THE MORNING POST.

E. HARPER, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

PITTSBURGH:
WEDNESDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 16, 1847.

☞ E. W. CARR, United States Newspaper Agency, Sun Buildings. N. E. corner of Third and Dock, and 440 N. Fourth street—is our only authorised Agent in Philadelphia.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

"Frederick Power," "J. C. '98," "Allegheny," in favor of Mr. Buchanan, "Utica," in favor of Mr. Van Buren, "Randolph," in favor of Judge Woodbury; and "W." on borers; are all unavoidably postponed. The communications of each shall appear at the earliest practicable moment.

We have been compelled again to omit the very interesting and excellent article of "T." on the subject of North west trade and travel.

A number of Letters from Mexico have also been left with us for publication, but as they contain no statements of general interest which have not been already given in our columns, we must decline their publication.

The President's Message.

There is one most gratifying fact connected with the last annual message of Mr. POLK, which must prove to his countrymen, the devotion of their Chief Magistrate to the institutions of their country. The federal editors, without a single exception, so far as we have seen, most unqualifiedly condemn it; and most of them, in language usual only to the cock pit, the fish market, or the brothel. Dem ocrats should feel proud of themselves—and who among us does not?—for having selected such a man to be their leader in the present crisis. In 1844, "Who is JAMES K. POLK?" was in the mouth of every federal fledgeling—the People answered by making him their President—and he now gets more abuse from the Federal party, than they ever heaped upon Madison. We may be thankful that it is so; for, if it were otherwise, there would be room to question his integrity.

Thoughts on Office.

The following excellent and just views of the nature and duties of public officers and the People, have been given by the Hon. ROBERT DALE OWEN, one of the best men in the walks of political life:

"Office is too commonly thought of as a privilege to be enjoyed; it ought to be regarded as a duty to be performed. We speak of men's claims to office; we ought to speak of their fitness for it. Office, under our government, is not a prize or reward; it is a necessity. No man needs an office, in a country like ours, in which moderate talent and industry ensure to every one an independence, no one is wronged by not obtaining it. But the people need office; certain public duties must be performed by some one: and the people are wronged, if any but the most competent are called upon to perform these. The salary of office should be a fair payment for these duties, ably and faithfully performed. If it is more than this, it ought to be reduced. If it is no more, and if the duties of office are ably and faithfully performed, the obligation in this matter, is reciprocal; of the man to the people, because they trust him; of the people to the man, because he serves them with faithfulness and ability."

TEN HOUR BILL.—A large meeting of operatives and the friends of the Ten Hour Bill, was held at Norristown, Pa., on Saturday evening, Dec. 4. The following is an extract from the preamble to their resolutions:

"It is a remarkable fact, that those mechanical trades which now work ten hours per day, are followed almost exclusively by men, whilst the manufacturing business requires two thirds of its whole number to be females and children, and requiring them to work twelve and fourteen hours per day, thus depriving those children of all means of education, and sending many to an early grave, whilst the adults drag out a life of continued toil, with no hopes but that of a similar destiny for their children."

FOR MAYOR—WM. DAVIDSON.

MR. HARPER:—In common with hosts of Democrats of Allegheny city, I would suggest to the party, and others in favor of good city government, the propriety of placing in nomination for the office of mayor, that sterling man William Davidson Esq. He is a well and favorably known citizen—his moral character is above reproach—this is more than can be said (in truth) of certain Whig aspirants that claim all "the talent all the decency and all the morality." Then let those that would sustain an upright and worthy mrn proslaim themselves for Davidson and the good of the whole community.

UNION AND HARMONY.

The Defences about Mexico.—The Savannah Republican is indebted to a friend from Mexico, for the following statement of the defences which our army found before the city. This statement, prepared by Captain Robert E Lee, of the corps of engineers, has not before been made public, and it will aid in showing how many and how serious obstacles our gallant army has had to contend against. It should always be borne in mind, too, that the works indicated are generally of the most permanent character, and constructed after the most approved rules of the science of fortification. The line of defences contained—

	Batteries.		Guns.
At the Penbo..	20	prepared for 51, and 15 inf.br'wks
Mexicalsingo.	8	"	38 "	1 "
San Antonio..	7	"	24 "	2 "
Churubusco..	2	"	15
Contreras....	1	"	29
Chapultepec..	7	"	19 "	7 "
	45		169	25

Around the city of Mexico, independent of the surrounding ditches, generally 25 feet wide and 5 feet deep, filled with water, whose banks form natural parapets, there were 47 batteries, prepared for 177 guns, and 17 infantry breastworks; making, on all the lines defending the approaches to the city, 92 batteries, prepared for 346 guns and 42 infantry breastworks, independent of the natural defences of mud, water, the numerous other ditches, broken bridges, &c.

The Courier, a Whig paper, published at Louisville, Ky., referring to Mr. Clay's resolutions, says:

"There is one point in Mr. Clay's resolutions, in which there seems to be an inconsistency with his former views on an important occasion; and as we have already laid before our readers Mr. Clay's views of Mr. Madison's seizure of the disputed territory between the Perdido and the Mississippi rivers, we cannot think it important to wait for the speech in explanation of Mr. C.'s reasons for thinking Mr. Madison right in doing what is impolitic and unconstitutional in Mr. Polk."

☞ The English Courts in India have decided that when a child chooses to embrace Christianity, or even to repair to the Missionary schools to be taught, his parents, on an arrest of habeas corpus, shall be denied reclaiming the child, if it has arrived, in their opinion, at years of discretion.—Heretofore, if under eighteen, the child was restored to its parents.

Consistency.—Massachusetts had an interest in the settlement of the north-eastern boundary; she has none in favor of Mexico. Mr. Webster then in his speech proposed, that unless certain conditions were complied with by the British government, "military possession should be taken of the whole territory in dispute before the next fourth of July. Now, in his late speech, he very consistently (?) considers it as against the laws of nations to take possession of disputed territory on the Rio Grande!—New York Globe.

For the Morning Post.

THE PRESIDENCY.—MR. BUCHANAN.

In the Post of last Friday, an article appeared, over the signature of "No Compromise," which appears to me to have been written by one who seems so devoted to his friend, that he pays very little regard to the preferences of the Democracy of the Western part of the State. I do not object to his eulogium on Mr. Dallas. On many occasions he has merited, and deservedly received, the approbation of the Democracy of Pennsylvania.—They stood by him in 1844, and sustained him triumphantly, against the virulent attacks of his political opponents. No regrets are felt for so doing. Nor is there any disposition cherished by the Democracy, to detract, in the smallest degree, from his just deserts. Had the writer of "No Compromise" contented himself with exhibiting for Mr. Dallas, instances of popular favor, no portion of the Democracy would have had any reason to object; but when he undertakes to assert that "Mr. Dallas will awaken greater zeal and carry more strength into the contest, than any man that can be placed in nomination," he challenges a scrutiny that may present a contrast, by no means favorable to the man of his choice. It will not be denied, that Mr. Buchanan has brought great abilities into the office with which he is clothed, and for which he has furnished many instances of his eminent qualifications as a Statesman. Let any intelligent man peruse his Report on the North east boundary question, while in the Senate, his views on the question of Jurisdiction, arising out of the burning of the Caroline; his masterly correspondence with the British Minister, about the North western boundary; and his powerful and persevering efforts to maintain peace and preserve amiable relations with Mexico, while effort was availing; and he will at once exclaim "James Buchanan is the greatest man of the country, and of the age."

Who, that feels any interest in our political history, does not remember the mortification felt by the entire Democracy of Pennsylvania, when Mr. Buchanan withdrew his name from the list of Presidential candidates in 1844? Who will forget the confusion which his withdrawal produced in our ranks at the time? Can it be denied, that in January of that year, he was the first choice of the Democracy of the Keystone? In this county, there were many influential democrats, who preferred Mr. Buchanan to Mr. Van Buren, and all others. An instance of this feeling found expression, at a large and enthusiastic meeting of the Democracy, held at the Washington hotel—Democratic head quarters—in the latter end of January, 1844. At that meeting George R. Riddle, Esq., presided, assisted by J. K. Moorehead, Esq., as vice President; and James Callan, Esq., as Secretary. A committee appointed for the purpose, reported a preamble and resolutions to the meeting, which were unanimously adopted. That Report, among other things, declared—"That the Hon. James Buchanan having withdrawn his name from the list of Presidential candidates, it becomes necessary for his friends and supporters to determine upon whom their next choice shall fall. The name of James Buchanan would have rallied the Democracy with unexampled unanimity; and the announcement of his withdrawal is heard with unfeigned regret. Nevertheless we honour his disinterested motives, and submit to his decision, in the confident hope, that, at no distant day, he will receive a ten fold reward for the noble sacrifice he has made, to what he considers the best interests of his party and his country. Being thus denied our first choice, upon whom shall we rally?"

From this extract enough appears, to show clearly, who was the first choice of the Democracy of Allegheny in 1844; and nothing has occurred, since that time, to lessen Mr. Buchanan in their estimation; but much to attach them to him. Candor must admit, that the time predicted by that meeting for Mr. Buchanan's elevation to the Presidency has arrived; and, although the Democracy submitted to his declination, under the then circumstances, no consideration will induce them to sanction [the withdrawal of] their first choice a second time. There is a peculiar propriety in pressing his claims now; as the Democracy of the Union concede to Pennsylvania, (provided she presents a man with the requisite qualifications, and whose sound constitutional views are sufficiently large to embrace the whole Union;) the honor of filling the Presidential chair with one of her own sons. What does Pennsylvania say?—What can she say? What does her Democracy say! With a voice that cannot be misunderstood, two thirds of the Democratic presses of the State—spreading the report from east to west, and from North to South—proclaim to the Democracy of the Union,—we present you JAMES BUCHANAN.

CHURUBUSCO.

COUNTERFEITERS ARRESTED.—Constable Gougher has been busy with counterfeiters for the past week. A man who received some of the spurious coin, gave information to the Mayor some days ago; and the officer was started in pursuit of a man named Hurd, who left on steamboat. He was taken in Ohio, and brought back, and is now in prison. Two others, who are suspected, have since been committed. They must wait till next May for trial before the U. S. Court.

☞ Ald. Steele yesterday committed a man who had been arrested by officer Hague, on suspicion of being a fugitive from justice in Ohio.

☞ Prof. Suman lectures on Animal Magnetism, on Thursday evening, in the Lecture Room of Dr. Pressly's Church, Allegheny city. He purposes to magnetize any person who may desire to be "put under the influence."

Every Whig editor and orator should, in these days, make himself thoroughly acquainted with the history of Rome, as its applicability to the present condition of our country, is remarkably analagous. Every act of Mr. Polk is, by Whig ingenuity, tortured into a similarity to some measure that caused the downfall of that mighty empire. The President is a Nero, every member of the cabinet a Tarquin or Caligula; and we suppose Mr. Webster must be a Cato, Corwin a Brutus, and Clay a Curtius, as he is already sacrificing himself for the salvation of his country.

DESPATCHES
BY ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.

EXPRESSLY FOR THE MORNING POST.

NEW YORK MARKET.

December 14, 3 P. M.

Flour—Quotations cannot be correctly given; the market is unsettled. Sales of Genesee at $6,12. There is a demand for shipment, but at low rates.

Grain—Market for Wheat is downward; Corn is steady, and good deal doing. Prime Yellow 78@80; Barley is in fair demand, and prices steady. No rates of Rye.

Provisions—The Pork market is heavy, without sales. Lower offers would be accepted. The sales of Provisions are only for the supply of a regular trade demand.

Cotton—The market is firm.

For the Morning Post.

MR. EDITOR:—The Dispatch, of last week, contained an editorial article, on the Ten Hour System, which I hope you will allow me to examine, and refute. The editor, in his argument—which I must say is remarkable neither for profundity of research nor correctness of reasoning—proceeds upon the supposition, that there is no antagonism between Capital and Labor. I am one of those, who believe that there is. I believe that the system prevailing at present, of the remuneration of Labor, and the distribution of wealth, is radically defective; and that its necessary accompaniments are: the miseries of poverty, inabilities of education, jealousies, outbreaks, and crime. Leaving every other consideration out of view, so long as you keep the great body of the masses in utter destitution of intelligence, you make them unfit for self-government; utterly incompetent to the suppression of every unwarrantable assumption of authority; and to the performance of those duties and responsibilities, which can be best known, appreciated, and met, under circumstances that secure contentment, happiness, and supremacy to the people. The masses demand the passage of a Ten Hour Law, because their interests demand it. They know what their interests demand, in this respect; for physical fatigue has taught them, better than your silk-stocking, upper crust, or emperico-political-economist folks can teach them. They tell you, in strong words, that the interference of the Legislature, by the passage of such a law, restricting the time of labor to Ten Hours—(and, let me suggest, imposing a penalty upon the Capitalist for every violation, through compulsion, of such restriction)—is necessary, to the mitigation of the hardships, severities, and wretchedness of their lot. Difficulties, doubtless, would arise. Matters would, for a period, be placed in an equivocal posture. But there would be ultimately sufficient indemnity. As to any abridgment of wages, upon the passage of the law in question, I apprehend none. Granting that such an abridgment might ensue, it would hasten the ripening of the harvest. It is idle to oppose the passage of such a law, by dissertations on the Supply and Demand doctrine. Give us a Ten Hour Law; and our condition cannot possibly be any worse than it is at present. I hope the big fists, the bone and sinew, the coarse jackets, the bold, brave men of the workshops, factories, and mines, will give the movement their assistance; and, it must succeed. The movement is not a perfect Panacea, as some presume, for the bad organization of social life. It is a step, an advancement, an embodied development of primary principle. If successful, it will be by the interchange of impartial opinion. With an unshackled Press, pouring light upon the popular mind, and struggling for the popular weal, with assemblages of the masses, actuated by a common impulse, and bound by the ties of a common brotherhood; and meeting together to deliberate upon the common interests; with these we can have nothing to dread, in the great conflict of Right, against Monetary Aggression and Monetary Misrule.

GRACCHUS.

CONNELLSVILLE RAILROAD.—See the advertisement signed by the President of the company, Wm. Larimer, jr.

☞ It is expected that our citizens generally will turn out to day, to attend the funeral procession of Col. Wm. B Roberts, whose remains will arrive on the De Witt Clinton.

☞ We are crowded for room to-day; we hope the letter list will be received as a substitute for local.

☞ Capt. Porter is expected in town to day.

☞ No additional candidates for the Mayoralty have been named since one o'clock on Monday morning.

☞ The Odd Fellows are making preparations for a Supper. Right.

☞ We can't mention that lawyer's name; we fear the law.

☞ Hunker is making extensive preparations for the hollidays. His establishment will shine out in a few days with all the brilliancy of gas lights.

☞ Sarsaparilla and Wild Cherry, are among the most valuable medicines in the Materia Medica.—They are both happily compounded in Dr. Woods' Sarsaparilla and Wild Cherry Bitters, put up in large bottles at 81 each. It is a good tonic or strengthening medicine in cases of General Debility, Dyspepsia, etc.

Sold at the HEALTH DEPOT of Valuable Medicines, between 3d and 4th streets, Pittsburgh. See large advertisement in another column. dec11

Death from a Slight Cold.—By neglecting those salutary precautions which common sense dictates, many, very many, fall victims to their imprudence. We have seen the young bride, blooming as it were, as the bird of paradise and the fair flower of hope, the pride of her father and the joy of her mother—her cheek flushed with anticipation, and her eye beaming with the soft expression of love—the gay dreams of life dancing on her fancy with the rich and variegated tints of the rainbows promise. We have seen all this changed—aye, the wedding garments for a shroud and the bridal chamber for this sepulchre of the dead; and all this from neglecting a common COLD. Now, before it is too late, use DR. ROGERS' LIVERWORT AND TAR, which gives immediate relief as thousands of our most intelligent families now admit of its most extraordinary cures. The gay, the beautiful, and the young speak forth its praise; and will, so long as it makes positive cures, and cheers the despairing family fireside. This medicine has made some of the most remarkable cures of Consumption, as can be seen in the certificates which can be had at J. C Kneeland's; also at Messrs. Kidd & Co.'s, the Agents. It also breaks up the most distressing COUGH, in a few hours time. dec10
