Major General Quitman. This heroic General and accomplished civilian arrived, unheralded, in this city, on Friday evening, that his stay was so short, that our citizens had not the opportunity of paying that attention to him, which was due to the mobile and generous character of the man who led Prenty Lyantans into the " imminent deadly breach," and gave the opportunity Saturday, the General was called on by many of our citizens, without respect to party. He passed the evening with the friends of his early days, Hon. A. Keysyng glorious Democratic triumph. Can Mr. Buchanan be Nominated at Bal-timore! Now that the Democracy of Pennsylvania have declared Jas. Buchanan to be the man, who above all others they would prefer as their presidential all others they would prefer as their presidential candidate for the next term, we frequently hear the question propounded which heads this article. To this question we invariably respond in the affirmative, and say: It is not only possible for Mr. Butter, and say: It is not only possible for Mr. Butter, and say: It is not only possible the National MANAN to receive the endorsement of the National Convention, but it is highly probable, may almost morally certain. We have many reasons for the faith that is within as.

First of all, Mr. Buchanan comes before that Convention with the endorsement of the glorious old Keystone; the disinterested and self sacrideing State, that has never furnished a President herself, but that has, in many a perilous and doubtful contest, rescued the Democratic Flagship from impending disas-ter—the State that gave to Annnew Jackson the unprecedented majority of 50,804—that saved the election of James K. Polk, despite all the money and power of the tariff lords—the State, that was the first to send her brave sons to the battle fields of Mexico, and that has, in all the trying and perilous Mexico, and that have ever threatened our institu-tions, faithfully defended and preserved them.— Pennsylvania now demands the next presidential andidate, not as a boon, but as an act of the simest justice. She presents herself to the representives of the American Democracy, not in the att tatives of the American Democracy, not in the atti-tude of a trembling medicant, hat in hand, asking for alms—but in the lofty attitude of Commonwealth Source in the control of Commonwealth lovereignty, demanding her rights, already too long ostponed and neglected.

The candidate, in whom Pennsylvania desires to e thus respected, is worthy of herself, and higher raise than this we could not utter. As an Orator, Statesman, and Patriot, he has no superior in the and, and lew equals. He often ranquished Clay and Webster in the jutellectual conflicts of the Senate Chamber, and he vanquished proud England's chosen Ambassader in D plomacy. The Chamber met again; but the populace over powered the action of a majority of that body, when the troops were all withdrawn.

At noon, not a soldier was to be seen. The troops of the line have fraternized with the National Guards, and with the people.

All intercourse with the cities on the river are cut off; but I hear distant firing going on every instant.

While I write, a strong guard is being organized, and a Republic, on the model of the United States is proposed.

A procession of persons, in white, with drums, and armed, have just passed, carrying with them the throne from the throne room of the Tuilleries; in triumph, singing the Marseelles Hymn.
