.
